Horseback Riding, Swimming Offered at St. Agnes For First Time.

By EARL HOFF

With a gymnasium available only one day a week, the St. Agnes Academy faculty had to figure out some way to expand the physical education program for the pupils.

So horseback riding and swimming are to be taught at St. Agnes for the first time this semester.

The girls at the Catholic high school can hardly wait for the program to get into full swing. Fifty signed up immediately for horseback riding. And "it looks like the whole school wants to go in for swimming," according to Miss Louise O'Hara, physical education teacher.

Similar to Shortridge

Both activities are to be run as clubs in the same manner as the Equestrian and Junior Equestrian Clubs at Shortridge High School, the first City high school to have a horseback riding program.

The same program, under Miss O'Hara, is being inaugurated at Sacred Heart High School, but the groups are expected to be smaller.

The St. Agnes girls met recently for the first time, at Gregg's Stables where the horse riding instruction is to be given. Some of the girls got their first close-up look at a horse.

This week they're to mount those horses and start their weekly instruction under Max Devietien. Twenty Sacred Heart pupils will organize their club Wednesday.

Form Swim Groups

Both the St. Agnes and Sacred Heart swim groups were organized last week. They'll utilize the Hoosier Athletic Club pool.

But the St. Agnes physical education program isn't stopping there.

There are going to be basketball and volleyball teams. A tennis tournament is underway now on the school grounds, directed by Patricia Evans, a junior.

Later on, Miss O'Hara said, an ice skating club may be formed.

The faculty, under Sister Mary Geraldine, principal, thinks the program will be excellent because the girls will be taught activities they can continue after leaving school.

Washington Seniors Elect

Donald Cauble has been elected president of the Washington High School senior class.

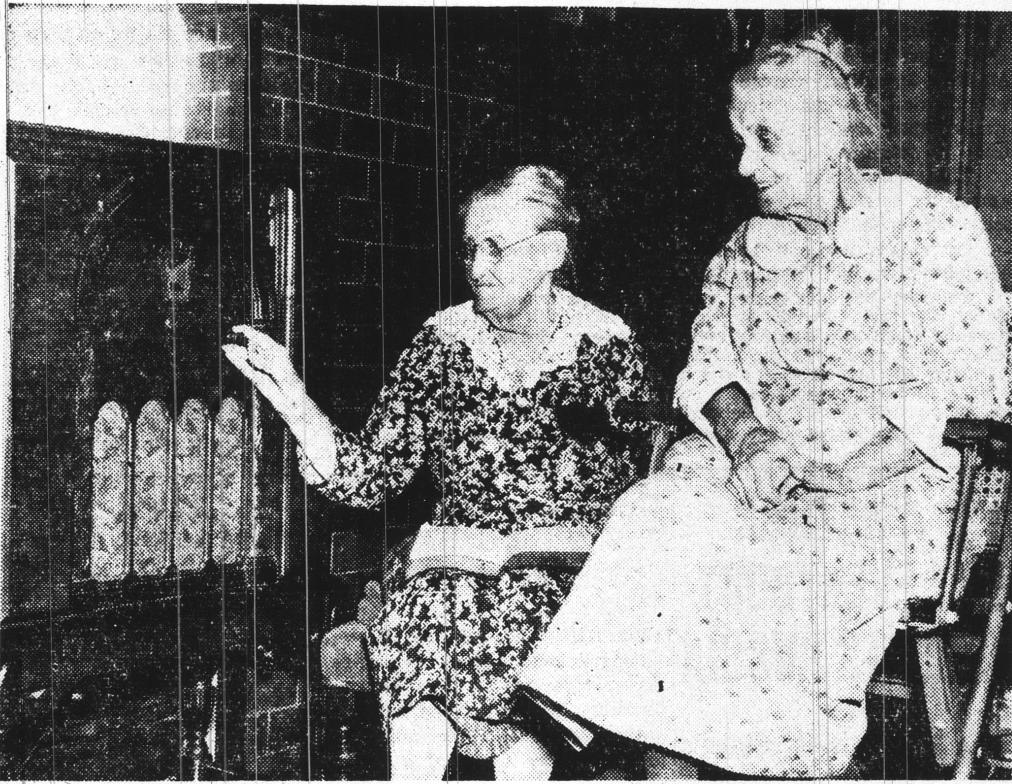

Other class officers announced by Mrs. Geraldine Johnson, class sponsor, are: Raymond McClure, vice-president; Mary Lascue, secretary; Joseph Zupan, treasurer, and Daniel Roth, sergeant-at-arms.

New members of the Washington faculty will be honor guests at a tea Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at which Renati Pacini, violinist and assistant concert master of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra, will play.

Miss Harriet Payne will accompany Mr. Pacini and Betty Burcham will play piano numbers.

Co-chairmen in charge of arrangements are Mrs. Elizabeth Hatfield and Allan R. Stacy. Edward Emery is in charge of the program.

WEARY EASED AT ALTENHEIM

Drive Opens Oct. 7.

From boyhood until 82, an Indianapolis man worked as a truck gardener.

Then, his wife dead, no one else but himself to work for and his muscles tired, he put away his rakes and hoe and sought a new home for the summer years.

He had been frugal, but even so his life's savings amounted to only $100. That wouldn't keep him long, probably three years, so where to go?

The Old Folks Home, or the Altenheim, at 2007 N. Capitol Ave., provided the answer. The $1000 will gain him admission and insure him a home for life.

He is still at the Altenheim, healthy and happy at 95—the oldest resident.

His case is typical of many of the more than two score other elderly folks there.

Here at the Altenheim are comforts of home for those who have nowhere else to go but possibly the poorhouse.

Similar to it in Indianapolis are the Indianapolis Home for the Aged and the Alpha, the three providing a haven for more than 100.

These three institutions are among the 37 welfare and charitable building agencies sharing in the Community Fund, which opens a campaign for $688,500 Oct. 7.

HEAT

Give It or Get It, Tenants Says;
Linton Learns About Moonlight

By JOE COLLIER

GARY TENANT can put the heat on his landlord if the landlord doesn't put the heat on these days. It's a law.

When the temperature outside goes as low as 52 degrees, the law says it's time for the landlord to fire up. He is required, moreover, to maintain a temperature of not less than 60 degrees by 6:30 a. m., not less than 65 degrees by 7:30 a. m. and not less than 70 degrees from 8 a. m. to 11 p. m.

It is the duty of the Health Board to enforce the law and a landlord who is convicted of failing to maintain prescribed temperatures may be fined $300 and, with each day constituting a separate offense.

That's what's going on in Gary these days.

WHAT'S GOING on in Linton is entirely different. There, it's research.

According to Chet Shafer, as reported in "Mine Run," Jess Fredericks did the research into whether or not shingles put on in the dark of the moon don't curl while shingles put on in the light of the moon do curl.

He says that dark of the moon shingles don't and light of the moon shingles do. The way he arrived at that conclusion was to put some shingles on in the dark of the moon and then put some more on in the light of the moon.

The dark ones remained straight and the light ones curled. He says anyone is welcome to make use of this research free of charge. It's his way of contributing to the ease of life.
