'Werewolf' At the Lyric

Gypsy Princess Turns Out to Be Balkan Bogeywoman.

A gypsy princess who turns at will into a great, gaunt wolf is the subject of the "Cry of the Werewolf," Columbia picture that opened yesterday at the Lyric theater.

That particular Balkan bogeywoman finds sanctuary in New Orleans with a transient tribe of Transylvanians.

Scientist Murdered.

The motive for the first savage killing is to keep a scientist, Fritz Leiber, from discovering that Nina Foch, the gypsy princess, is the daughter of Marie La Tour. The other wolfish attacks are meant to cover up evidence.

Most of the action takes place either in the gypsy camp or in the old La Tour house which has been converted into a museum for psychic research.

There are a few amusing sequences between a hard-boiled police lieutenant who doesn't believe in spooks or any allied creatures and a detective who is more credulous.

The Love Interest

The sad faced apple with something resembling a British accent who guides visitors around the La Tour manse for hire is scared completely silly by the odd goings on.

There is, of course, the necessary love interest, at times involving the gypsy princess as a third party, and a certain amount of witchcraft to boot.

The producers go to great lengths to make their theme plausible and throw in a few dashes of demonology and voodooism for good measure. "Soul of a Monster" is the second feature. (By Robert J. Fox)

Indiana Has Marine Film

New Picture Shows the Corps In Action.

"Marine Raiders," showing at the Indiana, is not "just another war movie."

It portrays the marine in combat and depicts his feelings on leave and when he returns to the U. S. a veteran of months in the South Pacific.

Starring Pat O'Brien as Maj. Steve Lockhart and Robert Ryan as Capt. Dan Craig, the movie takes the marines through battles in the South Pacific, where they see their closest buddies die, and then to Australia for a rest.

Meets Aussie Girl

Here Dan meets and falls in love with Ellen Foster of the Women's Australian Air corps, portrayed by Ruth Hussey. But before long he is back in the U. S. training recruits.

His hate for the Japs is so intense he thinks of nothing but getting another crack at them and finding Ellen again.

The climax is one that belies some people's belief that the war will be over when the Germans are beaten.

Showing with "Marine Raiders" is another Harold Peary comedy, "Gildersleeve's Ghost." (By Georgia Clark)
