

ACCUSED JUDGE REPORTED 'OUT'

Resigns U. S. Bench After
Charges of Taking Money,
Summers Says.

sent to Rep. Summers (D. Tex.), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, charged today that Martin T. Manton, senior judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, or corporations in which Judge Manton was interested, had received sums of money from individuals or corporations acting for individuals or corporations interested in matters handled by the Court.

"In view of recent public developments and of your public comment expressing interest in the matter," Mr. Dewey wrote Mr. Summers, "I deem it my duty to lay before you certain facts in my possession."

"If, upon the foregoing facts, the House of Representatives should assume jurisdiction of this matter, I am prepared to present evidence before your committee in support thereof."

The House Judiciary Committee has, in the past, originated impeachment proceedings against Federal judges. Attorney General Frank Murphy announced on Saturday that he was investigating "certain" allegations concerning Judge Manton to determine whether there was a basis for Federal action.

Press Gets Copies
Mr. Dewey, in his letter, copies of which he distributed to the press, detailed what he said were the results of his investigation of six cases.

Mr. Dewey said that Archie M. Andrews, now deceased, controlled in 1938 and 1937 the Dictograph Products Corp., Inc., and a number of other corporations. He said that George M. Spector, an insurance agent, was a confidential agent of Mr. Andrews. Mr. Spector, Mr. Dewey alleged, received certain sums from various of Mr. Andrews' corporations. Mr. Dewey said that corporations wholly owned or controlled by Judge Manton received from Mr. Spector a total of $32,000.

Afterward, on April 12, 1937, the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the lower court decision favoring Shick. Mr. Dewey said that the court had been divided and that Judge Manton voted for the reversal.

"The McGrath transaction," John M. McGrath was appointed as one of three trustees for the Prudence Co. which was reorganizing under the Bankruptcy Act, on Feb. 1, 1935. Mr. Dewey said he had been recommended to the district judge by Judge Manton.

WITNESS AGAINST HINES KILLS SELF

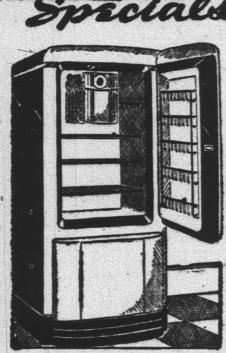

Weinberg Suicide May Hurt
Dewey's Case.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (U. P.) — District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey carried on his case against James J. Hines, Tammany leader, with two major witnesses today. Suicide robbed him of his third—38-year-old George Weinberg, a gangster, who this week was to have told a jury again that he paid $1000 a week to Hines to protect the Dutch Schultz lottery racket.

Weinberg put a bullet through his brain yesterday in the bathroom of an old mansion on the outskirts of White Plains, N. Y., where he was kept in protective custody with the two other key Hines case witnesses. Weinberg, who helped manage Schulz' $20,000,000 policy business, couldn't be shaken at Hines' first trial in his story that thousands of dollars had been paid to Hines. Whether that testimony is admissible in the second trial will determine how large a hole his suicide left in Mr. Dewey's case.

The trial continued today as Lloyd Stryker, defense lawyer, cross-examined Joseph M. Ison, charged with a part in the lottery conspiracy.

Representative Urges Board
Of Inquiry to Include Teaching Methods.

A House resolution asking that the Senate Textbook Investigating Committee extend its inquiry to include teaching methods and contents of certain texts was introduced today by Rep. Paul S. Brady (R. Muncie).

The resolution, which does not require Senate concurrence, was referred to the Public Works Committee by Speaker James Knapp who excluded pages from the chairman while the measure was being discussed. The committee was to study it at 1:30 p. m. today.

Declarer said that he was speaking as a father as well as a member of the Legislature. Rep. Brady mounted the roll call clerk's rostrum and began reading passages which he claimed were profane from a text "Adventures in Appreciation."

"I say that this text is absolutely useless for any school children to have in his possession, much less to have to study it as a text in school," Rep. Brady said.

"I don't know whether this book is designed to break down the morale of our school pupils or not, but I do know that books of this type are not fit for school children to read."

The resolution said in part:

"Be it resolved that this House recommend that said investigation include and cover a thorough inquiry into the teachings, and particularly historical and moral teachings, carried to our school children through the medium of school textbooks heretofore adopted by said board and that this body urge specifically the investigation of the book entitled 'Adventures in Appreciation,' adopted for high school literature study."

The resolution also praised work of the Senate committee and said that an extension of this investigation "of great interest and affects vitally the entire citizenry of the State."
