Hunters Are Expected to Increase Our Meat Supply

By ANN STEVICK

Times Special Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Supplies of meat and leather are expected to be increased by this year's approaching hunting seasons. The 1942-43 seasons produced a quarter of a billion pounds of meat, including 60,000,000 pounds of venison, and 68,000,000 pounds of wild rabbit.

Deer and elk hides turned over to the leather trades for military gloves and arctic overboots added up to 162,000. The collection program for these hides did not get under way until late last year. This year there should be more.

Hunting seasons in many sections have been extended on deer and pheasant. Tremendous flights of ducks have been observed. There is over-population of deer in Oregon, Colorado, California, Utah and Michigan. Elk herds in Wyoming are too large to sustain themselves on sparse winter feed. There should be a large haul by hunters. The ammunition supply is the only hitch. It is thought that there is more than meets the eye stored away in hunters' stocks. As much new ammunition as possible is being made available.

Spare the Brush

THERE IS A wavering possibility that more nylon brushes may be made. Requests have come in for allotments of nylon to make a million brushes for next year. In the last six months hardly any brushes have been made, but it is not certain that enough nylon can be squeezed out of available facilities. Fifty brushes can be made from a pound of nylon; 36 stockings also take a pound; 10 pounds make a parachute.

Odds and Ends

STOCKS OF COFFEE are way up; stamps marked "coffee" in ration book four are purely coincidental. Rationing is not to be resumed. . . . Shortages in certain types of children's underwear are being averted by temporary increases in ceiling prices so manufacturers can carry on.

Minor Burns Can Be Treated Quickly and Safely at Home

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS

Times Special Writer

Literally millions of minor burns occur every year both in industry and in the home. Some large companies treat from three thousand to five thousand minor industrial burns in a single month. A similar number probably occur in the home, but most of them may never require a physician's services. Sudden bursts of flame from gas heaters, ovens and smoldering furnaces, and liquids splattered or spilled from

Dr. Masters

Burns are classified as first degree if only redness of the skin develops, second degree if blisters occur in the partially injured skin, and third degree if all layers of the skin are destroyed. The third degree burn does not often blister, but is dry and leathery, and is pale and painless, owing to the destruction of capillaries and nerve endings. The depth of skin destruction by heat will depend on the temperature of the offending agent, the length of time it is applied, and the thickness of skin in the affected area.

Although fire is much hotter than boiling liquids, the latter often produce more severe burns through prolonged contact.

Treatment

Minor burns may be arbitrarily defined as those of the first and second degree that affect not more than 5 to 9 per cent of the body surface, or approximately the surface area of one upper extremity. They almost invariably heal within five to 14 days, and are practically never fatal. The relief of pain is of first importance, and is substantially obtained by bathing the affected area in cool, clean white soap suds for 10 to 15 minutes, cleansing the skin if necessary with soft white cotton or muslin. After rinsing off the soap with ordinary tap water, any one of literally hundreds of preparations (vaseline, sulfa or vitamin ointments, lanolin, etc.) may be applied and covered with a clean bandage of freshly ironed muslin or other soft material. With the dressing the pain almost completely disappears.

Blisters are full-blown within 24 hours, and gradually disappear over a period of five to 14 days. The many tannic acid preparations so widely advertised are satisfactory over first-degree and mild second-degree burns where dressings are difficult to hold in position (on the face, for example), or where clean bandages are not available.

The physician should be consulted particularly if the patient is a baby or young child, if the burn appears to be third-degree, or if removal of extensive blisters is believed desirable to facilitate healing. If the eyeball appears to be involved, or if respiratory distress following burns of the face suggests that intense heat has been inhaled.

KNOWS NOTHING ABOUT REPORTS

Mayor's Committee Inactive As GOP Seeks Return Of Old Powers.

By SHERLEY UHL

Mayor Tyndall and his patronage committee were reported today to be stubbornly resisting political heat applied by the Marion county Republican organization which is striving to regain a foothold on city job-dispensing privileges.

Influential members of the regular organization, it is rumored, are taking advantage of a recent flood of criticism which engulfed the office patronage committee, to urge that city job-filling duties be returned to organization leaders "where they belong."

The mayor took patronage in his own hands last February.

Reasons Are the Same

He's reputedly holding out against organization advances for the same reason that prompted him to break with the rank-and-file early this year. At that time he and his top command requested, to no avail, that the G. O. P. machine here be purged of certain ward chairmen who, administration officials contend, "sold the mayor down the river" in the general election.

Although he is reported to have turned "thumbs down" on a recent suggestion that patronage be restored to the organization, Mayor Tyndall today said: "I know absolutely nothing about it. Somebody's been talking again."

Meanwhile some members of the mayor's patronage committee are growing restive under constant charges that it is "the unseen government of Indianapolis." At least two are on the verge of throwing in the sponge.

Committee 'Inactive'

All reported that the committee had been "extremely inactive" since the sanitation plant flareup growing out of attempts of the committee to unseat veteran employees there. They reported that possible disbanding had not yet been discussed, however.

One member, County Clerk Jack Tilson, said that "we haven't been functioning. Maybe we're going to die on the vine."

Committeeman Lee Emmelman has been ill and unable to attend recent sessions, and Administration Adviser Charles W. Jewett said he had been "too busy."

SEVENTH WARD GOP PLANS CARD PARTY

BURGLARS SEIZE 600-POUND SAFE

More Than $2000 Taken In Restaurant Looting Near Circle.

Sometime between 11 o'clock last night and 5:25 this morning, yeggs broke open a rear door of the Wheeler restaurant, 8 W. Market st., right off the Circle.

They walked to the front of the restaurant, wheeled a 600-pound safe to the rear door and loaded it on a truck. Gordon Roberts, 1822 Broadway, the manager, said it contained more than $2000.

The robbery was discovered by Harry Rader, 208 N. Elder ave., a General Baking Co. driver, when he pulled up at the rear door to make a delivery.

Barbecue Stand Raided

Three sergeants led their squads in a raid on a barbecue stand at 319 W. Vermont st. at 2:15 a. m. today. They arrested four men.

John Montgomery of that address was charged with violating the beverage act and keeping a room for pool selling.

Police said they found 13 cases of empty beer bottles and five bottles of beer in a cooler.

Pool Tickets Seized

James Sebrée, 549 N. Senate ave., was charged with advertising lottery and gift enterprise and visiting a gaming house.

Police said he had nine baseball pool tickets on a table at which he was sitting. The baseball season has been over for almost two weeks.

John W. Johnson, 420 Roanoke st., was charged with visiting a gaming house. So was Ludwig Johnson, 854 W. North st.

Police said John W. Johnson had $775 in his pockets.
