

FDR the Issue, Townsend Says in 'Out of Turn' Talk

By DANIEL M. KIDNEY
Times Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 20.—"Whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is the issue in this campaign."

That challenge was hurled by former Governor M. Clifford Townsend at the Indiana Democratic delegates' meeting here. They sat on their hands and some of them looked as though they wished they had on ear-muffs.

That is because under the contemplated strategy to carry the state ticket, with Governor Shriver going to the senate and Senator Jackson becoming governor, F. D. R. is to get the soft pedal.

During his almost daily speechmaking throughout his four-year term as governor, Schricker has constantly taken digs at the national administration.

Outdoors Republicans
Once he attended a Midwest governors' conference in Des Moines to discuss farm problems. He was the only Democrat there. But he hammed "Washington bureaucracy" more than any of the Republicans.

Senator Jackson on the other hand pioneered in tub-thumping for a fourth term. Addressing the Pittsburgh Democrats at a Jefferson day dinner he praised the President with all his oratorical ability and termed him indispensable both for America and the world.

It is reported that he isn't contemplating such laudations during his governorship campaign back home in Indiana. The Gallup poll showed the Hoosiers are 56 per cent for Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the G. O. P. nominee.

Talks Out of Turn

In a memorial, which will continue to serve through coming generations, quality is perhaps more necessary than in any purchases for daily living.

Whether you plan a monument or a marker, you will be proud of the beauty and permanence of your Schaefer Memorial.

It will be necessary this year to make your selection early to insure delivery.

Write or ask that our catalogue "T" be mailed to you—no obligation.

Schaefer & Sons
INC.
Second and Northwester Avenues
Talbot 3232
Branch of Indianapolis, Indiana

DANNY KAYE HURT IN FALL ON DRUM

HOLLYWOOD, July 20 (U.P.)—Danny Kaye was nursing an injured knee today, the result of a fall through a bass drum.

The accident will prevent his appearance before the cameras in the picture, "Wonder Boy," for 10 days.

VISIT TO EUROPE BY FDR HINTED

London Paper Speculates On Meeting in Rome, Trip to France.

LONDON, July 20 (U.P.)—The Daily Mail said today it had received reports from many different sources that "President Roosevelt" on the eve of the Democratic party convention is about to visit Europe.

The newspaper said first speculation was that he was about to meet Prime Minister Churchill but an officially inspired statement last night declared the President with all his oratorical ability and termed him indispensable both for America and the world.

It is reported that he isn't contemplating such laudations during his governorship campaign back home in Indiana. The Gallup poll showed the Hoosiers are 56 per cent for Governor Thomas E. Dewey, the G. O. P. nominee.

Whether you plan a monument or a marker, you will be proud of the beauty and permanence of your Schaefer Memorial.

It will be necessary this year to make your selection early to insure delivery.

Write or ask that our catalogue "T" be mailed to you—no obligation.

SHOWGIRL DIVORCES HEIR TO MILLIONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 20 (U.P.)—Tommy Warner Jr., who protested vigorously when his multi-millionaire father dragged him from the arms of his bride, took it easier yesterday when she effected the separation legally.

Blond Jean MacDonald Warner was given a divorce, custody of two-year-old Tommy III, and $650 a month alimony, all in five minutes.

The heir to a $20,000,000 automobile fortune and the beautiful showgirl were wed in Las Vegas, Nev. April 27, 1938, but the bridegroom's father had him dragged from her side on grounds he was a "love captive."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

"But whether you like it or not, President Roosevelt is going to be the issue in this campaign."

The Mall speculated that the President would broadcast an important speech wherever he goes, adding that "if he should decide to visit the United States front in Normandy it has been suggested a speech from the beachhead there would be of historic interest."

"Of course I know there are a lot of local matters to talk about," Mr. Townsend said in his short speech to the delegation.

</