

GARMENT ROUNDUP STARTS

UNPACKING, CHECKING AND SORTING AT HEADQUARTERS

A NEW FROCK BRINGS A SMILE

New garments for the needy will be collected today and tomorrow in sacks like those held by Mrs. E. D. Wilhite (left) and Mrs. H. A. Baker as members of the Indianapolis branch, Needlework Guild of America, continue their annual garment roundup begun yesterday.

Unpacking, checking, sorting and repacking are the duties of several members at the First United Lutheran Church where the roundup headquarters are located this year. In the 33 years since the guild's organization, over 187,500 garments and articles of house-

Players' Club Begins Practice This Week; Scot Talks at Tudor

Group's First Performance to Be Nov. 26; Founding Marked at Hall; Orchard School Parents Open Fall Program.

By VIRGINIA MOORHEAD MANNON

Rehearsals for the Players Club's first performance of the season Nov. 26 at the Civic Theater are to begin this week. A women's quartet will present Babette Hughes' exuberant satire of feminine foibles, "If the Shoe Pinches," in which the rattle-brained leading lady spends most of her time trying on shoes.

Howard Burnmann's "Quiet, Please!" principally concerned with the long feud of silence carried on by two old farmers living in a one-room cabin divided by chalk line partition, will have a cast of four women and three men. Dr. John Ray Newcomb is to direct the two one-act plays.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Sparks, who head the committee for the November production, will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stokely, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Munk and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Bokwater. A dance at the Athenaeum will follow the performance.

Grandchildren to Fete Mothers, Faculty

The Grandchildren's Society of Tudor Hall will entertain mothers and faculty members at a tea in the school residence at 3:30 p. m. today following the celebration of Founders' Day at 2:40 p. m. at the school. Art Association Hears Peat Talk

It takes two people to make a work of art—the artist and his audience—Wilbur D. Peat, director of the John Herron Art Museum, told members of the Indianapolis Art Association yesterday in the first of a series of five art appreciation talks on Tuesday afternoons in November. Mr. Peat illustrated his lecture with examples of Egyptian, Medieval, Italian, Renaissance, Dutch, 18th Century and modern French paintings.

"A work of art may appeal to you because of sentimental associations, historical background or merely because of the artist's use of line and color. An added point in the enjoyment of art comes through the artist's capacity to realize the envelope in which we exist," he said.

In discussing other important factors in the enjoyment of art he emphasized the ability of artists with imagination "to create for our eyes satisfying colors." The chance happenings which occur after canvases have left the artists' studios may also be the means of arousing our appreciation and interest, he added.

Contributions Will Be Shown This Evening

Garments collected by the Indianapolis branch of the Needlework Guild of America in their annual roundup will be displayed to the public today from 3 to 9 p. m. at the First United Lutheran Church.
