HAVE YOU EVER wondered about John Freedom, the fellow who's forever slipping a monkey wrench into the axis works? Well, he's quite a character in real life, just as he is on the "Allas John Freedom" program that you can hear tonight on WISH at 8.

His name is Karl Weber and he has many an interesting experience to tell about the time he was playing midwestern county fairs with an acting troupe. Cast as Mark Antony in "Julius Caesar," Karl strode on the stage, stood over the body of murdered Caesar and declaimed, "Oh, mighty Caesar! Dost thou lie so low?" The hush that followed was rudely interrupted by a barker in the freak show next door bellowing, "Your dime back if he ain't alive!" In tonight's drama John Freedom deals a smashing blow at fascism while aboard a French ship manned by Nazis.

A TAKE-OFF on two great epics of the South, entitled "Gone Down Tobacco Road With the Wind," will find that genuine southerner, Miriam Hopkins, emoting opposite the Bronx accent-buster, Milton Berle, tonight on WFBM at 8:30. Miss Hopkins, who once tested for the role of Scarlett O'Hara, shouldn't have any trouble playing her part because she was born in Savannah, Ga. The show will have the assistance of singer "Duke" Courtney, an announcer Del Sharbutt, garrulous Mr. Guiffy, the vocalists and David Brookman's orchestra.
