

MAYER COMPANY BUYS NEW HOME

Stencil Firm Will Leave Location It Occupied For 57 Years.

The George J. Mayer Co., which has had its office and retail store at 36 S. Meridian St. for 57 years, plans to move.

The local manufacturers and retailers of rubber stamps, seals, stencils and name plates, will move sometime next fall to 15 N. Pennsylvania St.

The new location will be in the terra cotta faced building which was erected about 25 years ago. Suitable for the Mayer firm's use, the property was purchased from the Indiana Trust Co.

The firm, which employs more than 350 persons, maintains three factory units here. They are at 14 W. Maryland St., 829 E. Maryland St. and at Market St. and Park Ave.

George J. Mayer, founder and president, is one of the 14 charter members of the old Indianapolis Commercial Club which has become the Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce. The company was presented a bronze plaque last year commemorating the 50th anniversary of the chamber.

Other officers of the firm are Mrs. Walter R. Mayer, secretary, and George J. Mayer, nephew of Mr. Mayer, treasurer.

MALAN GETS SCHOOL JOB OATH SATURDAY

Dr. Clement T. Malan, former member of the Terre Haute Teachers' College faculty, will receive the oath of office as Indiana Superintendent of Public Instruction at noon Saturday from Judge Edgar M. Blessing of the Indiana Appellate Court.

Dr. Malan is the last of the Republicans elected last November to take office and is the first Republican to hold that office since 1930. Ellis Bell, superintendent of Winchester schools for the last five years, will be sworn in at the same time as Dr. Malan's chief deputy.

GAS INQUIRY ASKED

WASHINGTON, March 12 (U.P.)—The City of Detroit and Wayne County, Mich., today petitioned the Federal Power Commission to investigate the rates charged by Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. for natural gas sold to the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.

Advertisement

INDIGESTION

may affect the Heart

Gas trapped in the stomach or gut may set like a hair-trigger on the heart. At the first sign of distress and pain, take a dose of Gas Free. No laxative but made of the fastest-acting medicines known for acid indigestion. If the FIRST DOSE doesn't stop the pain, take a second. The bottle to us and receive DOUBLE MONEY BACK, 25¢.

Choose from the largest piano stock in the city. Every instrument guaranteed. If out of town, write for bar-gain list.

Easy Terms, Liberal Trades

Pearson's

128-130 N. Penn. LI. 5513.

"OUR GAL SUNDAY"

presented

MONDAY Through

FRIDAY By

ANACIN

Lands Film Job

Bill Shirley

TECH GIRL WINS TOP ART AWARD

Joan Spivey Gets Year at Herron; Tom O'Laughlin Takes $25 Prize.

Joan Spivey, Tech High School senior, today was awarded first prize of a full year's scholarship at John Herron Art School in the Scholastic Awards High School Art Exhibit at the William H. Block Co. auditorium.

Miss Spivey submitted a portfolio of watercolor paintings and pencil drawings. A special award of $25 went to Tom O'Laughlin, Shortridge High School junior, who was ineligible to receive the scholarship.

First honorable mention went to Dorothy Ottinger, and H. R. McLaughlin won second honorable mention in the exhibit of more than 700 paintings and drawings submitted by pupils of schools in 44 central Indiana Counties. Both pupils are from Shortridge.

National Contest to Come

The contest was sponsored by Scholastic Magazine and the Block company winners will be sent to the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, Pa., when the exhibition closes here March 22 for judging in a national contest.

Each classification in the contest was divided into two groups. Group I for pupils enrolled in five hours or less in art work and Group II for pupils enrolled in more than five hours of art courses.

Judges were: Elmer Taflinger, local artist; Reid Winsey, DePauw University art department head, and Ethelyn Miller, Franklin College art department head. Mrs. Frieda Robinson, director of the auditorium, was in charge of the exhibit.

Other Winners Listed

Other winners in the contest were:

Oil, Group I, Licia Toffolo, St. Mary's Academy; Water color, Group I, Jane B. Miller, Franklin College; Shortridge, St. Mary's, second, and John B. Miller, Anderson, High School, second.

Water color, Group II, John Spivey, Tech, first; Betty Ireland, Shortridge, second, and Louis Levier, Tech, third.

Costume design, Virginia Crawford, Shortridge High School, second. Pencil drawing, first, Doris J. Perry, Tech, first; Marion Love, Marion, second, and Jane Randolph, Marion, third. Pencil drawing, second, Paul McGrevey, Manual Training, second. Metal Crafts—Carl Moninger, second.

Prints—Group I, Susan Van Talg Washington High School, first; Joan Donahue, Franklin, second; and Helen Jackson, Lafayette, third. Group II, Nathan Kaplan, Manual Training, first.

Textile Design, Group I, Dorothy Coswell, Glendale, Manual Training, first; June Miller, Manual Training, second, and June Miller, Manual Training, third.

Textile Design—Group II, Harold L. Miller, Manual Training, first; Dorothy Hardesty, Manual Training, second.

Colored Drawing, Group I, Clara Gladden, Manual Training, first; Dorothy Beckins, Manual Training, second, and June Lou Lammie, Manual Training, third.

Photography—Group I, Harold L. Miller, Manual Training, first; Doris J. Perry, Tech, second, and Tom O'Laughlin, Shortridge, third.

Inks—Group I, Phil Demare, West Lafayette, first; Licia Toffolo, St. Mary's, second, and John B. Miller, Anderson, third. Photography—Group I, R. O. Glazier, Anderson, first; Bernard Vaughn, Anderson, third.

Sculpture—Dorothy Christ, Richmond, second. Drawing—Group I, Richard Schatz, Manual Training, first; Dorothy Beckins, Manual Training, second, and June Lou Lammie, Manual Training, third.

Painting—Group I, Dorothy Christ, Richmond, second; and Barbara Easterday, Shortridge, first. Mechanical Drawing—Elmer Cox, Gettysburg Tech, Terre Haute.

Group II, Tom O'Laughlin, Shortridge, third.

U. S. JURY INDICTS NAZI NEWS AGENCY

WASHINGTON, March 12 (U.P.)—Transocean, a German news agency, and two of its officials were charged with violating the foreign agents registration act in indictments handed down yesterday by a District of Columbia Federal grand jury.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but failed to include in his statement vital information as to sponsorship of such propaganda items as the German white paper on Poland. That document alleged that William C. Bullitt, former U. S. Ambassador to France, promised U. S. aid to the Polish Government.

The individuals indicted were Dr. Manfred Zapp, American manager for the agency, and Guenther Tonn, an assistant. The indictments charge that Transocean established a subsidiary in this country in 1938 to disseminate propaganda for the German Government and the Nazi Party and failed to register in compliance with the law.

Zapp registered belatedly, the indictments said, but