

Pageant on Program for Friends Here

Women to Present Play They Wrote at 50th Banquet

Indianapolis women, some wearing quaint Quaker bonnets, others dressed as Chinese, Japanese, Mexicans, Eskimos and American Indians, are to present next week a historical pageant which they wrote.

It will be given at the 50th anniversary banquet of the Women's Missionary Union of Friends in America which meets only every two and a half years and is national in scope. Business sessions will be in the First Friends Church and the banquet in the North Methodist Church. It is expected that about 500 will be in attendance including 300 official delegates.

Mrs. Amy Marvel of Richmond, Ind., national president, will speak Wednesday evening and Mrs. Rachel E. Johnson, president of the Western Yearly Meeting of Friends, will welcome the delegates.

Dr. Errol T. Elliott, host pastor, will extend greetings and give the address, "The Christian Church in a Changing World" Thursday evening.

Dr. Elliott returned recently from a trip to Europe. Dr. John H. Hamann of Indiana Central College will speak on "Which Way Youth" Saturday evening.

Remarriages on Agenda

Revision of the church's laws concerning the remarriage of divorced persons is one of the many matters to be discussed at the general convention of the Episcopal Church opening in Kansas City Wednesday.

Attending from Indianapolis will be the Rt. Rev. Richard Ainslee Kirchhoffer, bishop of the Diocese of Indianapolis; the Revs. William Burrows, J. M. Nelson and E. A. Powell; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Sherwood and Mrs. Jesse Cameron Moore and Mrs. Emmet Judson.

It is expected that a new canon will be proposed which will permit, under specified conditions, the restoration of communicant status of persons not married according to the law of the church.

What to do about foreign missions both in Japan and in all countries from which British financial support has been withdrawn will be discussed, also the negotiations for merging the Episcopal Church with the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

A new hymnal with the first revisions in 24 years, is to be considered. The church's commission on non-combatant service is to give a report, out of which is expected to grow a statement of the church's attitude toward war.

Simultaneously with the general convention, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church will meet.

The Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker is the presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church.

Study Children's Attitude

Little children are feeling the confusion of the present day and need to be given a feeling of security through religious teaching as well as their elders, Miss Winona Arrick said today.

Miss Arrick, religious education director for the Irvington Presbyterian Church and other children's work leaders from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan and Kentucky are to assemble here Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Y. W. C. A. They will attempt to develop ways of training children in a day-by-day, growing knowledge that God loves them, is with them and that because of that, good must ultimately triumph, Miss Arrick said.

The regional conference is sponsored by the International Council of Religious Education and includes representatives of denominational boards, and editors.

Among the local speakers in addition to Miss Arrick, are Miss Elizabeth Taft, Miss Mildred Hinz, Mrs. Herald Demaree and the Rev. H. H. Hazenfield.

Evangelism Stressed

"The church is not alive; it's just its punch," Dr. O. A. Trinkle, who is in charge of arrangements for the five-day North American Christian Convention beginning Wednesday in Cadillac, Michigan, said today.

Accordingly, Dr. Trinkle says the committee has arranged a convention program designed to bring "fresh vitality to the church with special emphasis on evangelism and stewardship."

Mayor Sullivan will extend the greetings of the city. The 47 speakers from all over the country include President D. S. Robinson of Butler University and Drs. Dean E. Walker and Ephraim Lowe of the College of Religion.

The Rev. P. H. Welshimer of Canton, O., convention president, is pastor of the largest church in the Disciples' brotherhood and superintendent of his own school, said today.

Dr. Turney, Indiana Synod president, O. K. Jensen, Dr. George A. Fisher and Dr. C. C. Donelson of Indianapolis and 10 delegates from the state are to attend the convention Wednesday through Oct. 16 in Omaha, Neb.

Communion

By EMMA RIVERS MILNER

THIRTEEN men sat at supper at a rude wooden table. In spite of their easy, informal postures, it was evident that the meal was not an ordinary occasion. For varied emotions—fear, surprise, doubt and great affection—were reflected in their bearded faces and they listened intently to the conversation which passed back and forth.

One, undoubtedly their leader, broke bread into small pieces and passed it among them. Then he extended a cup of wine and bade each one drink. By this simple, though dramatic act, and the words with which it was accompanied, Jesus of Nazareth inaugurated the Holy Communion at His Last Supper with His disciples.

Tomorrow, World Wide Communion Sunday, Indianapolis church people will unite with millions of others throughout Christendom in an effort to recapture the spirit of that first Holy Communion. The practice of holding such a world wide service originated with Presbyterians and has been increasingly adopted by other denominations until tomorrow it is expected that the observance will be quite general among the Protestant churches.

THE ways of celebrating Holy Communion vary with their denominations. Whatever their individual customs, the Rev. E. Ainger Powell, Christ Episcopal Church pastor, says that "all churches believe that the use of the words spoken by Jesus at the original communion in the upper room in Jerusalem are necessary to a valid consecration of the communion. In St. Matthew, we read:

"And Jesus took bread and blessed it and brake it and gave it to the disciples and said, 'Take, eat; this is my body.' And He took the cup and gave thanks and gave it to them saying, 'Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood... shed for many for the remission of sins.'"

Holy Communion is celebrated every Sunday in EPISCOPAL churches. Tomorrow it will receive special emphasis in the 8 a. m. choral service at Christ Church on the Circle when the Rev. Mr. Powell will be celebrant. Chester Heath will be in charge of music.

Episcopalians are not required by church law to fast before Holy Communion but they are expected to do so, the rector said. They receive the elements kneeling at the altar. The wine is drunk from a large cup, or chalice, and the bread may be made either with or without leaven.

All communion vessels in the Episcopal Church are of gold or silver with the inside of the cup at least washed in gold. This is to carry out the belief that only the most precious metals are worthy to touch the bread and wine, the Rev. Mr. Powell explained. The Rev. Mr. Powell explained, the two candles burning on the altar symbolize the dual nature (physical and spiritual) of Jesus, the Light of the World.

THE Rt. Rev. Richard Ainslee Kirchhoffer, bishop of the Diocese of Indianapolis, will celebrate Holy Communion tomorrow at 11 a. m. and the Rev. J. C. W. Linsley, at 7:30 a. m. in All Saints Cathedral. There are two sets of communion vessels in the cathedral. One is the silver of the Henry Clay and Bishop Joseph M. Francis families recast; and the other of silver washed in gold and set with gems, a gift from Capt. Oskaloosa M. Smith, U. S. A., in 1892. Bishop Francis, who died last year, was Bishop Kirchhoffer's predecessor.

Tomorrow, a wood carving of the Last Supper, a treasure of the St. Mark's LUTHERAN Church, will come into added prominence and add to the solemn atmosphere of the World Wide Communion service. The carving, seven feet long and 30 inches wide, is the work of Aloysius Lang, brother of Anton Lang, Christus of the Oberammergau Passion Play. It was inspired by da Vinci's painting.

In DISCIPLES OF CHRIST churches, Holy Communion is also celebrated every Sunday but a unique feature of the service is that the communicants partake simultaneously. For example, every one in the congregation is served the bread but does not consume it until a signal is given, all doing so at once. The same procedure follows with the unfermented wine, in small individual glasses. All remain seated in the pews during the entire celebration.

A FINE linen cloth intricately embroidered by hand in a design of communion symbols, grapes, trailing vines, cups and the like, which has been used in downtown Roberts Park Methodist Church for about 50 years will be spread over the old communion table tomorrow. Members will receive the sacrament, according to METHODIST custom, kneeling at the altar.

Both the table and the cloth were memorials and the silver vessels are so old that members do not recall when nor by whom they were given to the church. Unfermented wine is used.

A Shekinah light which burns day and night, as in the old Hebrew temple, symbolizing the constant presence of God, is just in front of the communion table in the 17th Century chancel of the Olive Branch Christian Church. Communion will be received in six different parts of the church where it is customary for groups to worship simultaneously on Sundays.

The old Scotch custom of dropping tokens into the offering plate, which originated in the 17th Century, has for some years been part of the World Wide Communion service in the First PRESBYTERIAN Church. Cards with blanks for the names of communicants are mailed out ahead of time, filled in and brought to church on the appointed Sunday. They are literally a token of "the prayerful presence of members."

In the more-than-a-century-old Second Presbyterian Church, a practically new communion table will be used tomorrow. According to denominational custom, the elders will pass the leavened bread, and unfermented wine in individual glasses, to the congregation which will remain seated in the pews.

Although UNITED BRETHREN also usually receive the communion in their pews, they will go forward to the altar tomorrow in the First U. B. Church. There will be four services, the Rev. George F. Snyder said today. Four different prayers in keeping with "the spirit of Christ" will be offered, the pastor said. One will be for the Axis powers and Britain; another for Japan and China; the third for the Netherlands; and the fourth for America and other countries of the world. United Brethren also use the small individual glasses.

The Rev. Mr. Snyder will officiate assisted by Bishop H. H. Fout, senior United Brethren bishop.

"The World Remembers" will be the communion sermon subject of the Rev. J. M. Nelson in the Immanuel EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED Church tomorrow. Communion is celebrated quarterly in all EVANGELICAL AND REFORMED Churches of the denomination, some with the congregation seated in their pews and some with it at the altar. Either fermented or unfermented wine is permitted, but in all individual glasses are used.

WIRE will broadcast the communion service sermon, "Chains of Freedom," with Dr. F. Marion Smith will preach tomorrow at the service beginning at 10:45 a. m. in the Central Avenue Methodist Church.

FOR 12 years, Mr. and Mrs. George Butturf have filled the individual glasses with unfermented wine and cut the leavened bread for the monthly communion in the First BAPTIST Church. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Greesman have assisted the Butturfs for the last five years. By coincidence tomorrow is the regular communion day in the Baptist Church but special emphasis is to be given the service because of the World Wide Communion Sunday.

Two churches in the city will celebrate Holy Communion later than the others. At the Garden Baptist Church the service will be at 5:15 and at the Second MORAVIAN Church, at 7:45 p. m. At the First EVANGELICAL Church where communion usually is celebrated quarterly, the communicants will kneel at the altar to receive leavened bread and unfermented wine. The Rev. H. H. Hazenfield, pastor, will be in charge.

Dr. William F. Rothenburger, Third Christian Church pastor, recently returned from a goodwill seminar in South America, and like the Rev. Mr. Snyder, is acutely aware of international relationships, said today.

"The major need of Christians in this hour of hate is greater brotherhood and solidarity. World Wide Communion Sunday, a natural corollary to the World Council of Churches, is destined to create a sense of closer fellowship among Christians themselves thus multiplying the impact of the spiritual upon all parts of the chaotic world."

While the World Wide Communion Sunday is a non-Catholic observance, Holy Communion will be celebrated in every CATHOLIC mass, everywhere tomorrow. For communion is the core of the Catholic mass which is sung every day except Good Friday the world over.

In the Bethany Lutheran Church, as in many Protestant churches, the old Catholic hymn composed by St. Thomas Aquinas, will be sung tomorrow. The first stanza according to the Rev. J. Luther Seng, Bethany pastor, expresses well "the sacrifice and love" exemplified in the Holy Communion. Thus it runs:

"With all the powers my poor heart bath."

Of humble love and loyal faith, I come, dear Lord to worship Thee Whom so much love bowed low for me."

This Do In Remembrance to Me

Copyright, House of Art, N. Y.

JESUS was heavy of heart when he partook of that Last Supper with His beloved Twelve. A few hours ahead lay the betrayal by one He had considered a friend, the taunts of the throng inspired by those who feared His influence, the tears of the humble people who saw His final anguish on the Cross. But even on that dark day Our Lord remained calm. He knew that whatever the mob would do with His body, it could never kill Him.

On this Sunday, October 6th, Christians are joining in the observance of a World-Wide Communion to emphasize the need of spiritual fellowship and Christian unity during these perilous times. And like the Saviour Himself, we today must be calm in the strength of our supreme faith. No savage mob, whether in the first century or the twentieth century, can destroy Him or the Truth for which He stands. Always, in time, there will be a "third day," the day of resurrection and triumph.

WORLD-WIDE COMMUNION SUNDAY

will be observed simultaneously in the churches. Go to YOUR church this Sunday. Sit at the Communion Table with fellow Christians the world over. This do in remembrance of Him.
