

Indians Must Tangle With Red Birds in Another Twin Bill After 2d Double Defeat

By EDDIE ASH
Times Sports Editor

The Indians and Columbus Red Birds tonight meet in the third double-header in consecutive days at Victory field—victory for the visitors, no soap for the home boys.

The Birds made it four straight in the long series last night by winning the "Shrine night" twin attraction, 10 to 3, in seven innings, and 1 to 0, in 12 innings.

Short of pitchers and with his squad badly used up by injuries, Manager Mike Kelly only can hope to give the speedy, fast-fielding Birds an argument. As a matter of fact the Tribsters have only won one game from the second-placers this year and have dropped nine to them.

The Murat temple of the Shrine staged a fancy program last night and it was well received by a crowd of 5283. The event was a benefit for the Shrine's hospital fund for crippled children.

Six Runs in Fourth
In the first game the Birds scored three runs in the third, six in the fourth and one in the seventh and last stanza. The Tribsters tallied two markers in the sixth and one in the seventh.

The Indians matched the Birds on total hits—11 apiece—but failed to bunt their early inning blows. Manager Kelly was forced to call upon First Sacker Kerby Farrell to relieve John Donahue on the mound in the fourth. The Birds pounded Donahue out and continued the attack against Farrell, who went to the mound "cold" from first base.

Frank Wilkie, 17, an Oak Park, Ill., sand-lotter, made his first victory field appearance for the Indians when he substituted at third. The Indians committed four errors, the Birds none. Ken Burkhardt, right-hander, hurled for Columbus.

Second is Thriller
The second contest was a thrill-packed mound battle between Bob Logan, Indians, and Arthur Lopatka, Red Birds. Eleven scoreless innings were played before the Birds tallied the lone run of the game in the 12th.

Logan held the visitors to five hits—all singles—over the marathon route and struck out eight, walked two and hit one. Lopatka held the Indians to six hits, one a triple by Joe Alperito, struck out seven and issued five walks. The Indians again made four errors and the Birds one.

The home pastimers muffed a great chance in the third inning when Alperito led off with his three-bagger. Logan was safe on Young's fumble at short. With runners on third and first and none out it looked like a cinch for one or more runs.

Oh, For a Hit!
But the next three Indians at bat failed to get the ball out of the infield. Alperito was caught at the plate on Clemens grounder to Mack at first, Borom forced Clemens and Blackburn lined to Antonelli at second.

In the 12th, after one out, Glenn Crawford of the Birds singled and Burmeister skied to Blackburn in center. Crawford stole second and raced to third when Lyon's throw to second sailed into center field. Young was given an intentional pass and stole second, Crawford holding third.

Logan lost control and hit Lopatka with a pitched ball, filling the bases. McLain then worked the Tribe southpaw for a base on balls and Crawford was forced in with the only marker of the spectacular contest. Mallory forced McLain at second to retire the side. The Indians were erased in order in their half of the 12th.

Logan pitched 11 innings without giving up a walk only to have base-ball luck turn against him in the 12th.

Borom and Lyon of the Indians both struck out three times against Lopatka's southpaw slants. Clemens collected three of the Tribe's six hits. Alperito got two and Blackburn one.

Between games the seven uniformed bodies of Murat temple marched around the field and received a big hand. Harry Geisel served as master of ceremonies.

In a foot race against time for the Jim Hussey $25 war bond, Mallory of the Birds and Clemens and Blackburn of the Indians tied at circling the bases at 14 1/2 seconds. The players presented the bond to four Riley hospital crippled children who were in attendance at the game occupying box seats with a nurse.

'Hello, Porky!' 'Hello, Adam!'—The Centers Of 'Four Horsemen' Team Hold Reunion

By LEO DAUGHERTY

The occasion was a golf tournament dinner, but two of them in the Highland Golf and Country club dining room lived again in a football season of 20 years ago come this autumn.

Assembled for the annual event yesterday were members of the Notre Dame Alumni club of Indianapolis. The low net results had been James Bowen '24; Larry Sexton '23 and Karl Johnson '24, and the low gross, John Kiley '29, John Harrington '30 and Mark Zimmerman '31.

A late comer appeared at the door about dessert time and looked over the crowd. As he did a diner at the head table went over to him, tapped him on the shoulder and greeted: "Hello, Porky! How the hell are you?" That would be Adam Walsh.

You remember, Adam was captain and first-string center on the "Seven Mules" line of the "Four Horsemen" Notre Dame team of 1924. Joe was the "shock troop" center of that immortal team.

"Good to see you, Joe," Adam continued. "Well to see you," Joe said. "This is the first time we've seen each other since we left the campus after graduation 19 years ago."

A couple club members came up to them. "With the way you guys have changed, how in the hell could you recognize each other after 19 years?"

"If you'd rubbed noses like we did," Walsh explained, "gone through the hours of practice we did under 'Rock' and spent the fall Saturday afternoons like we did, you'd never forget a guy."

Then they talked of "Four Horsemen" days and what's happened since.

Joe's an Indianapolis product. After football days he had several occupations, including athletic director at Cathedral high school and now is safety director at Curtis-Wright.

"I said after my last game," Adam smiled, "that I was through with football for keeps, but what happens?" The next season I'm coaching at Santa Clara.

Since then, he's been on the coaching staff at Yale and Harvard and was coach at Bowdoin in Maine for nine years until the school discontinued football for the duration. He's on leave from there to serve as line coach at Notre Dame.

Walsh didn't have much to say about the next Irish football season, except that he hoped it would see a 20th anniversary reunion of the living members of the old team.

Both first-string guards, Noble Kizer and Johnny Weible, are dead.
