

HINT SABOTEURS INSIDE REICH

Sweden Hears of Trouble
Confronting Hitler in East Prussia.

(Details of Goebbels' Speech,
Page 2)

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 27.—Stockholm dispatches said today that mounting unrest in East Prussia and North-east Germany, directly in the path of advancing Russian armies, has forced Adolf Hitler to establish a special unified command there to deal with saboteurs and guerrillas. (A Stockholm dispatch broadcast by the British radio asserted that German youth, once the backbone of Nazism, was in a "state of latent revolt" and gestapo police camps for both girls and boys had been established with authority to "liquidate" those who it was found "impossible to educate." FCC monitors recorded the British broadcast.)

Revolters Still at Large

The report came only a few hours after Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, in his new role as plenipotentiary for total war mobilization, acknowledged in a radio broadcast yesterday that not all those involved in last week's abortive attempt on Hitler's life and military revolt had been executed or arrested.

Radio Stockholm relayed a dispatch from the newspaper Morgon-Andningen reporting that Hitler had put a Gen. Eisenback at the head of the new anti-guerrilla command of "special troops" in East Prussia, Danzig and West Prussia.

Morgonandningen said that ships leaving East Prussian ports were booked weeks in advance and a black market was flourishing on passages.

Nazis Wound Soldiers

The Danish press service also reported that German officers wounded several soldiers in a town in North Jutland when a detachment refused to travel to Germany in freight cars and demanded more comfortable transportation.

Goebbels was believed drafting measures which he told the German people in his broadcast would conscript into the army or war work everyone in Germany and occupied countries "who is in a position to work."

He had been expected to reveal details of the new decrees in the broadcast, but instead devoted his talk to an attempt to rally the German people for a final effort with promises that the fighting fronts would be stabilized and new secret weapons more terrible than the robot bombs being used against Britain would be put into action, though most were only in the testing stage.

Poor Oratorical Effort

Swedish observers regarded the broadcast as one of Goebbels' poorest oratorical efforts and expressed doubts that it would have anything like the desired effect on the German people.

The little Goebbels, fighting to restore the obviously-shaken morale of the German people and the Wehrmacht itself, dangled before his listeners the promise of mysterious measures that would win victory for Reich, but he emphasized repeatedly the hardships to be faced and the fate awaiting them if the allies win.

"At the fronts we are opposing a world of enemies, filled with hatred, who do not hesitate to use any means, not even the most insidious or the basest one, to defeat us," he said.

"We must pass through this hell of resistance, difficulties and dangers before we can come out into the open again at the end of the war and can again breathe fresh air. There can be no doubt that we shall succeed in this. But we must succeed or else all of us are lost."

He said German war production has not been seriously impaired by allied air raids and that production of armaments actually is increasing.

SHOOTING VICTIM'S CONDITION SERIOUS

Fifteen-year-old Mary Pacone remained in a critical condition at St. Vincent's hospital today from gun wounds received accidentally yesterday afternoon.

The shooting occurred at the Pacone summer cottage on White river near 7th st. The girl's brother, Robert, 13, told deputy sheriffs that he was shooting at a snake with a .22 rifle, while his sister watched from the back door of the home. The shot went through the screen, striking her in the chest just above the heart.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pacone, who live at 319 S. Rural st. in Indianapolis, were down town when the accident happened.

WAR ANALYSIS— Goebbels: The Liar Who No Longer Hopes to Be Believed

By LUDWELL DENNY
Scripta-Howard Foreign Editor

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Herr Goebbels' appeal to the German people had the whine of a desperate man. He called for more sacrifices, and once again promised victory. But he spoke as one whose pledges had worn thin from long postponement, as a liar who no longer expected to be believed.

Nevertheless, the words of the propaganda chief and new minister-dictator for total mobilization at least reflect the worst German fears as seen through Nazi eyes. Goebbels' task was to buttress sagging morale. Significantly he concentrated on two points: the debacle in the east, and the general's abortive putsch and attempted assassination of Hitler.

Apparently the earlier speeches of Hitler and Goering, implicating large numbers in the plot, has shaken German confidence in the army.

Civil War Possible

If a considerable number of generals are disloyal to Hitler and think the war is lost, certainly civil war and defeat are more probable than national unity and victory. So Goebbels tried to convince the Germans that their army is "loyal," and that only a handful were involved in treason.

He had to admit, however, to justify the severe repressive measures, that not all the putsch leaders had yet been caught. Have those who escaped the blood purge succeeded in going underground, pending a better prepared revolt? He also revived the initial propaganda line, which had been dropped for a week, that the plot was British.

Silent on Nazi Rout

Unable to explain the German retreat and rout on the eastern front, he wisely did not try. All he could do was to repeat that fresh reserves and more weapons were being sent to the front, which would soon be stabilized.

But the Germans have heard that one almost daily since the Soviet offensive began. With the distance between the front and the German frontier melting away at the rate of 40 miles a day, Goebbels' "soon" may not be quick enough.

The only surprise in this propaganda effort was that he forgot to end with the customary "Heil Hitler!" and "Victory!" and Nazi anthem. Or, are these Nazi trappings less popular in Germany than they used to be?

BUDAPEST, BRUSSELS, GHEENT AREAS RAIDED

LONDON, July 27 (U. P.).—Italy-based U. S. Liberators and Flying Fortresses effectively bombed the Manfred Weiss steelworks—an important producer of aircraft engines, arms and munitions—at Budapest today as other Liberators from England lashed at German military installations in the Brussels and Gheent areas of Belgium.

Crewmen returning from the raid on the Weiss works, reported "good bombing" despite intense flak and interception by enemy fighters, a number of which were downed by escorting Lightnings and Mustangs. Today's attack on Belgian targets drew no opposition from the Luftwaffe, which offered but feeble resistance to R. A. F. squadrons which raided Hamburg and other points on the continent last night.

Meanwhile, headquarters of the U. S. 15th air force revealed that a formation of Mustang and Lightning fighters had returned to their bases in Italy after a dramatic three-day shuttle flight during which they supported Russian ground troops in Poland and shot up enemy targets in the Bucharest and Ploesti areas of Romania.

The shuttle fighters shot down at least 64 German planes in the three-day operation, 29 of them over Poland and 35 over Romania, and destroyed at least nine others on the ground at the Mielec airfield in Central Poland.

NEWS OF 'BROTHER' SURPRISES VERONICA

HOLLYWOOD, July 27 (U. P.).—Veronica Lake said today she would like to see a youth who claims to be her brother, because she never had a brother.

Police told Miss Lake yesterday that a 21-year-old girl arrested for cashing worthless checks said she got them from her boy friend, who described himself as Veronica's brother. The boy disappeared before the girl was arrested.

WESTFIELD COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

WESTFIELD, Ind., July 27 (U. P.).—Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Baker observed their golden wedding anniversary yesterday. Guests included their children, Judge John G. Baker of Orlando, Fla., and Mrs. Herman Stalker of Westfield. Baker is Indiana collector of customs and a Westfield and Noblesville banker.

Germans Barricade Streets Of Pisa for Bloody Defense

ROME, July 27 (U. P.).—German troops barricaded the streets of Pisa in preparation for a bloody, house-to-house defense of the city today while their long-range guns, directed by spotters atop the famous Leaning Tower, raked American forces massing along the south bank of the Arno river.

Working in full view of American patrols on the opposite side of the river, the Nazis threw barbed wire and concrete barriers across the medieval streets and planted machinegun squads along the river bank.

Allied headquarters spokesmen said German artillery spotters had been observed on the 179-foot Leaning Tower in the northwest corner of the city and warned that it might become necessary for American guns to destroy the historic building.

ALLIES SMASH SABANG HARBOR

Rip Docks, Still Jap Guns;
Ships Suffer Slight
Damage, Casualties.

By UNITED PRESS

An allied eastern fleet task force was revealed officially today to have attacked Sabang off northwest Sumatra Tuesday while American invasion forces registered new gains on Guam and Tinian islands in the southern Marianas.

A special allied communique reported that the task force destroyed harbor installations, silenced shore batteries, sank one ship and wrecked two jetties.

At last 26 salvoes turned the target into a mass of flame and smoke, the communique said.

The warships suffered minor damage and "very few casualties, including two men killed."

6 Aircraft Destroyed

Six enemy aircraft were destroyed at Sabang, four of them around, and three others were shot down by allied fliers Tuesday evening when a formation of Japanese planes attempted unsuccessfully to attack the allied striking force.

One allied plane was lost, and the pilot of that ship was picked up, uninjured, by a cruiser.

A Tokyo broadcast recorded yesterday by FCC said allied task forces had raided Sabang and also Palau islands in the western Caroline 600 miles east of the Philippines.

The American forces, supported by naval and artillery fire, advanced 3000 yards to within 400 yards of the airfield, a communique from Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said.

Veteran marines on Tinian, still killing Japanese at the ratio of 100 to 1, drove from the west coast to the eastern edge of Tinian to win a triangular shaped area five miles long on the west, two and a half miles on the east and joined by a jagged four-mile line across the island.

1938 Jap Dead Counted

The communique said 1938 Japanese dead had been counted. Moving in at sunrise on Sabang, the task force achieved complete surprise and for 35 minutes subjected the strategically important enemy base to an intense naval gun and aerial bombardment. Battle-ships participated.

It was the first time an allied naval task force had shelled Sabang, although carrier-based planes were sent against the base in December, 1942, and again last April 19, when 22 Japanese planes were destroyed in the air and on the ground.

Planes Strike Rota

Carrier-based planes struck Rota, midway between Guam and Tinian, on Tuesday.

On British New Guinea, trapped Japanese troops resumed attacks against American lines after withdrawing five miles yesterday, presumably to reform their units.

A communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed that Woleai island in the Carolines was hit with a 27-ton bomb raid Tuesday and that Rabaul was struck with 32 tons Monday.

REPORTER WRITES STORY ABOUT SON

CLEVELAND, July 27 (U. P.).—When Allan E. Hinton, a reporter for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, left home for work last night his 14-year-old son Rolie asked him to "write a story about me, Dad."

Rolie went skating at a neighborhood roller rink later and fell, fracturing his arm. His father wrote the story about the incident. Young Hinton was taken to a hospital but his injury was described as not serious.

POOR BONITA HAS NOTHING TO WEAR

HOLLYWOOD, July 27 (U. P.).—Bonita Edwards, fifth wife of Tommy Manville, charged today that she hadn't a thing to wear, because her husband, millionaire bottling company executive, A. K. Barbee, was holding her clothes.

"He has my dresses, furs and other accessories in his apartment and won't let me come and get them," declared Miss Edwards. She claimed her husband has failed to pay her $5000 attorney fees and $100 a week alimony ordered by the court pending settlement of the Barbee divorce and property squabble.

The court has set Aug. 8 for a hearing on Mrs. Barbee's petition for order to show cause.
