HOW CAN REALLY FINE COFFEE POSSIBLY COST SO LITTLE?

That's a fair question to ask about A&P Coffee and one that we take pleasure in answering. First, let's get clear as to quality. A&P Coffee are literally the pick of the plantations. We know, because they are bought right at the plantations by our own resident staff in South America... and A&P is the only grocer that keeps its own experts in the largest coffee producing districts of the southern continent. They're on hand to get first choice.

And right there, you find the clue to why such really fine coffee can sell for so little. From plantation through every step—testing, shipping, blending, roasting, packaging and selling—A&P Coffee is under our own control. This not only assures top quality but also eliminates many extra handling charges and in-between profits that usually increase the cost of coffee. All savings A&P shares with you in the form of amazingly low prices.

There are three A&P blends to suit every taste. Bokar is vigorous and winery; Red Circle is rich and full-bodied and—if your own personal taste is for a mild and mellow blend, you should choose Eight O'Clock. It is the largest selling coffee in the world.
