

URGE LEGIONNAIRES TO PRAY ON V-DAY
Fifty thousand American Legionnaires and families have been called upon by William E. Brown, department commander, to support all churches, regardless of denomination, in plans for religious service to commemorate the defeat of Germany when it comes.
"We are aware that in every community there are Gold Star Mothers whose loved ones will not return from the fronts. It is exceedingly proper that on the day of surrender we join in worship in the church of our choice," Mr. Brown said.

DEWEY TO MAKE TOUR FOR UNITY
Candidate to Travel 6700 Miles and Meet State Leaders.

PAWLING, N. Y., Sept. 1. (U. P.).—Governor Thomas E. Dewey plans to devote a major portion of his 6700-mile transcontinental trip to uniting Republican leaders behind his campaign for the presidency.
The Republican presidential nominee believes that one of the most important tasks of his cross-country tour is to obtain the active support of G. O. P. leaders and impress on them the necessity of linking the national campaign with drives for local offices, his associates said. They pointed out that only seven major political speeches have been scheduled for the 22 days he will be out of the state.
Dewey, it was said, is determined to avoid mistakes made by Wendell L. Willkie in 1940 in failing to bring state leaders actively into the campaign. He intends to make it clear that victory depends upon the results of campaign work of state leaders rather than speeches by the candidate.
"This is not going to be a one-man show," one Dewey adviser said. "We want the active support of every party leader in every section of the country."
The campaign conferences have been going on almost since the day he was nominated at the Chicago national convention in June and when he returns to Albany on Sept. 28, he will have met leaders from virtually every section of the country except the "deep south."

Here comes one of them clerks from Corps. Start picking your teeth with a bayonet.

'Patience,' Nazis Told by Goebbels

LONDON, Sept. 1 (U. P.).—Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, squelching any hopes the Germans might have had of immediately changing the course of the war through use of "secret weapons," told the Reich yesterday it must wait patiently before such weapons can be brought into play.
His weekly dispatch in the propaganda publication "Das Reich," of which a brief review was broadcast by the Berlin radio, said that it takes time to organize the mass production of armaments.
"That is why our new inventions have taken so long," he said. "It is not so much that we shall acquire a number of new miracle weapons which will turn the tide of war. Rather, the German method of conducting the war will assume different aspects. . . . It will take effect relatively slowly, and we must have some patience."

NAZIS IN DENMARK FEAR ALLIED BLOW

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1.—Maj. Gen. Hermann von Hanneken, entrenched in his headquarters at Silkeborg, Jutland, is looking westward across the North sea these days, frantically driving both his German troops and the Todt organization men, stationed in Denmark, into greater defense preparations than ever before.
Underground sources reveal that an air of tenseness and expectancy prevails among the Germans throughout Denmark, as if Gen. von Hanneken and his staff think their area may become the scene of some major operation in the near future. An eyewitness just arrived from Jutland, reports that the Todt men are forced to work day and night bolstering the shore defenses, adding tank traps and improving airfields, while troops estimated to number somewhat fewer than 100,000, are in an almost constant state of alert.
The Danish underground has reason to believe that the Germans are using Denmark as the proving ground for a new type of robot bomb. Their information even suggests that Denmark may be planned as a base for such weapons.

Hitler's Defeat Seen Near On 5th Anniversary of War

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
Scripture-Howard Foreign Editor
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Five years ago today, at dawn, Nazi land and air forces attacked Poland without a declaration of war as Hitler started out to conquer the world.
Today, competent opinion on both sides of the Atlantic regards Hitler as having reached the end of his rope. Only the coup de grace is yet to come. Lloyd's, a hard-boiled insurance concern, is offering 8 to 5 the war in Europe will be over by Oct. 31.
Reports that the Nazis expect to save themselves by using some sort of horrible "secret weapon" are discounted here. The allies have now reached Amiens, well along the so-called rocket coast of France. Unless Hitler soon fires away with whatever he's got, it will be too late.
There is also considerable doubt that even Hitler would dare resort to poison gas. Not that he would hesitate to murder the rest of Europe if it would save him. The point is, we have command of the air. If the Nazis use gas, Germany will be given a dose of her own medicine which she would not forget in a thousand years.
When the robots first fell on London a section of opinion demanded retaliation. It was suggested that for every robot attack on Britain, some town in Germany be selected for a return-plastering such as only the allied bomber command can administer. The government, however, was against the idea and so was the bulk of the people. But if poison or some other monstrous weapon were turned against the allies, all hell would break loose against Germany.
