Betty Tharp Becomes the Bride Of Maurice J. Boyd in Rite At Second Presbyterian Church

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Boyd are on a wedding trip following their marriage Saturday evening. The ceremony, read in the Second Presbyterian Church by Dr. Jean S. Milner, was at 8:30 o'clock and was followed by a small reception at the Woodstock Club.

Mrs. Boyd was Miss Betty Tharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Tharp, 137 E. 44th St., and Mr. Boyd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Boyd. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Indianapolis.

For traveling, the bride wore a Pink Lady red jersey frock accented with gold buttons, a black coat and accessories and a corsage of green orchids.

For the ceremony, the altar of the church was decorated with two white pedestals holding urns of white gladioli, acacias and jonquills, seven-way candelabra and single cathedral candles standing against a background of woodwardia and ciborium ferns and palms. Charles Hansen, organist, played the bridal music.

Gowns of the bride's attendants were of windward green faille taffeta with bouffant skirts forming slight trains. The shepherdess bodices were laced at the front with self material. Crownless off-the-face bonnets made of the same material as their frocks were finished at the backs with bows.

Attendants Wear Green

Mrs. Gordon R. Culloden, matron of honor, carried a bouquet of yellow tulips, jonquills, mimosa, freesias, roses and pussywillows while the bridesmaids, Mrs. Edward W. Harris Jr. of Muncie, Mrs. Paul W. Scheuring and Miss Jane Snyder, carried jonquills and mimosa.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory gros de londres styled with a V-neckline edged with scallops to match the hemline. The full train also was scalloped and a row of tiny, covered buttons extended from the neckline to the hem of the bouffant skirt.

Her full-length veil of ivory illusion is an heirloom which belonged to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Clara F. List. It was held by a scalloped halo headpiece. The bridal bouquet was of madonna lilies and pussywillows.

The bridegroom's attendants included Carter B. Tharp, brother of the bride, as best man and as ushers, Messrs. Culloden, Harris, Ralph B. Coble, Frank Reissner and John Tyler.

Mrs. Tharp, the bride's mother, chose a gown of camelia pink chiffon made with a torso length basque finished with soft shirring and a full skirt with handkerchief drapery. She wore a corsage of gerberas in coral reds and pinks. White freesias and gardenias were worn by Mrs. Boyd with a celadon green crepe ornamented with gold and pearl beads around the neckline.

At the Reception

At the Woodstock Club the bridal party received standing before a fireplace above which hung a large white bridal heart of lace and satin bows with a pocket of white and yellow flowers. A garland of smilax lay across the mantel and palms and yellow jonquills also were used in decorations. The bride and bridegroom had extremely bouffant yellow net covers and held bouquets of yellow jonquills and white carnations.

The bride was graduated from Tudor Hall School and Smith College and is a member of the Junior League, Dramatic and Players Clubs and the Junior Auxiliary to the Day Nursery. Mr. Boyd, a Butler University graduate, is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Guests here for the ceremony included his sisters, Mrs. Herbert S. Dieckman of Evansville and Mrs. Charles D. Hoyt Jr., South Bend, and Mr. Dieckman; Messrs. and Mesdames Wilbur Fell Jr., John C. DeFreer, William C. Scott, William Spiegel, William Showers and Hamilton Welling, Shelbyville.
