Children Aid Baptist Mission Society to Meet

Join in Study Courses, Sell Cross Buns.

Children in city churches seem to have caught the spirit of the Lenten season.

Young Lutherans and Presbyterians are busy with new literature and study courses while offerings for missions are the goal of Episcopalians. In both Catholic and Protestant parishes instruction classes are being held in preparation for church membership, the first Holy Communion and confirmation.

Orders for Hot Cross Buns are being taken by All Saints Cathedral school children for the Lenten mission buns. The project recalls the ancient custom of hawking Hot Cross Buns from door to door on Good Friday. The cross on the bun, according to legend, was to protect the house from fire and the four of which the bun was made would never mold.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Text: I Peter 3:8-18

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Editor of Advance

ONE recalls in connection with this lesson the words of Jesus to Peter, "Simon, Satan hath desired to have thee that he may sift thee as wheat, but I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not. When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

Here we have a strengthened and regenerated Peter, fulfilling this admonition of his Master, bringing his word of exhortation to Christian living to the sorely pressed and tempted disciples in the early church, and telling them how they may find the strength and help which he himself has found.

The religious experience that urges upon them is a common experience of those who are "likeminded, compassionate, loving as brethren, tenderhearted, humbleminded." Christians, he reminds them, do not render evil for evil or reviling for reviling. On the contrary, they render good for evil, and it is for this that God has called them out of His own infinite grace and mercy.

FROM this major exhortation he turns to suggest some things in a practical philosophy of life. If one would live well and happily, let him restrain his tongue, let him turn from evil and do good, let him seek peace and pursue it. The Christian is living under the watchful eye of the Lord, whose ears are open unto their supplications.

Nothing can harm a truly good man, for even if suffering comes to him, for righteousness sake, there is blessing. The way of attaining this good life is to sanctify Christ as Lord in the heart, for thereby one can give a reason for the hope that is in him and he can have a good conscience, even when there are those who revile him.

Peter does not promise these disciples immunity from sorrow or suffering. He points out that Christ has suffered, and that His followers are in the way of the cross. But he says that it is better that we should suffer for well-doing rather than for evil-doing.

HERE is a plain, practical Christian philosophy of life by one who had himself gone through a great deal of trial and temptation, strain and suffering. Peter had found the way by which weak men may be made strong, and by which impulsive and hasty men could attain a stability and persistency of life and purpose. His words come to be tried and sorely tempted men with the authority of experience and with the power of faith.

Perhaps it is worth while to point out how essentially the apostles agree when they present the nature of the Christian life and the exhortation to live it.

Paul and Peter may not always have agreed on questions of law and discipline, but there is no difference between Paul's exhortation to Christian love and Peter's when it comes to defining Christianity in terms of character and conduct.

10th Year to Be Celebrated by Two Churches; Epworth Leagues to Give Cantata; Many Revivals to Begin.

By EMMA RIVERS MILNER

Two Indianapolis Baptist leaders are to vote on a plan now being formulated to unite the social agencies of the Northern Baptist Convention into a Council for Christian Social Progress.

The 34 Baptist Churches in Indianapolis and the vicinity, those in Indiana and the other 35 states embraced by the Northern Convention will be affected by the plan when officially adopted.

The Northern Convention General Council (executive committee) is to give the plan preliminary consideration at the Chicago meeting April 12 and 13, according to Dr. Carleton W. Atwater, First Baptist Church pastor.

The plan is scheduled to be voted on at the Northern Baptist Convention in Los Angeles in June. Eugene C. Foster, General Council member, expects to attend the Chicago meeting. Rpt. Mr. Foster and Dr. Atwater, who is Ministers' Council president and a member of various national Baptist boards, are to be present at Los Angeles.

The purpose of the new council as expressed in the current Christian Century is to encourage people to make Christian ethics the standard of their personal lives. Facts and analyses are to be presented by which social problems may be evaluated in the light of Christian principles.

Seek Christian Education

The privilege of individuals to think and speak conscientiously, the right of minorities and the necessity for separation of church and state are to be read by the Council. The campaign against intoxicants and plans to promote Christian education in schools are to be studied and promoted. Industrial reconciliation also is to be promoted as well as methods for dealing with war and curtailment of civil liberties.

The council of between 17 and 19 members will include a pastor, a layman and a lay woman, a Christian sociologist, and 14 boards and societies representatives. An executive secretary will be employed and specialists will be consulted when needed. The council is scheduled to meet least semiannually and the executive committee, at least semiannually.

The Rev. Robert F. Turner will deliver the first of his series of addresses on the fundamental of the Gospel at the Church of Christ, 40th St. and Capitol Ave., beginning at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow.

The Rev. C. W. Ruth has come from Chattanooga, Tenn., to give services at the North Side Church of the Nazarene tomorrow morning and evening and every day next week at 7:30 p. m. The Rev. Mr. Ruth said religious work here for 40 years before going West.

A Lenten Crusade will begin in the Beville Avenue Evangelical Church tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. and continue each evening at 7:30, except Saturday, until March 31. The Rev. Raymond C. Brown, Grand Rapids, pastor, will be the speaker.

"Any program for youth that overlooks the religious element is, in my opinion, doomed to failure," John P. Rooney Jr., new field secretary for the Indianapolis branch of the Catholic Youth Organization, said today.

Mr. Rooney arrived this week to take over his office in the Catholic Community Center. He has been attending the School of Social Work in the Catholic University, Washington, D. C. the last year, and is a New York Teacher's College graduate.

The local C. Y. O. is under the direct authority of its president, the Most Rev. Joseph E. Ritter, bishop of the Diocese of Indianapolis, affiliated with the national organization and will "function parochially." The Rev. Fr. Charles T. Schoettkelotte is director.

In all Christian Science Churches, the lesson-sermon subject for tomorrow is "Matter," and the Golden Text, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Ex. 20:7.

Five Anniversaries Celebrated This Week

Four anniversary celebrations are scheduled for the coming week in city congregations and one anniversary forward movement campaign.
