

Classy Field of 384 To Perform in Butler's Indoor Track Carnival

Eliminations in Four Events Run Off This Afternoon; Parade to Precede Opening This Evening; 10,000 Spectators Expected.

Butler's multi-colored athletic event, the Indoor Relays, will write another chapter in its seven-year history when the finals get underway at 7 o'clock tonight in the Fieldhouse.

Elimination trials were to be held this afternoon in the 60-yard dash, hurdles, shot put and broad jump to reduce the field of contestants for tonight's competition.

Proceeding tonight's opening, Miss Shirley Sarsfield, the Relays Queen, will lead a parade of officials and contestants around the track. Officials, headed by William Hargiss, will be dressed in formal attire.

Miss Sarsfield then will ascend her throne, from where she will award $1000 in trophies during the night's performance.

Honorary officials tonight will be Lieut. Gov. Schriener, Mayor Sullivan and Wallace C. Lee. Mr. Schriener has replaced Governor Townsend, who is vacationing in Florida.

Crowd of 10,000 Expected

Relays officials are anticipating 10,000 spectators for tonight's year's attendance when 22 schools and 358 athletes took part. This year's entry numbers 28 schools and 384 individuals.

It will be Michigan University against the field as far as team scoring goes. Since the Wolverines have won the Relays university championship five times, other strong schools like Notre Dame and Ohio State are expected to furnish strong competition to replace the Wolverines.

Butler, the host team, will defend its college team championship.

Greer After Dash Mark

Two individual athletes who have traveled the farthest distance for the Relays are Ralph Halla, mile and a half runner from Yankton College, S. D., and Richard Glanville, a pole vaulter from Columbia University.

Willbur Greer, Michigan State, defending title holder in the 60-yard dash, will go after Jesse Owens' record performance of 1935. Greer was the recent winner in the 75-yard dash at the Illinois Relays, where he equaled the world's and American indoor mark.

JOBS AND PAY SHOW INCREASE FOR FEBRUARY

Employment Here Up 22 Per Cent Over Year Ago, State Reports.

Local employment rose 22 per cent and payrolls were up almost 32 per cent over February, 1938, George J. Smith, Indianapolis district manager of the State Employment Service announced today.

In the manufacturing field, employment increased 3 per cent and payrolls rose 4 per cent, while the State increases were about 3 per cent for both employment and payrolls. Both indices were considered above seasonal expectations for the 166 manufacturers, he said, as they would normally show a 1.4 per cent increase.

A net State gain of approximately 1000 factory workers, exclusive of office employees and executives, was 2.6 per cent greater than the number employed during the January period and 4.7 per cent greater than the 1938 figure.

The $1,200,000 Indiana payroll increase over February, 1938, was attributed almost entirely to expansion in the average hours worked a week, he said.

Durable Goods Gain Most

Durable goods groups showed greater increases in both employment and payrolls than did the consumer goods manufacturers throughout the State. The former groups used 9600 more employees during February than a year ago.

In the more than a million-dollar payroll increase, steel mills reported a $300,000 gain and automobile and parts factories added almost $275,000.

The average Indiana factory worker a year ago made an average of 67.3 cents an hour and today he makes 68 cents an hour, Mr. Smith pointed out. The week working period increased 16.7 per cent, he said.

It was found, he said, that the average hours worked rose more than the increase in the average weekly pay from January to February resulting in a decrease of 9 per cent in average hourly earnings.

This was attributed by him to changes in the character of employment rather than to actual rate changes, despite the fact that more employers were affected by reported wage cuts than by wage rate increases.
