

1000 MEN TO WORK ON FLOOD CONTROL PROJECT STATE GARDEN CLUBS CONDEMN CUTTING OF TREES

About 1000 men will work for nearly two years to complete the flood control program now under way from Cold Springs Road to 30th St. along White River. A general view of the Cold Springs Road end shows the levee, which will be topped with a boulevard, skirting the river and in the deep background can be seen the fill that will be the extension of 38th St.

SEEK CASE FOR PAY LAW TEST

Litigation Delayed Until Airtight Grounds for Suit Are Found.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Government and organized labor are both walking on eggs as they prepare to launch test cases against suspected violators of the Wage-Hour Act.

On Thanksgiving Day the act will have been in full effect one month. Hundreds of complaints against employers have been received, but officials will not say when the first litigation is likely.

They are exceedingly anxious to pick an airtight case. Attorneys for both the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. are co-operating by trying to prevent ill-considered suits by aggrieved workers.

The staff of Maj. A. L. Fletcher, Assistant Wage-Hour Administrator in charge of co-operation and enforcement, is making a routine check of all noncompliance complaints, of which some 550 had been received at last report.

Some Complaints Adjusted

Scores of these are being discarded as unjustified, and others are being selected for further inquiry. One or more of these latter will presumably be selected eventually for a lawsuit.

Both the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. report that some complaints received by them have been adjusted voluntarily after conferences with the offending employers—sometimes with the help of representatives of the Wage-Hour Division.

"We are planning to go to bat in court only where a substantial and flagrant violation is found," said Boris Shishkin, A. F. of L. economist.

"It probably will be some time before we start anything. In the meantime, of course, we have no way of controlling the individual unions. I know of some instances where unions have planned suits for back pay, on behalf of members. In at least one of these cases the employer finally came across, under pressure, and this may happen in the others before the cases actually reach the court.

C. I. O. to Co-operate

"The real problem, it seems to us, will come when wages higher than 25 cents an hour are set up in certain industries under the 'industry committee' procedure. When this is done, and some employers within such an industry try to chisel, you may be sure the A. F. of L. will move in."

At the office of John Abt, recently appointed by C. I. O. leaders to supervise activities in connection with the Wage-Hour Act, it was said that any legal action by the C. I. O. probably would be taken in collaboration with the Wage-Hour Division.

A number of violations have been reported to Mr. Abt's office, and in at least one instance the employer has capitulated after conferences.

DEFENSE PREPARES PLEA OF INSANITY

FT. WAYNE, Nov. 22 (U. P.).—Attorneys for Adrian Miller today are preparing an insanity plea for the confessed murderer of a Winchester, Ind., farm girl. They secured a brief postponement of hearings on the case in circuit court yesterday.

Miller is expected to ask for an insanity commission report. His one hope of escaping trial for the slaying of Alice May Gorton here Oct. 13 is in having the commission find him insane, his attorneys said.

Prosecutor C. Byron Hayes says he will file an answer to Miller's plea, contending that the former Racine, Wis., engineering student and sailor was of right mind when he strangled the 17-year-old Gorton girl.

Wood-Chopping Finished, Protest Group Told

Informed that no more trees will be felled for the White River flood control project between 30th St. and Cold Spring Road, the Indiana Garden Clubs today entered a protest to any other tree-felling projects that may be planned.

The trees—about one hundred of them skirting White River in the project area—were felled Thursday by WPA workmen, all in a period of a couple of hours.

WPA supervisors in charge said the trees either were unsound or were too large to be moved. They said that the river channel where the trees were standing will be more than doubled and that, therefore, it was necessary to get them out of the way.

More than one hundred sound little elms and other trees were dug up and transplanted, the supervisors declared.

When completed in about two years, the project will have provided an extension of 38th St. across the river and the canal to Cold Spring Road, and a boulevard atop the levee which will skirt the river.

The Park Board, Mayor Boettcher and members of the Marion County Flood Control Board all have approved the plans, which called for the felling of the trees as necessary to the project.

John K. Jennings, Indiana WPA Administrator, said the WPA did not initiate the project and therefore accepted no responsibility for cutting the trees.

The Garden Club resolution said clubs protested the marring of Indianapolis boulevards by the Flood Control Board and by the WPA, now or at any future time, and asked that "proper publicity be given any contemplated move to destroy natural scenic beauty along our roads and drives."

The Conservation Department of the Indiana State Garden Clubs yesterday passed a resolution condemning the cutting of trees on this and similar projects. Mrs. H. P. Willerth (left) is committee chairman, and Mrs. Walter P. Morton is Indiana Garden Club president. Mrs. Willerth said more than 300 trees have been felled in the Woolen gardens, also.

6-Year-Old Daughter of Mute May Learn to Speak.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 22 (U. P.).—Psychologists believed today that within two years they could make a normal child of 6-year-old Annabelle Barton, who has spent most of her life isolated in one room with her mother, communicating in a sign language only they understand.

The mother, Addie Belle Barton, 26, and the child, were separated today for the first time. Annabelle was in the Children's Hospital, being prepared for an operation to straighten her bowed legs. Psychologists from Ohio State University undertook to teach her to speak.

The mother, who is unmarried, was cared for by relatives at Mt. Vernon. Her grandmother explained that she had been a mute since the age of 2, when she was struck in the eye with a shot from a B-B gun and was so terrified by the sight of an X-ray machine in a doctor's office that she lost her speech.
