

FARM LEADERS 'DISAPPOINTED'

President Fails to Give
Davis, New Food Chief,
Power Over Prices.

WASHINGTON, March 31 (U. P.).—Farm organization leaders were disappointed today because of the meager authority given Food Administrator Chester C. Davis over important farm problems, especially prices.

"Unless Davis is given more power, I am sorry for him," said one farm organization official. "He appears to have been left holding the same bag Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard held for months."

The farm leaders were especially disappointed because of their failure during a conference with President Roosevelt yesterday to obtain from the president a commitment that Davis would be given authority to control farm prices.

The farm leaders were accompanied to the White House by Wickard and Davis, neither of whom expressed any particular satisfaction with the situation. It was Davis' first interview with the president since he assumed his new duties.

Farm Heads Puzzled

President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Albert Goss, master of the National Grange, and Ezra Benson, executive secretary of the National Council of Farmer Co-operatives, all said they pleaded at length for a farm price commitment from Mr. Roosevelt.

At his press conference a few hours later, Mr. Roosevelt was asked if the farm leaders brought up the question of giving Davis power over farm prices. He replied: No, they were not dumb enough.

The farm heads were puzzled by his statement. They said they had talked price control at length.

When plans for the White House conference were disclosed last Monday, Wickard's name was not mentioned. A few hours before the conference he was included.
