

VANNUYS FIGHTS AID TO FINLAND, TOKYO EMBARGO

Ludlow Cites Gallup Poll as Plea for Referendum Amendment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Senator Frederick Van Nuys attended the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday determined to oppose aid for Finland and any attempt to impose an embargo on Japan.

Both moves he believes are steps toward war the Senator said and his attitude is reflected in the entire Indiana delegation.

Should the Japanese embargo bill reach the Senate floor it will be opposed there by Senator Sherman Minton also.

Ludlow Cites Poll

"I see no sense in calling a special session to lift the embargo just a short time ago and now voting to impose one," Senator Minton said. He is a member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Meanwhile Rep. Louis Ludlow (D, Ind.) cited the Gallup poll to show that sentiment for his war referendum amendment is increasing and urged the House to bring it to the floor for action.

"The poll just announced is the fifth the Institute of Public Opinion has taken on this subject," Rep. Ludlow said. "All five polls agree that a majority of the people of our country favor the proposal and desire to see it adopted by Congress and ratified by the states. They want to see this principle of democracy become a part of our fundamental law so that the fathers and mothers, wives and sweethearts of our young men of military age, and our young men themselves, may decide whether the power of American manhood shall be drafted and sent overseas to die on foreign battlefields."

60 Per Cent in Favor

"This latest poll shows 60 per cent of the people favoring the proposition, with a rapidly rising tide of sentiment supporting it."

Pointing out that he has filed a discharge petition with the Speaker of the House, Rep. Ludlow urged that the required 218 signatures be promptly obtained. So far but 49 Congressmen have signed, Rep. Ludlow said.

Completes 46 Years' Service

Edward F. Miller (left) took his last ride on Train 44 today. Highballing it home for him were E. G. Duty, fireman (center), and Bert Villars, engineer.

Edward F. Miller Intends to See Lots of Sports Shows at Coliseum—Son Will See to It.

Unlike many men who retire, Edward F. Miller has something definite to do. He's going to see lots of sports shows at the Coliseum.

For 46 years he's been "ridin' 'em in" on the Peoria & Eastern Railroad as a conductor. At 3:30 a. m. today he stepped off Train 44 for the last time.

He's been promising his son, Dick Miller, general manager at the Coliseum, that he would be out to see the events scheduled there. He never made it.

Now Dick says he's going to hold him to those promises.

In time left over from the Coliseum, Mr. Miller has lots of meetings to attend. He's going to be kept busy with the Order of Railway Conductors and the Knights of Columbus. He says he hasn't had time in 46 years to give proper attention to those organizations.

He started 50 years ago in the "link 'n pin" days of railroading. He's 70 years old. Although he had some narrow escapes in freight train accidents, he says he's never had an accident on a passenger train.

A family dinner will be held Sunday at the Miller residence at 32 N. Sheffield Ave. Attending the dinner will be his wife, Mrs. Ida Miller; two sons, C. O. Miller of Milwaukee and Dick; nine grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

JAPAN WARNED U. S. EMBARGO MOVE POSSIBLE

Vandenberg Admits Imposition Might Constitute 'First Step to War.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (U. P.).—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R, Mich.) declared today that imposition of an embargo against Japan might constitute "the first step to war," but warned Japan not to ignore possibility of such action.

Mr. Vandenberg's statement followed a charge by Chairman Key Pittman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Japan was attempting to interfere with Congress. Mr. Pittman charged that the Japanese military was "insensitive" to American treaty rights in the Far East.

Treaty Ended Jan. 26

Mr. Vandenberg—author of the Senate resolution calling for abrogation of the U. S.-Japanese commercial treaty—described the treaty denunciation as "relatively a pacific alternative" to the embargo proposals such as that sponsored by Mr. Pittman.

He said the embargo proposed by important Administration Senators distinctly would have been the longest step to war since 1915. Mr. Vandenberg introduced his treaty cancellation resolution last summer. Before the Senate took any action, the State Department served Japan a notice of cancellation, which became effective Jan. 26.

Feels Embargo Possible

Mr. Vandenberg's views were contained in a letter addressed to Walter Lippman, newspaper commentator, who has described the Vandenberg resolution as designed to force Japan to retreat from China and a preliminary to imposition of an embargo.

"Whatever our sympathies may be," said Mr. Vandenberg, "and whatever our sense of deep outrage over the conquest of China, our official responsibility as a matter of foreign policy is not to force Japan to retreat from China; it is to protect American interests."

Nonetheless, he said, the United States "may come to an embargo and Japan is ill advised if it ignores this hazard."

ADmits CHAINING DAUGHTER IN ROOM

EDINBURG, Pa., Feb. 1 (U. P.).—Charged with chaining his 23-year-old daughter in a room with only a mattress to sleep on, Mike Dravenka, an alien of Lilly, Pa., today was on two years probation and under court order to remove the girl from Torrance State Hospital.

Dravenka, who hasn't worked for 10 years and believes the Government must keep him, was sentenced by Judge John H. McCann after he had pleaded guilty. He also was ordered to pay costs.

Following the father's arrest, the girl was taken to the state hospital where she was committed several years ago.

CUPID UNDERWORKED DESPITE LEAP YEAR

SEYMOUR, Ind., Feb. 1.—Dan Cupid seems to be having a hard time here this year even with the help of Leap Year.

During the past few days, six divorce suits have been filed in Circuit Court. Only one marriage license has been issued.

Since the start of the year, 14 licenses to wed have been issued as compared to ten complaints asking divorces.

'Glub,' Says Barrymore in Wife Vs. Daughter Feud

like an angel. I wanted so much to have you see me in it. But at dinner one of my friends dropped gravy on it, so I went all the way home to change to this one."

Mr. Barrymore looked her over. "It is gorgeous, my dear," he said. "You are like a breath of spring."

Whereupon he kissed her.

Later they left together, with Barrymore confiding that it was a "reconciliation."

Events of the evening began in Mr. Barrymore's dressing room immediately after the show. Miss Barrie, who had had a part in the play—the role of one of Barrymore's stage daughters—until he spanked her harder than the script called for.

St. Louis and she walked out on both him and the play, had been a spectator at the Broadway opening. With the final curtain, she hid to his dressing room.

There she encountered the Great Profile's 17-year-old daughter who, according to the press agents' schedule, was to have celebrated the evening with him at the Monte Carlo.

Miss Barrie ignored her stepchild and began railing Barrymore: "After all the months I put into this play and then to see somebody else in my place."

Miss Barrymore made a retort to Miss Barrie. They shouted at each other a few minutes, then Miss Barrymore stormed from the room and told stagehands: "If it comes to blows it will come to blows and I'm ready to fight her. I'm not going to let him go out with that woman if it takes all night."

Then she rushed back into the fray. She evidently won the first round because Miss Barrie left first. Soon father and daughter emerged and went to the night club, as scheduled. In the party were Herbert Bayard Swope and George Jean Nathan.

Scarcely had they settled around their table when the door was flung open to admit Miss Barrie and party. They got a table nearby and the crowd, knowing what to expect, edged as near as possible. Among the spectators were Tyrone Power and his wife, Annabella.

In the entire room, only Barrymore seemed oblivious. He concentrated on glasses of scotch and soda and by the time Miss Barrie got her chance to move in, he was phlegmatic. Miss Barrymore had left the table to dance, the others had wandered away, and the great lover sat alone. He looked around and saw his estranged fourth wife was at his side. She sat there, rooted seemingly, the rest of the evening.

Miss Barrymore came back and gave her a fierce look. Mr. Barrymore, at that point, was saying to reporters: "What's there to talk about? After all, Elaine and I are good friends."

For two hours Miss Barrymore and Miss Barrie faced each other across the table, neither budging.

It was the daughter who gave way.
