

42 Years of Work at End For Dr. 'Mac'

Resigns Soon as Religious Education Director for Presbyterians.

Forty-two active years in the field of religion will be concluded Feb. 1, by Dr. Robert J. McLandress, familiarly known throughout Indiana as Dr. Mac."

Dr. "Mac" will resign on that date as religious education director for the Indiana Presbyterian Synod after holding the post since 1926. His successor will be the Rev. Benjamin Van Cleve Andrews of Cleveland.

Although a little reluctant to talk about the state of the church and its relation to the world order because he doesn't want to sit in judgment or seem harshly critical, Dr. McLandress discussed "soft Christianity," an international police force operating in the air and on land and sea necessary if we are to have world peace.

Modern Sunday schools are years behind public schools, he says, because of the lack of properly trained teachers. Church people do not cooperate as they should and too often fail to heed the policies and past experience of the church and past service.

Camp His Monument

Camp Koscusko, with its seven permanent buildings, is perhaps the greatest tangible evidence of Dr. McLandress' service to this state. Here and in other places in Indiana, summer after summer, he had met thousands of Hoosier youths to whom he is "Daddy Mac." He also has inaugurated laboratory training and vacation schools and served as moderator of the synod.

The Rev. Mr. Andrews long has been active in the religious education field in his Ohio Synod and now is pastor of the Glenville Presbyterian Church. He is about 40 and the father of five children. He is expected to bring Mrs. Andrews and the children to Indianapolis to live very soon.

Service Society To Detail Duties

Now that the organization work of the new Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church is completed, a coaching conference concerning detailed duties will be held here next week.

The conference will be sponsored by the Indianapolis District Society of Christian Service beginning Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and continuing through the afternoon in the Central Avenue Methodist Church.

"Life Saving with Christ" will be an address by Miss Helen Fehr of India; jurisdictional information will be brought by Mrs. L. T. Freehand and Mrs. James M. Greene; Mrs. Ruth Holman will lead the worship service, and Mrs. R. E. Higgs will sing at the morning session.

Indiana Conference Society officers who will bring suggestions to corresponding officers in local societies at the afternoon meeting are Mesdames Gertrude Bettner, Frank Eller, John R. Dillens, Golden Smith and Charles Smith. Mrs. Orien W. Pifer, conference treasurer, is in Washington, D. C., on church business and cannot be present.

Mrs. Neal Ireland, district president, will be in charge throughout the day.

ARRANGE YOUNG PEOPLE'S SESSION

Miss Lois Lee, chairman, and a committee of seven are arranging the program for the 22nd annual Marion County Young People's Conference, Feb. 21 and 23, in the First Evangelical Church.

In addition to Miss Lee, Samuel Privett, young people's president, has appointed chairmen and personnel for banquet, publicity, poster and registration committees.

MUSIC LISTED FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

The Christian Men Builders Club and the Penn Ensemble will furnish music, and Mrs. Katherine Bennett and Miss Hazel Wilson will sing, at the annual congregational banquet Thursday evening in the Third Christian Church.

Dr. C. W. Longman, director of leadership education for the United Christian Missionary Society, will speak on "For This Day."

'MAN OF SORROWS'

"Man of Sorrows" and the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "The Messiah" will be sung tomorrow morning by Floyd Jones singers for the Christian Men Builders Bible Class of the Third Christian Church.

Lack of Pianos Handicaps Mrs. Pugh but She Hopes Some Day to Have Portable Victrolas.

By EMMA LIVERS MILNER

Tomorrow the elevators will pour out children for the weekly "special occasion" in Riley Hospital. Some will be on foot, some in beds or wheel chairs, but all will be aglow with expectancy as they come from over the hospital to gather in school and social rooms and in the wards.

Not just tomorrow but every Sunday is a special occasion in the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children.

For its Sunday School day.

Tomorrow there will be favorite songs to sing and pictures to look at during classes. Afterward fresh new, illustrated religious papers sent by Indianapolis church schools will be distributed.

Stories to Be Told

Stories will be told by the teachers, familiar stories such as "Once upon a time, a boy gave his lunch to the Rev. Mr. Lee also will sing tomorrow at 10:45 a. m. in the FIRST FRIENDS CHURCH.

At the recently appointed secretary of the China Christian Broadcasting Association and program director for its stations, the Chinese clergyman is spending some time studying radio in Chicago. His wife came to the United States in 1937 as a nurse for Fred Snipe who was stricken with infantile paralysis in the Orient.

'Truth—Sacrifice'

The Rev. Fr. Raymond Bosler, assistant pastor of SS. PETER AND PAUL CATHEDRAL, will lecture on "Truth and Efficacy of Eucharistic Sacrifice" Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the reading room of the Catholic Information Bureau. On Thursday evening the Rev. Fr. Richard Gronau will continue his series of talks on religion at the same hour in the reading room.

10 Congregations

Dr. Guy O. Carpenter, superintendent of the Indianapolis Methodist District, will give the address at the joint Sunday evening service tomorrow at 7:45 p. m. in the ROBERTS PARK METHODIST CHURCH. Ten congregations are co-operating.

These Sunday evenings worship services are Dr. Carpenter's idea. In spite of the fact that so many local ministers seem to regard the Sunday evening worship service outdated, Dr. Carpenter held well-attended ones during his terms as pastor of the Irvington and Central Avenue Churches.

Tomorrow evening, he will be assisted by Drs. C. A. McPhee and F. Marion Smith. J. Russell Paxton will direct the Methodist Hospital Choral Club in special music accompanied by Mrs. Paxton. Frank S. Watkins, Roberts Park minister of music, will play the organ prelude and postlude.

Rocda to Speak

"Blindfolded Europeans" is the topic of an address by Lt. Col. Bertram Rocda, state commander of the SALVATION ARMY at the 5 p. m. supper tomorrow in the citadel.

Col. Rocda was brought up on an island of the coast of France, has traveled extensively all over Europe and speaks various languages. He expects to describe how "millions of Europeans are destined with their eyes covered, dragging the entire calumet of hate." Robert Lancaster, the blind singer, numbers.

Morgan to Talk

Dr. DeWitt S. Morgan, public schools superintendent, will speak at the second of four meetings held by men of Wallace Street Presbyterian Church Monday evening at the church. Monday also, a committee headed by Frank Lee will report on a survey of character building institutions in the locality with a view to adapting the church programs to community needs.

In the Rotary Building where the children are present for an extended period, Mrs. Fred Iske maintains a graded Sunday school using the social room and the daily school rooms. Here they have pianos and Mrs. Iske who is a singer, is able to teach music.

Riley Hospital Sunday School is interdenominational, 15 years old and founded and sponsored by the Marion County Council of Christian Education and E. T. Albertson, executive secretary. Mrs. Eva Kuhlman, chairman of the council's children's committee, is in charge of the materials used in the school.

PRAYERS FOR F. D. R.

Prayers are to be said for President Roosevelt at the principal mass tomorrow morning in all local Catholic churches by order of the Most Rev. Joseph E. Ritter, bishop of the Diocese of Indianapolis.
