

TWO DIE FROM AUTO INJURIES; EIGHT ARE HURT

21-Year-Old Youth Held in Burglaries, Hit-and-Run Accident.

Two Indianapolis men were dead today as the result of traffic accidents, one of which happened in the city. Eight persons were reported injured in 13 overnight crashes.

Meanwhile, police said they had obtained a confession from a 21-year-old man arrested in connection with burglaries and a hit and run accident in which three persons were injured.

Those who died of traffic accident injuries were Claude DeMaree, 48, of 403 N. East St., struck at Michigan and East Sts. Thursday night, and Daniel Pope, 52, of 3437 W. Washington St., who was injured Easter Sunday in an auto accident near Anderson and died in an Anderson hospital.

Car Hits Signal

William A. Clark, 25, of 617 W. Vermont St., and John H. Ross, 29, of 865 W. 27th St., were treated at City Hospital after the car which Clark was driving struck a railroad signal abutment and glanced off into a car driven by Ewing Steel, 40, of 310 Lincoln St.

Mr. Clark is at City Hospital with head injuries.

Miss Gertrude Higginbotham, 19, of 136 S. Sheridan Ave., and Miss Mary Taylor, 16, of 131 S. Sheridan Ave., were treated for injuries at City Hospital after the car in which they were passengers and one driven by Samuel P. Burch, 41, of 207 N. Temple Ave., collided at Columbia Ave. and 22d St. The car in which the girls were riding was driven by Marion LeVelle, 32, of 1909 N. Capitol Ave.

Frank Beatty, 61, of 823 Fowler St., received scalp lacerations and a leg injury when he stepped from a safety zone into the path of a car driven by Dehren Garrott, 19, of 626 Massachusetts Ave., at Massachusetts Ave. and East St. He was taken to City Hospital.

Two Burned in Crash

Two men were burned on the hands when they tried to extinguish flames which enveloped their truck after it crashed into a concrete abutment on W. Morris St. 4700 block.

They were Clyde Ward and Prince Herzog, employees of A. R. Wilson, piano mover of 702 Iowa St., whose truck they were driving. They were treated by the Fire Department first aid squad.

Help or questioning in the hit-and-run accident was Lewis Thompson, 19, of N. Capitol Ave., who has admitted both the accident and four burglaries, police said. He is charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

Those injured in the accident, which happened Thursday at Capitol Ave. and 12th St., were Martin von Behrens, 44, of 226 W. 12th St.; his wife, Hazel, 38, and their daughter, Mavis, 13. They are in Methodist Hospital.

Confession Claimed

Police said Thompson admitted stealing the auto from a parking lot and the license plates it bore from a car parked in the 1500 block, N. Illinois St.

Police said he leaped from the car when the crash occurred and ran. Shortly thereafter he allegedly tried to burglarize the apartment of Miss Nellie German, 1005 N. Pennsylvania St. She called police and they captured him.

'Sandhogs' Near Goal in Tunnel Sewer

Working 28 feet underground these WPA "sandhogs" have only 500 feet of ground to excavate to place the steel liner plates. Straw and boards are used to support possible "cave-ins."

E. 38TH ST. TUBE READY IN JULY

Only Incompleted Section Lies Between Central And College.

The $150,000 sewer project on 38th St. was nearing completion today as fiber-helmeted "sandhogs" working 28 feet underground, mined out the last 500 feet of the mile-long tunnel.

The 10-foot high concrete-lined tunnel, first of its type in Indiana, is being constructed by the WPA and sponsored by the city.

To relieve threat of flooded basements and water-choked streets on the North Side.

An average of 400 WPA workers have been employed on the project 24 hours a day, six days a week since last August, boring ahead at the rate of 26 feet a day. When completed, about July 15, it will stretch from Fall Creek west to Central Ave.

Section Uncompleted

The uncompleted portion is between College and Central Aves.

Seven shafts have been sunk at 800-foot intervals from Fall Creek to Central Ave. Working in two shafts at one time, crews of sandhogs tunnel toward one another.

So exact have been the calculations thus far that in no case when the crews meet in the center of the 800-foot intervals between the shafts has there been more than one-half an inch variation in the level of the tunnels," Mr. Johnson said.

Steel Sheetings Installed

As tunneling proceeds, other workers bolt steel sheeting around the tunnel walls, forming the outside core of the sewer. Another and smaller form sheet is placed within the outside core and concrete is forced in the intervening nine-inch space.

George Woods, WPA supervisor, said it takes three hours to pour 500 feet of concrete from the machine stationed on street level and 12 hours for it to harden.

Water seepage was corrected with installation of a water pump with a capacity of 75,000 gallons an hour.

Mr. Woods said the ground is soft sand and gravel and care must be taken to prevent cave-ins. There have been no injuries to any workers thus far, WPA officials state.

No Tanks

Barber's 'Home-Made' Poles Stolen, Stripes And All.

AL HOBBS, an energetic Irvington barber, is not angry, but he's pretty puzzled about the way things have been going.

For a barber pole, he buys a worn-out hot water tank and paints red and white stripes around it. (Total cost 10 cents at a junk yard—no real value.)

Nevertheless, in the last few weeks, three of these have been stolen. Last time he drove around the entire neighborhood, supposing they had been discarded by the pranksters in a ditch somewhere. But he couldn't find them.

What he wants to know is:

Who stole them? Why? What did the thieves do with them? And what sense does it all make?

HOOSIERS IN WASHINGTON—By Daniel Kidney

WASHINGTON, April 22.—

Having heard Senator Taft (R. O.) deliver something like his Gridiron dinner speech at the "Republicans On The March" dinner here Thursday night, most of the Indiana G. O. P. congressmen today seem to favor Governor Bricker as Ohio's favorite son for the Republican presidential nomination.

For Senator Taft's talk took about all of the pep out of the pep meeting at the Willard Hotel. The general effect of it was well illustrated by G. O. P. Chairman John D. M. Hamilton, who, although seated at the speakers' table, divested himself of a whole series of cavernous yawns.

The Ohio Crown Prince's unpopular appeal could be summed up by a story which is told of Al Smith going to hear Teddy Roosevelt II, when both were gubernatorial candidates in New York state. The Brown Derbyman emerged with the comment:

"The boy ain't there."

Of course Young Teddy had a more difficult and dynamic mark to shoot at when imitating his father. As President of the United States, the father of Senator Taft spent a rather somber term. Former Senator Jim Watson (D. Ind.) tells of going to the White House to discuss important business with President Taft and having him fall asleep in his chair after a very, very hearty meal.

Whenever this would happen on nice spring days, the towering Hoosier Senator would quietly send for his hat and soon would be cheering the Big Train from a good grandstand seat in the Washington ball yard.

According to "Young Bob" Taft, the New Deal has been a complete flop in both its foreign and domestic policies and something should be done about it. Just what he doesn't say.

Indiana's own "Young Bob" Rep. Robert A. Grant, took a bow at the "Republicans On The March" dinner. He was on the arrangements committee and with the exception of the Taft speech and that of Governor Baldwin (R. Conn.), which was in the best many Democratic minds here, but particularly in the best minds around Senator Minton's office.

Advent of the Indiana D. A. R. for their annual meeting here created quite a fuss among the congressmen's wives.

Since Mrs. Charles A. Halleck is an active daughter, she took the leadership in arranging a reception for the visitors at the Congressional Club. When it began to look a bit too Republican for them, the wives of the Democratic congressmen took a hand under the leadership of Mrs. William H. Larrabee.

The upshot was that when the reception came off on Thursday afternoon, one of the guests came over to Mrs. Halleck and gushed: "My dear, you look so sweet. Really, you look too nice to be a Republican."

That Kokomo speech in which Homer Capehart accused Paul V. McNutt of New Dealism has proven quite a boost for the former Hoosier Governor here.

For one of the questions which has been raised in regard to the McNutt for President "middle-of-the-road" campaign was about his progressivism. According to Mr. Capehart, the hopeful Hoosier G. O. P. favorite son, Paul and not President Roosevelt was the New Deal pioneer.

Hurrah! The New Dealers here shout, but they still are checking the facts.

Mr. Capehart already has become a "problem child" for the G. O. P. high command here. They think his candidacy for President by Vice President is too much to ask as a payoff for one Cornfield Conference, even if it did cost $30,000.

Since Governor Townsend decided he said that he isn't going to run for public office again and since the Constitution of Indiana provides that a Governor cannot succeed himself, what office will he run for?

SUNDAY CROWD MAY SET MARK AT HOME SHOW

Exposition Ends Tomorrow; Foley of FHA Calls Local Building 'Healthy.'

Indianapolis was described as "healthy" and of real importance by Raymond M. Foley, Federal Housing Administrator of Michigan.

Mr. Foley was in Indianapolis to attend the Home Show and last night addressed the Indianapolis Home Builders' Association.

Claims House Shortage

He insisted he was no authority on prefabricated houses and said it was too early to say what effect they would have on nation-wide housing.

"If all the people in Indianapolis who want and need houses were to buy them tomorrow," he said, "the industry could not handle the orders. If there were some agency to build the desired homes it would be unhealthy because as soon as the homes were built the emergency organization which constructed them would collapse."

While housing is a vital part of any return to general prosperity, he said he did not believe that it in itself would cause a widespread business pickup.

"There can be no general prosperity until the heavy industries grow and building is a part of these industries," he said. "It is the month-by-month building which creates the element of stability and non-so-called booms which are dangerous."

End of Fear' Reported

"For about 10 years the nation built few homes so that now there is a housing shortage, but steadily obsolete homes are being replaced and we are again beginning to meet normal need."

Two factors in the new building he stated, are the production of low-cost houses built through the FHA and the passing of fear people had about the future. He explained that "workingmen's homes" are now being built for between $3500 and $6000 which can be paid for in any period up to 25 years.

"Not only are these homes cheaper, but they are of a higher standard than those of 10 years ago because of the new method of financing. Now it is possible to buy a home and pay for it just as you would pay rent."

Model Home Praised

By the 10:30 p. m. closing, more than 55,000 persons will have visited the "All-American" model home, which this year has drawn more favorable comment than any previous house, according to Mr. Cantwell.

"This home, designed, built and furnished by Indians, might possibly establish a truly representative type of Hoosier architecture," he said. "Typical comment by the thousands who have seen it is that it is 'just the kind of house' they'd like to have."

This year's home, designed by Frederick O. Wallack and built by Forest B. Kellogg, is a low, rambling "ranch-home" type which was designed to typify most nearly the Indiana homes of other days and yet be modern in every detail. Interior furnishings were planned by C. F. McKelvy, head of the decorating department of Banner-Whitehill, who furnished the house.

Mr. Thompson today was appointed headmaster at Orchard School to succeed Hills L. Howe, whose resignation recently was accepted by the
