INFLATION PERIL IS DISCERNED IN U. S. ARMS COST

Financing Must Come From Taxes, Prof. Jome Declares Before Realtors.

America's huge armament program, unless financed by taxation, can become America's greatest threat in the direction of inflation, according to Hiram L. Jome, DePaul University economics professor.

He spoke at the regular noon luncheon of the Indianapolis Real Estate Board yesterday.

While Prof. Jome said he did not believe the United States is headed toward inflation, he added that if the Government attempts to pay for the new armaments by issuing bonds or paper money, inflation would not be far off.

"The only form of 'hedge' against an inflationary movement," he stated, "would be to purchase heavily mortgaged real estate or industrial stocks of companies owning their own raw materials."

Costs Would Increase.

"It would not help to buy stocks of firms purchasing their materials since their cost would rise automatically. Neither would it help to buy stocks of railroads and public utilities because their costs would increase."

"The most effective 'hedge' would be to own land or better still, land under which there were mineral deposits."

Prof. Jome also said that real estate ownership was the greatest bulwark against a revolution in the United States.

"Inflation would permit a proper adjustment between farm and industrial production and prices, stimulate buying and lift business from its doldrums," Prof. Jome said. "But it would also widen our middle classes, create a reckless indifference toward the future and kill the continuity of investments."

Investors Demand Stability

"All investments are made with a reasonable belief in their future stability. This would disappear under inflation."

"There is a common belief that we need and want more money in the United States. We already have three and a half billion idle dollars in Federal Reserve member banks. We don't need more money, we do need and want more production."

Prof. Jome said that America has not felt the complete effect of the 50-cent dollar. It was felt immediately in foreign trade, he said, but because other countries devalued their dollar also the result of that "money-juggling" has not yet reached the people as a whole. He said he could not predict what the effect eventually would be.

FRIENDS AID SAILOR HELD IN SLAYING

A petition attesting to the character of William Dowdy Vaughn will be sent to authorities at Los Angeles where the 17-year-old Indianapolis sailor is accused of murder.

David Nichols, his former employer said today.

Vaughn is blamed for the hammering of Clarence L. McCann, Long Beach musician, near San Pedro Saturday.

Mr. Nichols said that the youth worked for more than a year at his grocery at 607 S. Alabama St. before joining the Navy.

"Billy was a fine boy," Mr. Nichols said, adding that about 100 persons already have signed the document.

HOT DOG SPEEDER GIVEN FINE OF $15

CLEVELAND, March 31 (U. P.)—Municipal Judge Perry A. Frey asked Frank Roytz why he had been driving 65 miles an hour late at night on a downtown street. "I was hurrying to get a hot dog," Judge," said Roytz. "When I get hungry I've just got to have a hot dog."

"This one you didn't get will cost you $15," said the judge.

U. S. GROUP 'CARRIES COALS TO NEWCASTLE

NEW YORK, March 31 (U. P.)—Howard Y. Bary, former general manager of the Hagenback-Wallace Circus, today filed in Federal Court a $307,000 damage suit against W. C. Fields, comedian, Universal Pictures and others.

He charged that the picture "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man" was pirated from a play he wrote and that he had sole rights to the American services of Alvero Pietro Blackman, animal hypnotist, and his animals, which appeared in the movie. Mr. Bary asked an injunction against further distribution of the film.

FIELDS DEFENDANT IN $307,000 SUIT

U. S. GROUP 'CARRIES COALS TO NEWCASTLE

NEW YORK, March 31 (U. P.)—The American Mining Congress, in defiance of the century old adage, is "carrying coals to Newcastle."

The Congress sent to the mayor of Newcastle, England, famous center of coal production, a package of American coal wrapped in cellophane and an invitation to British coal interests to join a mining convention in Cincinnati, April 24.
