

At Roof Sunday

Les Brown gets ready to swing, the idea being that one of his most popular recordings is "Jolene Joe D'Maggio," and he'll probably play it when he makes a one-night stand at the Indiana Roof next Sunday night. Mr. Brown's bid for jazz fame was judged the most outstanding of 1941 by the magazine, Music and Rhythm.

Opening Tomorrow

CIRCLE—"Wild Bill Hickok Rides," with Constance Bennett, Bruce Cabot, Warren William, Betty Brewer, Walter Catlett and Ward Bond.

Also "Four Jacks and a Jill," with Ray Bolger, Anne Shirley, June Havoc, Desi Arnaz, Jack Durant, Eddie Foy Jr., Fritz Feld and Henry Daniell.

INDIANA—"Ride 'Em Cowboy," with Abbott and Costello, Dick Foran, Anne Gwynne, Johnny Mack Brown, Samuel S. Hinds, the Merry Macs, Ella Fitzgerald and the Hi-Deers.

Also "Bombay Clipper," with William Garwood, Irene Hervey, Charles Lang and Maria Montez.

VOICE from the Balcony

by FREMONT POWER

AS THEATER NEWS GOES (OR DO YOU STOP with the front pages?), it's a rather large day.

Manager Vincent Burke quietly discloses that another first-rate play is on the way to English's. Loew's has booked Carole Lombard's last film. And two new movies open downtown tomorrow.

Taking these events in the order mentioned, "Watch on the Rhine," Lillian Hellman's dramatic set-to with the Nazis, will play here most likely in April. There is no exact date as yet, but the company closes in New York Saturday night and heads for the country. The cast will remain intact: Lucile Watson, Paul Lukas, Mady Christians, George Coulouris and John Lodge.

Mr. Burke also slipped in the information that "Arsenic and Old Lace" will be here late in March. The star players probably will be the same as seen here last season in New York: Lucile Watson, Paul Lukas, Mady Christians, George Coulouris and John Lodge.

on like it should, then "Shanghai Gesture" may have to give or "To Be or Not to Be" set back to March 11.

But as of today, the Lombard date is March 4.

The New Ones
THE NEW movies tomorrow will find Abbott and Costello back at the Indiana in cowboy uniforms and Bruce Cabot also in chaps as Wild Bill Hickok. It looks like a shoot-'em-up week.

"Ride 'Em Cowboy," the Abbott and Costello opus, has the two former burlesquers making fools of themselves in a western setting, with Dick Foran and Anne Gwynne, supplying the romance and the Merry Macs and Ella Fitzgerald the music.

Says Variety: "Typical Abbott and Costello film fare, which adds up to the same strong box office of the A & C duo as displayed four times during the past year. . . . That's all the 'A & C' fans need know.

In the title role of "Wild Bill Hickok Rides," Mr. Cabot finds Warren William up to no good and so he saves Betty Brewer and the honest ranchers from disaster. Constance Bennett is the gambling house marm who catches Wild Bill's eye but not his promise.

The Circle goes bang-bang.

And So On
THE engagement of Oscar Levant here Feb. 8 was canceled because, it was said, he was ill. On the Friday night before his scheduled appearance here, he played at White Plains, N. Y.—after the Indianapolis date had been called off. Maybe he was sick like Joe Louis when he belted out Max Baer. . . . Reporters liked the courteous treatment received yesterday from Lotte Lehmann, the soprano who appears here tomorrow and Saturday with the Sevitzky men and women. No prima donna antics, or such.

And don't take her remark about liking to sing in German as meaning anything else. She gets her final U. S. citizenship papers in 1943. . . . Leon Zawieza, concertmaster of the Indianapolis Symphony orchestra, expects to be leading an army band this time next year. He's assured of deferment until the end of the season. But his mysterious ability to breath out of one lung at a time at will may startle more than one army medicine man. . . . He promises not to use it, though. . . . Col. Ken Collins' capsule appraisal of "Bahama Passage," which showed at his house, the Indiana: "That guy (Stirling Hayden) didn't want to do anything but fish!"
