

Y.W.C.A. Club To Hear Book Review Tonight

A review of John Steinbeck's latest book, "The Moon Is Down," will be a feature of the 8:30 p. m. meeting of the Tuesday club of the industrial department of Central Y. W. C. A. today. At 7 o'clock Miss Marjory Kissell will instruct club members at the archery range.

Miss Irene Duncan, Methodist deaconess, will be guest speaker for the Quest club tomorrow. She will talk on the "Significance of Holy Week" and will present colored picture slides of Palestine.

This club also will open its mid-term membership drive tomorrow. Newcomers to the city who are employed in business or professional jobs and other younger business women in Indianapolis are invited to attend the club supper at 6 p. m. Reservations must be made. Hostesses for the evening will be Miss Virginia Pettinato, membership chairman, Miss Katherine Henderson and members of the membership and publicity committees.

An Easter program has been scheduled by the Thursday club for its meeting Thursday. Miss Anna Theilig and Miss Millie Short are in charge of the program. Folk dancing, directed by Miss Florence Morris, will follow the business session.

Homemaking—

Precious Rubber Has
A Legion of Enemies

GREATEST ENEMIES of rubber are sunlight, heat, oil, grease, gasoline, many chemicals and outright abuse.

Even rubber footwear should be wiped off and wiped on, then placed in a cool well-ventilated place to dry. Place raincoats of all kinds on hangers—away from heat and sunlight. Cleanse only with mild soap and clear lukewarm water.

Cleaning fluids are OK on regular fabrics but don't use them on raincoats or other garments containing rubber, as shown above. Instead, sponge with mild soap and clear water.

Hot water bottles, ice packs or ice collars should be drained thoroughly, blown full of air, so the sides won't stick, and the stopper replaced. Scalding or boiling water will damage hot water bottles. The metal shut-off device on the tube of a syringe should not be left clamped down.

After a fountain or bulb syringe has been used with an antiseptic or other solution, the bulb or bag and tube should be thoroughly rinsed out with clean warm water. Rinse off rubber gloves and hang to dry on wooden drying rods.

IN ADDITION to other rules, avoid straining rubber—insulated wire and keep it kink-free. Garden hose is important as a potential weapon against fire bombs. Don't leave it out to freeze. Drain it well, coil it carefully—so kinks are removed—in a cool, sun-free room with good ventilation.

Avoid straining the hose and don't hang it on nails or sharp hooks that will make it bend sharply or crack. Dragging on a rough surface may tear it.

All rubber should be kept away from electric motors. They give off ozone that quickly destroys the product.

Rubber bathing caps and bathing suits are damaged by salt water and chemicals in fresh-water pools. Rinse them and hang them to dry so sides won't stick.

Many sunburn-protection preparations not only damage rubber articles, but also fabrics impregnated with rubber for waterproofing, such as trench coats.

Good Meals for Good Morale

The delegates include Miss Lois Mathieson, league president; Miss Marjorie Ryan, vice president, and Miss Norvella Judd, organization treasurer.

To Be Installed

Mrs. Frank Spicklemire (above), 1911 Nowland ave., will be installed as president of Alpha chapter, Omega Kappa sorority, at a formal ceremony tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Marrett hotel. Mrs. Warren Hoy will be toastmaster at a dinner in the gold room preceding the services.

Other officers to be installed are Miss Louise Callahan, vice president and pledge captain; Mrs. Robert Beck, secretary, and Miss Fay Scott, treasurer. Mrs. Garland Miller was appointed publicity secretary. The retiring president is Mrs. James Burrell, 607 Sherman drive.

DEAR JANE JORDAN—I have been married to an attractive girl for three years and I am in love with her. We have one baby. When we were married, my wife's parents had their home made into a duplex and we live upstairs. When I agreed to this arrangement I did not know that my wife's mother would spend so much time in our quarters. Since the baby was born she never leaves us alone a minute not even when we have company. My wife is an 'only child and always has been very close to her mother, but as it is she isn't learning a thing about running the house or taking care of our child. My mother-in-law simply has two babies on her hands and loves it! Without saying anything I maneuvered until I got an excellent job with a defense plant about 500 miles away, almost doubling my salary and making me feel twice as secure in my work.

To my astonishment my wife refuses to leave her mother to go with me. She actually prefers divorce and said she never would have married me except for the fact that she could continue to live at home. My mother-in-law is hysterical and says she never will forgive me if I take her daughter away from her. My father-in-law is on my side but is too down-trodden to say anything.

I am stunned. Shall I go on without my wife or stay here and ruin my chances for advancement?

WORRIED HUSBAND.

Answer—Go by all means and take your wife with you. If you don't you never will be able to command her respect or break her infatuation tie to her mother. The girl is used to being dominated by her mother and up to this point you simply haven't been as strong as the matriarch. Both of the women think they can manage you by hanging together, even as they have managed your father-in-law who has become a nonentity. Unless you are willing to submit to the same fate, move your family out of town.

Probably you think you can't use force and leave like a cave man carrying a screaming woman and child slung over your shoulder. You won't have to. If you are really a strong man, your inflexible resolution is all that is necessary. Right is on your side. The law is on your side. The move you are making increases the security of your wife and child. There is nothing to prevent your being the head of your own house and a man worth following except a couple of silly, hysterical women who need to bow before real masculine strength. Don't let them bluff you. JANE JORDAN.

Put your problems in a letter to Jane Jordan who will answer your questions in this column daily.

Broadcasts to Herald Easter Carol Service

A series of pre-Easter broadcasts, in connection with the annual Easter sunrise carol services on Monument circle Sunday, will be presented this week.

Mrs. Louis D. Belden has arranged the programs for WIBC. Mrs. Helen Brooks Fausset, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Ernestine R. Fleming, will sing at 8:15 p. m. tonight and Mrs. Charles Fitch, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Edenharter, will appear on the Friday program over that station.

At 4:15 p. m. today, the Shortridge ensemble, under the direction of Mrs. Laura Moser, was to play over WISH. Miss Jo Ellen Burroughs, soprano, with Miss Charlene Chlore, accompanist, will sing on the second program over that station at 4:15 p. m. Thursday. Mrs. James M. Costin arranged for the broadcasts.

Mrs. Ray Patterson planned the WIRE programs for 11:15 p. m. tomorrow and 6:30 p. m. Friday. Mrs. Costin, a contralto, accompanied by Mrs. Harriet Burtch, will sing on the first program and Mrs. E. B. Crowell, with Mrs. Patterson as her accompanist, will be featured on Friday.

Mrs. Paul Dorsey, accompanied by Mrs. Helen Thomas Martin and Mrs. Norman L. Schneider, will be on the 3:30 p. m. program over WFBM Thursday. Mrs. Henry Ostrom wrote the script.

Save Money—Prevent Waste
Protect Eyes—Conserve Energy

FOR DEFENSE

Light conditioning is highly important in home defense for a stronger, healthier America. Proper light, used right, protects vital vision that cannot be replaced; helps to avoid eyestrain that leads to increased nervous tension and fatigue; gives you full benefit of the illumination you pay for, and enables you to have brighter, more cheerful and attractive rooms with little expense. Modern adaptors fit the equipment you now have, but bring them up-to-date.

Plastic diffusing bowls can be quickly attached to old floor and table lamps to eliminate glare and shadows.

A plastic unit fits your ceiling fixture to give more light, better light and safer light. Provides both direct and indirect light.

Other ceiling fixture units are available for all types and tastes. Attractive appearance adds to beauty of rooms. You can take adaptors with you if you move.
