

LAWYERS STUDY JUVENILE BILL

Bar Members in Dispute Over Proposals on Delinquency.

charges that it would result in making illegitimate the children of teen-age parents who got married without the court's approval.

Sections Sent Back

The bill, drafted by a subcommittee headed by Judge Mark W. Rhoads of juvenile court, would make any child under 18 who attempted to get married without the parents' consent a delinquent. The committee voted to refer the whole section back to the authors for revision.

Charges also were made that some sections of the bill, attempting to define child neglect were leaning toward a socialized government because they defined so much detail how parents should raise their children. This section, also was referred back for changes.

Shift in Authority

Lively debate also was expected on the bill's proposal to place the disposition of dependent children under exclusive jurisdiction of juvenile courts, eliminating provisions of the old law that gives state welfare departments the power to approve, social agencies to handle dependents.

The committee's report on the bill was to be submitted to the association for adoption this afternoon.

At the annual association banquet last night, Dr. Roscoe Pound, retired dean of Harvard university law school, assailed the present trend toward "law by force" through federal bureaus.

Opposing this view, Federal Judge John L. Parker, Charlotte, N. C., defended the practice of law by administrative directives, declaring "we might as well face the situation realistically because these agencies are here to stay."

Opposes Law by Force

Dr. Pound urged attorneys to bestir themselves against regimes that advocate law by force.

"Instead of our fundamental doctrine that government is to be carried on according to law, we are being told that what the government is law," he said.

Judge Parker declared that administrative directives have been developed as the result of the need for some control over the economic life of the nation.

"The people realize that without the exertion of some such power by the government, they are helpless in the hands of those who would otherwise direct the course of economic forces," Judge Parker said.

Aaron A. Huguenard, South Bend, was scheduled to be elected association president this afternoon and Chase Harding, of Crawfordsville, is expected to be elected vice president. Carl M. Gray, Petersburg, is the retiring president.

The principal speaker at tonight's closing banquet will be U. S. Senator Joseph P. O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

If the War in Europe Comes to End Soon, How Soon Will G. I. Joe Be Coming Home?

Meanwhile army sources will not discuss the plan.

It will be based, however, on a point grading system. Soldiers will be allowed points for dependents, age, length of service, combat assignments, overseas duties, decorations and wounds. Release will be in order of the largest number of points. The over-all reduction is expected to range from 1,000,000 upward.

May Be Modified

This plan will be subject to possible modification by congress, where there is some sentiment favoring discharge of fathers first, and also persons with certain skills. Any such plan will be complicated to administer. For one thing, it will tear apart some of the most experienced combat units, and experience is a prime battle asset. So discharges from organizations which continue fighting must be controlled so as not to effect fighting efficiency. The process of replacing those discharged would be similar to replacement of casualties, though often the process would be more abrupt unless regulated.

Troops will be given a chance to choose service with the occupation forces. It is anticipated the latter may be made up entirely of those who wish to remain. This option will increase the chances of those who want to be discharged.

Large Occupation Force

The army has given no indication of the size of the occupation forces to remain. It is accepted that the allies will occupy all of Germany. Thus the Americans probably will be called upon to provide a much larger occupation force than in the last war.

Then the Americans were first

ATTACKS ON BRITISH BY ROBOTS DWINDLE

LONDON, Sept. 1 (U. P.).—The robot bombardment of southern England slackened today as allied troops drove through the bomb-launching areas in northern France, but a few flying bombs, apparently directed from Belgium and Holland, crashed into the London area this morning.

At least 100 robot launching ramps were captured by allied troops yesterday in a 1400-square mile rectangle bounded by Le Havre, Rouen, Amiens and Abbeville, and 20 were overrun between the Seine and Beauvais.

United Press War Correspondent Ronald Clark quoted Frenchmen in the Rouen area that the Germans had about 2000 fixed robot bases in northern France, but scores of these were being neutralized hourly as the allied drive spread.

The mayor of Rouen told Clark that at least three of every four robots launched by the Nazis in that area had been exploding on French soil before they even reached the channel coast.

INDIANA GOP WOMEN TO HEAR GOV. DEWEY

A delegation of Indiana Republican women will go to Louisville, Ky., Sept. 7 for the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs at which Governor Thomas E. Dewey, C.O.P. presidential candidate, will speak. The Hoosier delegation will be headed by Mrs. Eleanor Barker Snodgrass, Republican state vice chairman, who will serve as parliamentarian for the convention.

Sharing the platform with Governor Dewey will be Rep. Charles Halleck, Indiana's second district congressman. Mrs. Simeon S. Willis, wife of the Kentucky governor, will preside.

HOOSIERS IN SERVICE GET 100,000 BALLOTS

More than 100,000 state and national war ballots have been mailed to Hoosier men and women in the armed services, Rue J. Alexander, secretary of state, revealed today. This number represents about one-third of all military personnel from Indiana, considerably more than government officials expected two months ago. Early estimates were that a mere 10 to 15 per cent of the armed forces would cast ballots.

TWO JOIN BUTLER JOURNALISM STAFF

Appointment of two new instructors to the Butler university journalism staff was announced today by Mrs. Rosamond Jones, acting head of the journalism department.

Victor Peterson, Indianapolis Times photographer-reporter, will teach "news photography" Tuesday and Thursday mornings and Ronald W. Gilbert, Associated Press writer, will supervise the students on the copydesk of the Collegian, daily university newspaper.

Mr. Peterson, a graduate of Beloit college and the University of Chicago, was instructor in history and political science at schools in Illinois, Wisconsin and Tennessee before joining The Times staff more than two years ago.

Mr. Gilbert, a graduate of DePauw university, was state director of the Journal-Gazette at Ft. Wayne, managing editor of the Warsaw Times and publisher of the Remington Review before joining the Associated Press staff.
