

SOCIETY—

Literary Club Will Launch Season Tonight With Sheerin as Speaker

The Indianapolis Literary Club will open its 63d season this evening in the clubrooms at the D. A. R. Chapter House. According to club tradition, Ladies' Night is scheduled for tonight, a practice of many years. Ladies' nights are held the first Monday of every month.

Founded for "intellectual pleasure and literary uplift," the club used to meet at the homes of various members, who numbered about 15 originally. Now the group is too large for that, with more than 100 local members and nearly 100 out-of-town.

'Mankind in One Volume'

Thomas D. Sheerin is tonight's speaker, discussing "Mankind in One Volume." Papers which the members give at each meeting are of an essay type, devoted to literary research. The club has its traditions about the papers, too, one being that they're never published.

Officers are Stephen G. Noland, president; Russell Sullivan, first vice-president; Fred J. Trupp, second vice-president; Robert A. Hendrickson, third vice-president; Joseph R. H. Moore, secretary, and George C. Calvert, treasurer.

Museum Guild Meets Friday

The Children's Museum Guild will meet at 1 p. m. Friday at the home of Miss Nancy Ballenger. Mrs. Donald Berner and Mrs. E. E. Hamaker will be co-hostesses.

Theater Group to Hear Robinson

A final checkup in the membership drive for the Children's Civic Theater will be conducted at a luncheon at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow in Ayres' auditorium. Mrs. Kurt Pantzer, master of ceremonies, will introduce Dr. D. S. Robinson, Butler University president, the guest speaker.

To date, Miss Sara Lauter's division is ahead. The campaign is being conducted by the same workers that sell regular theater books. Miss Eldena Lauter's team is running well up. Included in awards for the drive is a radio, to be presented to the individual winner. Announcement was made at the last campaign meeting that Stage Magazine had judged Edward Steinmetz Jr., Civic Theater director, as one of the 12 outstanding directors west of Broadway. Mr. Steinmetz is rehearsing the cast for the opening play, "When Ladies Meet" (Rachel Crothers).

Filmate Aids Will Be Guests

Mrs. George T. Parry will be hostess at a tea for Filmate Guild's charter members, picture selection, arrangements and membership committees Wednesday afternoon at her home. Plans for the organization's new season will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Parry are charter members of the guild, which opens its second series of foreign motion picture entertainments the evening of Oct. 24 in the Athenaeum ballroom. Mrs. Rosamond Van Camp Hill is chairman of the picture committee. Mrs. Edna Kuhn Martin is chairman of the committee arranging the five guild "evenings" and Mrs. Albert Shouse and Mrs. H. H. Arnholter head the two divisions of the membership committee.
