Hungary

LONDON, March 14 (U. P.).—Count Michael Károlyi, former premier of Hungary, called upon Hungary today to make peace with the allies and for her troops and people to oppose Hitler by every means.

$6000-a-Year Alaskan Job Seekers Flood CAA Offices

to staff airways stations in remote sections of Alaska. But on the sadly mistaken theory that it would be hard to find applicants, the CAA appealed to the press, and last Thursday hundreds of newspapers including The Times, and radio stations carried a story describing the job and the attractions of the Alaskan hinterland.

The response was terrific. The CAA has been flooded with thousands of applications from couples, ranging in age from 16 to 67, from all parts of the country.

Everybody, it seems, wants to pack up with his spouse, go to Alaska, get a $6000-a-year salary, enjoy the scenery, catch 50-inch rainbow trout and chase the roaming caribou herds—to mention only some of the attractions that the CAA held out to applicants.

Many of the applicants are world war II veterans, who have action Jan. 29 while serving with an infantry unit in Italy.

The 19-year-old private is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Douglass, 719 E. 54th st.

Entering the army last May following completion of his freshman year at Indiana university, he was sent overseas last Nov. 1 and was stationed in North Africa before going to Italy.

A graduate of North Side high school in Ft. Wayne, Pvt. Douglass was a track athlete and also was editor of the school yearbook. He was a member of Sigma Nu fraternity at Indiana university and belonged to the English Lutheran church in Ft. Wayne.

Other survivors are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Honeck of Ft. Wayne; two aunts, Mrs. Fay Douglass Vandewark of Ft. Collins, Colo., and Mrs. Eleanor Preston of Ft. Wayne, and a great-uncle, A. V. Burch of Evansville.

Memorial services will be held at 5 p. m. tomorrow in the English Lutheran church.

SGT. PAUL L. SMITH, son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Smith, a radio operator and maintenance man with the army air forces in Australia, was killed there Feb. 28 in a plane crash.

The message did not state whether Sgt. Smith, 32, was in the plane, but his parents said he had not been flying since he was on the islands. Memorial services will be held when his wife, Mrs. Margaret Smith, Savannah, Ga., arrives.

He entered the service in May, 1942, and had been overseas since last June. He was a Technical high school graduate and was a driver for Greyhound Lines, Inc.

T. SGT. HERBERT C. DERADO, radioman and gunner in the army air forces, has been missing since Jan. 22 over Italy.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Derado, he has been in the army since September, 1942, and went overseas more than a year ago. He attended high school in Knights-town and worked for the Connersville News-Examiner before entering service.

S. SGT. JAMES H. COLEMAN, husband of Mrs. Ella M. Coleman, is missing in the Central Pacific theater.

A former Indianapolis resident, he is the father of an infant child. His wife has moved to Ladoga with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wright. Sgt. Coleman made his home in Greencastle before moving to Indianapolis.

PFC. RUSSELL HASHMAN, husband of Mrs. Genevieve P. Hashman, 1409 Broadway st., was wounded in action in Italy, Jan. 30, and has been awarded the purple heart.

Pvt. Hashman, who is 32, has been in the army infantry since May, 1943, and has been overseas since last October. He was reassigned to active duty again Feb. 1 after he recovered from his wounds.

SGT. WILLIAM E. FARLEY, who was wounded in action recently in the Southwest Pacific, has received the distinguished flying cross for service with the 65th squadron of the troop carrier command.

Sgt. Farley is the son of Mrs. W. D. Crago, 907 E. 27th st. He entered service more than a year ago and was employed in the airplane industry before enlisting.

PFC. RAYMOND MONTGOMERY, 20, a marine, was wounded in action in the South Pacific Jan. 29. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Montgomery, 252 N. Addison st.

He is a former Link-Belt employee, and his father works there now. He entered the service in been discharged from military service.

One wife wrote that she was 48 and her husband 52, and said: "We have been married 25 years and need a second honeymoon."

A husband wrote: "We are both 49 and have been married 18 years and we are very settled and congenial and don't care to go out much."

Wrote a wife: "I know the article doesn't say you wanted anyone from Milwaukee—but would you consider my husband and me?"

The applicants included a college professor and a former Minnesota state game warden.

CAA Administrator Charles I. Stanton was not too displeased by the flood of applications. He said that while there are not now enough jobs in Alaska to take care of all the couples, CAA will eventually need others at stations in the South Sea Islands and various other spots on the globe.

Many of the applicants have excellent qualifications, he said.

BLUE AND REMY SWAP CHARGES

Safety Board Meeting Fails To Accomplish Agreement.

forts to obtain co-operation on law enforcement procedures."

Mr. Blue said he had obtained from one of his deputies an admission from Chief Becker that townships of parked cars bearing 1943 plates was "not according to the law."

"I never admitted any such thing," countered the chief.

The skirmish then maneuvered in another direction with Mr. Remy accusing Mr. Blue of neglecting to prosecute burglaries, robberies and other offenses to the limit of his ability.

The safety board president, armed with a volume of police records, cited cases in which he charged Mr. Blue had failed to act on "obvious" evidence supplied to him by the police department and had consequently failed to obtain strong convictions.

"No Use Kidding"

"There is no use kidding ourselves about this thing," declared Prosecutor Blue. "Whenever we decline to sign warrants and issue affidavits it's because police evidence in the cases was obtained illegally."

"That's your contention, not ours," exclaimed Mr. Remy, who then launched into a tirade over the "general laxity in following up and prosecuting cases investigated and prepared by the police department."

"If we discount statements obtained by police investigators, you can bet that they failed to contain any direct evidence of law violation," said Mr. Blue. "We have to go by the exact statute."

Cites Drivers

The safety board president, his dander up, then shouted, "Yes, strangely enough, in this town you have to be caught in the actual process of driving a car while intoxicated before you can be prosecuted as a drunken driver. Isn't there such a thing as circumstantial evidence? I have records of many cases in which drivers actually admitted driving while drunk, but they were never charged as such."

"We can't help that," Mr. Blue retorted. "When you're prosecuting on circumstantial evidence, you have to rule out all other possibilities. If we go easy on the drunks, it's because court procedure has established that precedent."

Chief Becker then accused Mr. Blue of "dismissing certain cases without reason."

"We've never done anything like that," Mr. Blue retorted.

"Why, you dismissed 7000 cases last year," the chief said.

Details Attempts

The prosecutor then detailed his attempts to obtain a state of complete co-operation between law enforcement agencies, but Mr. Remy interjected.

"You must admit that when you accuse the safety board of inciting police officers to go out and beat people over the head and to deliberately make illegal arrests, you're not pursuing a very pacific course," Mr. Remy said.

Mr. Blue contended that a safety board revocation of Chief Becker's move in reassigning Sgt. Russell from the prosecutor's office to another job would "greatly augment co-operation."

The chief, however, said he needed Sgt. Russell in police headquarters as a result of a serious manpower shortage. The safety board took the matter under advisement and agreed to hold an all-inclusive law enforcement conference in the near future.

Now they know they have to wait a long time to get in."

FDR MAY EASE DRAFT REVIEWS

Officials Fear Harmful Effect on Production of Arms.

ferment policy was revealed last week when the WPB got only seven out of some 250 deferments requested for key employees.

It was reported after yesterday's meeting that Nelson and McNutt told the President that draft board misinterpretation of his review order was causing a grave threat to production. Local boards were said to have interpreted it to mean they should push workers out ahead of fathers, and to have ordered wholesale and indiscriminate cancellations of occupational deferments.

Fewer Federal Requests

Government agencies have joined in the drive to free more men for the armed services by limiting requests for deferments. The war department was understood to have decided to end all deferments for male employees in the 18-21 age category and all but a few hundred in the 22-25 bracket, which includes 6500 men.

The acute stage of the military manpower problem was reflected two weeks ago when Mr. Roosevelt disclosed that the army alone was more than 200,000 men behind its authorized goal because draft boards were not meeting quotas.

The difficulties have been multiplied by the fact that the boards are now calling up men in the higher age brackets where the rejection rate is considerably higher. Hopes of easing the father draft by inducing large numbers of men now in 4-F were dashed by a special presidential medical commission which found that physical standards cannot be lowered without hurting efficiency of the armed forces.
