Income at North Baptist Trebles When Collection Plate Disappears

By MRS. EMMA RIVERS MILNER

Since they stopped passing the collection plate at all services in the North Baptist Church, the church's weekly income has trebled, the Rev. Harold W. Raney, said today.

Every penny spent for church expenses is accumulated in four wooden boxes mounted in various parts of the building into which members are asked to drop their offerings "thoughtfully and prayerfully." Tithing or the giving of one-tenth of income is encouraged.

Nobody in the North Church is approached for contributions. Nor are money making projects of any kind conducted to raise funds. The budget, according to the pastor, is met with the free-will offerings.

This novel financial plan conceived by the 33-year-old pastor and carried out by his congregation is a part of a spiritual program harking back to the simplicity of the early Christians and the faith upheld in the New Testament. In the early days of Christianity, even the widow "threw in" her mite for the church and there is no record that anybody collected it from her, the Rev. Mr. Raney recalled.

The projected spiritual program is to extend beyond the North Church membership into the surrounding community of which 50 per cent of the residents have been shown by actual survey to be without church affiliations, the pastor says.

As a means toward this end, the pastor conducts an informal, voluntary confessional in his study for any who are troubled or may care to consult him. Men and women pour out their problems—financial, marital and religious, he says. There are prayer and Scripture readings and the suggestion for more prayer and reading.

When the guest has departed, the minister jots down notes on a debit list in his pastoral ledger. Then he telephones certain people whom he calls

"prayer helpers," asking them to pray for the distressed guest, whose name is not disclosed.

If and when the pastor is told that a distressing situation, about which he has been consulted, has begun to clear up or has vanished, he makes an entry on a credit leaf of his book. He reports a variety of problems solved as a result of this procedure.

The Rev. Mr. Raney counts strongly on the study and influence of the Bible to improve human relations. Accordingly, he asks that the church members bring their Bibles and follow the lesson as he reads and explains the Scriptures from the pulpit. Last Sunday 31 Bibles were brought from homes to morning worship.

The young pastor is a widower and father of three small children, who live with his parents in the southern part of the state. He is a baritone singer and holds a master's degree from the University of Pennsylvania. He received his ministerial training at the Eastern Theological Seminary, Philadelphia.

Declining the first invitation to the North Church, the Rev. Mr. Raney finally accepted in June, feeling "called." He came from the Central Baptist Church of Indianapolis, which was cleared of debt and increased 35 per cent in membership during his 2½-year pastorate.

A vacation Bible school is to be conducted in the church for two weeks immediately prior to the opening of the public schools, thus reversing the order observed in most churches.

On Thanksgiving Day there is to be "a great spiritual feast" in the North Church, when thanks will be offered for the "many blessings" the church has known recently. For these the pastor disclaims all credit, saying they are to be attributed to the "faith and prayer" of the congregation and himself.

The Rev. Harold W. Raney... drops in his title "prayerfully, thoughtfully."

Eleanor Karibo Becomes Bride

In a ceremony at 9 o'clock this morning in St. Philip Neri Church, Miss Eleanor Karibo became the bride of Forest E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Smith, 3423 W. North St. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond C. Karibo, 559 N. Oxford St.

The Rev. Fr. Carl Sahm officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with palms and ferns interspersed with clusters of peach gladioli. The bridal music was played by Miss Mary Helen Brooks, organist, and Miss Pauline Tolin sang "Ave Maria."

Gowns of the bridesmaids, Miss Lucille Ippenbach and Miss Eileen Foley, were of powder blue marquisette in bouffant style, with lace-trimmed tight bodices and short, puffed sleeves. Miss Frances Lumsford, maid of honor, wore yellow marquisette fashioned like the bridesmaids' frocks. The three wore flat disc hats of blossoms matching their gowns and carried colonial bouquets.

Mr. Karibo gave his daughter in marriage. The bridegroom, of white marquisette, was made with a lace bodice and short, puffed sleeves. The fingertip-length veil of illusion fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. The bride carried a white prayer book to which was attached a gardenia and a shower of white satin streamers knotted with baby breath.

William Evans was best man and ushers were Walter Kennedy and Joseph Karibo, brother of the bride. The bride's mother chose a green printed redingote costume, the coat of matching chiffon. Her accessories were of brown and white. Mrs. Smith's blue crepe frock was worn with a white hat and accessories.

A wedding breakfast at Bluff Crest for the families and the bridal party followed the ceremony. The couple will be at home after Aug. 10 at 3854 E. Michigan St., upon their return from a trip south. The bride's traveling costume is a brown sheer jacket suit worn with brown and white accessories.
