Informality? Annual Party at Indianapolis Country Club on July 16 Strictly 'No White Tie'

First There'll Be a Swim While Chef Tends to Vittles, Then They'll Don Slacks for Grub; And Next Is Labor Day Dance.

One of the most informal events on the summer entertainment schedule at the Indianapolis Country Club is the annual swimming party and steak roast which will be held Sunday evening, July 16.

Other entertainment scheduled for the season at the I. C. C. includes the Labor Day dance on Sept. 4 with Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Eitelborg and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wells in charge.

The schedule of golf events for women includes a caddy-members tournament Tuesday, the state tournament at Hillcrest Country Club July 17-21, and a guest day July 25, with Mrs. Charles Rogers as hostess.

The Vacation Scene

Mrs. Elizabeth New Kennedy is at her summer home at Harbor Springs, Mich. Mr. and Mrs. Lyman B. Whitaker and daughters, Marilyn and Betty, left yesterday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Retter have sailed on the Queen Mary for several weeks of travel on the continent. Harry Traugott and John Eronson were also on the passenger list.

Theater Patrons Head North

Patrons of the James L. Daggett summer theater at Ironton, Mich., will be welcomed back at a tea there Sunday afternoon preceding the opening Tuesday of Noel Coward's 'Hay Fever'.

Among Indianapolis patronesses for the event are Mesdames George Zeigler, Robert Elliott, Robert Failey, Frank Hoke, Perry Lesh, Lew Wallace Jr., John Pierson, Irving W. Lemaux, John Collett, Charles Roemer and Miss Joan Disette.

Mr. Daggett, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frost Daggett, 4904 Washington Blvd., will introduce guests at the tea to the cast members and will conduct an inspection tour of the theater.

Miss Margaret Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lew Wallace Jr., will make her debut in the production. Miss Wallace came to the theater as an apprentice. Mr. Daggett will direct the show.

JANE JORDAN—

DEAR JANE JORDAN—What is the matter with the young boys? They make dates with a girl and then don't show up. I am a girl of 17. I am clean, neat, not beautiful but nice looking. I love good clean fun and don't expect the fellow I'm with to spend a lot of money on me.

I'm writing this letter now because a boy has just "stood me up." I went with him once before. When he brought me home he asked for another date. I said either Saturday or Sunday evening and he said he would come both nights. He was over yesterday afternoon to make sure that I was going. Tonight after waiting an hour and a half I have decided that he isn't coming.

He isn't the first fellow who has "stood me up," and several of my girl friends have been "stood up," too. Why do fellows make dates if they have no intentions of keeping them?

Answer—The boy who makes a date with a girl and then doesn't show up is so ill-bred and irresponsible that he isn't worth a second thought. It points to bad home training, unspeakable manners and rude behavior that makes him a complete social loss.

The boys who break a date without an acceptable excuse are bad enough, but at least they have the grace to notify the girl of the change in their intentions and save her from the strain of waiting around for a caller who doesn't appear.

The girls should ostracize a boy who "stands them up" immediately. One failure to appear should make him completely ineligible for other dates. Even if a girl were willing to overlook a boy's lack of breeding, his distressing ignorance or ordinary social usage, his boorish lack of consideration for her feelings, she should not be able to excuse his profound indifference to herself.

It is safe to say that a boy who "stands up" a girl without the slightest attempt to appease her pride hasn't, in reality, the smallest spark of interest in her. He dated her because other boys were dating, because he thought he ought to care more for girls than he did, because the idea seemed desirable at the moment, or some other flimsy motive not based on any real interest in the girl.

The incident was so unimportant in his mind that he dismissed it without a qualm as soon as he was out of sight. Can any girl stand being such a nonentity in the eyes of any boy? Not if she has a shred of self-respect. Treat the boy with an indifference as engulfing as his own. Don't give him a second chance. He doesn't deserve it.

Put your problems in a letter to Jane Jordan who will answer your questions in this column daily.
