NAZARENE CHURCHES OPEN PARLEY HERE

PLAYING COMMANDO in the 1800 block of E. Ohio st., was fun yesterday, but today David Ursiny, 103 N. State ave., is ready to "join" another branch of service.

David, who is 15, received second-degree burns on his back when his shirt was ignited by a miniature flame thrower improvised by the boys in the neighborhood.

Richard Cook, 15, of 258 Hendricks pl., and Gerald Moran, 15, of 1540 E. Market st., also playing commando, ignited the spout of a can of lighter fluid and by squeezing the can could shoot a long stream of fire.

It was like real war until David's shirt ignited and he began to run, the other boys caught him, threw him down and put out the flame.

David's at home now with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ursiny, following first aid treatment by a police emergency squad.

WARTIME LIVING—

Every Day Clothing Prices Put Under Ceiling for Fall

By ANN STEVICK
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Any time after September 15, you can do the fall shopping for boy's school clothes or work clothes for the family war worker with new fixed price ceilings designed to save you money.

These prices, while not the nation-wide fixed sums urged by the office of price administration's consumer advisory committee except on a few war model items are planned to pin down runaway prices on every day wear such as work shirts, overalls, dungarees, jackets. They are supposed to keep the new higher costs of denims, chambrays, and coverts at the mill level from rolling up too far by the time you have to pay for a finished garment.

Manufacturers, in general, will have their old frozen prices. Wholesalers and retailers, however, will have definite ceilings arrived at by adding assigned mark-up percentages to the seller's price. Two ranges of mark-ups are allowed at wholesale. Retail mark-ups also fall into two groups, with smaller shops having mark-ups from 3- to 10 per cent higher than chain, mail order, or large volume stores.

That means the shopper still won't be able to put her finger on one definite retail price and insist on it. Clothing price enforcement officials, however, say the new rules, under which retail ceiling prices can be figured and put down on paper at the manufacturing level, will give them a better grip on work clothes prices than the old system under which retailers and wholesalers figured their own freeze prices.

New prices on smoked fish such as salmon, sablefish and whitefish will be about 10 cents a pound higher. . . . There'll be plenty of onions for the rest of the year. Last year's shortage inspired farmers to add about a third to last year's acreage.

The White River conference of the United Brethren in Christ this morning announced total gifts of $441,386 for all purposes for the year, an increase of $75,337 over the year before.

The announcement was made at the opening of the 99th annual session of the conference in a report by Dr. Virgil G. Hunt, superintendent in the University Heights.

Seventeen churches outside Indianapolis burned their mortgages.

Bishop Fred L. Dennis of the northwest area opened the conference in $89,013 to benevolences which is in excess of last year's contribution. Ten of the conference churches made substantial reductions in their debts over the past year. These include the First church of Indianapolis, which paid off $12,000; the Brookside church, $8488; and the Belmont church, $1848. Likewise 10 congregations showed an increase in membership.

"Jesus spoke in the vocabulary of the common people and had an open ear to the voice of God and a willing and trustful spirit," was the bishop's description. "A face is a marvelous instrument of personal revealing care, sorrow, the bairer things of life and even criminal tendencies," said Bishop Dennis.

"The face of Jesus, likewise, reveals the moods sweeping his soul. At times it reflected tenderness or indignation and when He carried His cross at Jerusalem, determination. Then it was 'That Face Like Flint.'

This afternoon, Dr. O. O. Arnold, associate editor of Sunday school literature and Dr. W. E. Roush, professor of Bonhoeffer Theological seminary will speak. Both are from Dayton, O. Bishop Dennis will bring the first day's sessions to a close with the address, "Men on the March," at a meeting beginning at 7:30 p. m.
