The Addis-Ababa-Djibouti Railway, a major voice in the conduct of the Suez Canal, and other concessions in North Africa.)

Japan probably will play an indirect part in the proceedings now that she has come to an agreement with Russia on border questions in the Far East—or at least the Germans so believe.

The Japanese role, as envisaged by Berlin, is to support the German peace scheme in a general way with an always implied threat to move against Britain and France in East Asia if the European war is continued.

The Germans believe that this triple thrust of force will furnish a great menace to British Empire communications that London will be inclined to accept reasonable general settlements.

For their part the Germans will agree to "resuscitate" a part of Poland—and the war will be over.

Either Mussolini or Stalin will serve as "go-between" in opening the negotiations, depending on conditions at the time.

Some Germans believe that Stalin wants the role of "peace maker" and always has envisaged himself as playing this part.

Nobody in Berlin thinks Poland will be offered any sort of a "separate" peace. The Poles are seen as mere pawns in a game which involves larger stakes than their country.

Germany will retain the old Polish Corridor and Upper Silesia but might consent to Polish sovereignty over the central areas of that country if such a move were necessary. All Nazi informants agree that the Reich has no interest in incorporating a large Polish population permanently within its borders. In connection with the final demands the question of colonies may be raised but, if so, it will be merely for bargaining purposes. None of the Nazi leaders consider the return of Germany's former colonies as at all vital.

BRITISH PRESS ECONOMIC WAR

Newspapers Say Allies Will Fight on Till Hitlerism Is Smashed.

LONDON, Sept. 18 (U. P.).—Great Britain answered Russia's march into Poland today by putting additional economic pressure on Germany.

At the same time newspapers joined in asserting that Britain and France would continue their war unrelentingly against Germany and that the fight would continue until Hitlerism had been smashed.

When its contraband control became tightened daily, and with Germany bitterly protesting against it, the Government through its board of trade promulgated an order, effective today, listing 278 persons and firms, including firms carrying on business in foreign countries, whom it considers enemies within the meaning of the "Trading With the Enemy" Act.

The order warns traders, ship owners and others against dealing with anybody listed under pain of heavy penalty, unless by official permission.

A second Board of Trade decree ordered that money payable to or for the benefit of an enemy was to be paid within two weeks to an official British Government custodian.

The Information Ministry announced that 33 neutral ships were detained at contraband control stations in the British Isles at 9:30 a. m. Saturday and that after eight of these had been released, after examination of their cargoes and passengers, 25 remained at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. This announcement was made in response to a German broadcast asserting that 170 neutral ships were being detained.

As Government leaders consulted regarding the admittedly serious effect of Russian intervention in Poland, the newspapers asserted that it would make no difference so far as the prosecution of the war was concerned—a war that was being fought and would continue to be fought in Poland's defense.

"The war will end with the extinction of Hitlerism, and with that only," the London Times said.

Sullivan's Comment on Hospital Wing Attacked by Inter-Racial Group Head

1938, without any step being taken toward training Negro nurses and internes. The grudging concessions of which the Mayor now boasts may have confused the issue for those not familiar with the situation. But they do not alter the facts in the least.

"As far as City Administrations are concerned, there are two really pertinent facts: The first is, that the new hospital wing for training Negro nurses and internes was secured by a previous administration, that of John W. Kern; the second fact is that the net results of the effort of the present administration has been to block the carrying out of the pledged word of the City of Indianapolis.

Describes Committee's Stand

"The committee of interested citizens which besought the Administration to live up to the agreement under which it got the money has exercised great patience. It has tried to avoid bringing politics into the discussion of this question. It hoped for months that the Administration would do the right and honorable thing without pressure from the Federal Government. It recognized that the Mayor ought to have time to acquaint himself with the obligations passed on to his predecessors.

Administration by his predecessors, though he is no novice in politics and might have been expected to get his bearings more quickly.

"Surely any reasonable period of probation has long since expired. The grant was made two and one-half years ago. The building was opened 12 months ago. Local citizens began their very mild and deferential petitioning six months ago. And now the Mayor says to a Times representative that 'we are working out a difficult situation as rapidly as we can.' Surely the citizens of Indianapolis, interested in an intelligent health program for their city and in common honesty at the City Hall have a right to expect something more."

Mayor Defends Policy

In the statement to which Mrs. Buckner referred, Mayor Sullivan said that "we have done more for the colored people in six months than has been done before in the entire history of the City Hospital. We have given them six or seven doctors in the out-patient department, we have given them two dentists and two graduate nurses."

Regarding training of Negro internes and nurses, the Mayor said: "We are working out a difficult situation as rapidly as we can, and eventually we hope to take care of the nurses."

Meanwhile, W. J. Trent, PWA adviser on Negro Affairs in Washington, has charged that the City has not carried out a "definite pledge" to turn over the new wing's fifth floor to Negro nurses and internes, as made in the PWA grant of funds.

Myers Letter Cited

Mr. Trent's files contain a letter from Dr. Charles W. Myers, City Hospital superintendent, to Dr. M. C. Bousfield of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, Chicago, which had in half years ago. The building was cause of the promise to care for Negroes.

Dated Dec. 8, 1936, Dr. Myers' letter reads: "I am pleased to inform you that an application has gone forward to the PWA for a grant to construct a wing at this institution. This wing will provide the necessary facilities for the training of Negro internes and Negro nurses and at the same time establish facilities for Negro physicians of this city."

Similar letters are on file from John W. Kern, then Mayor, and E. C. Wold, former City Hospital business manager.

But Mr. Trent has a letter from Mayor Sullivan dated June 21, 1939, which says that the fifth floor had not been completed and that two Negro nurses were on the hospital staff and that Negro doctors were in the out-patient department.

With this letter is a copy of one sent by Dr. Myers to the Mayor in which he says the hospital is not prepared to conduct a Negro nurses' training school. Dr. Myers' letter also states that addition of the Negro nurses and doctors to the staff already "has brought no small amount of criticism from the white population."
