

RED VETO PLAN FOR LEAGUE HIT

State Department Hears Views of 96 U. S. Groups On World Peace Plan.

By R. H. SHACKFORD

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (U. P.)—Ninety-six organizations, representing a cross section of American life, have made plain to state department officials that the public is opposed to any voting procedure in the new world security council that would allow one of the big powers to vote on an issue involving itself.

This was learned today from delegates who attended the state department's opening meeting of a campaign to promote public discussion of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals for a new world peace organization.

Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr., and other members of the American delegation which formulated the proposals met for two hours yesterday with representatives of the 96 organizations which covered lawyers, labor, business, farmers, churches, racial and civic groups, veterans and organizations interested in world security.

The meeting was not public, but some delegates revealed later that the most critical questions pertained to the Russian proposal that a permanent member of the security council—one of the big powers—should have a veto power over collective action, even if the action were against itself.

There has never been any doubt how the state department and the American delegation stands on that issue.

The American legal system is built on the theory that the accused shall not sit on the jury.

But some of the participants in yesterday's meeting were understood to have sought assurances that the United States will continue to press for its viewpoint.

The voting procedure of the council is the major remaining un-

YANKS BUCK STIFF BOLOGNA DEFENSE

ROME, Oct. 17 (U. P.)—American troops of the 5th army met an all-out German defense of the approaches to Bologna today as they edged to within nine and a half miles of the gateway to the Po valley.

The Germans apparently were concentrating a good portion of their Northern Italy forces along the 5th army front for a desperate bid to hold Bologna.

There was much less opposition on the Adriatic sector, where three allied columns were converging on Cenona, with Canadian forces only a mile and a half from the town, one of the main junction points of the important Bologna-Rimini highway.

DEMANDS CLEANUP ON INDIANA AVE.

Safety Board Commissioner

Smiley Chambers today demanded a wholesale clean-up of gambling on Indiana ave. Referring to recent complaints of the unrestrained operation of chance-taking enterprises in that neighborhood, Mr. Chambers said he believed police should make immediate raids on all establishments suspected of fostering gambling. The rest of the safety board remained noncommittal on the question.

THE INDIANAPOLIS TIMES

Red Men Open 75th Annual Parley

A miniature pow-wow at the annual parley of Great Council of Indiana, Improved Order of Red Men, is held by (left to right) Ivan Cragg, Indianapolis, new great sachem; Fred Schroeder, New Albany, new prophet and retiring great sachem, and Oscar Sherman, Indianapolis, retiring great keeper of the wampum.

A resolution calling for the purchase of $60,000 in war bonds was presented before the Great Council of Indiana, Improved Order of Red Men, as their 75th annual parley got under way today at the Claypool hotel.

The resolution proposed the purchase be made in addition to the $25,000 in bonds already held by the council. Indianapolis state lodges have purchased more than $250,000 in bonds.

The one-day convention was opened with an annual report by

BURGLARS ESCAPE AFTER THEFT SERIES

Fast-working burglars, operating in an automobile, broke into three filling stations last night, taking cash and batteries in quick getaways.

They kicked in the door of a station at 2222 E. New York st., took $15 and sped on to another station at 10th and Dorman sts., where they took some batteries and a few minutes later were reported seen leaving a third station at Temple ave. and Michigan st. with an undetermined amount of loot.

AGENT MOVES OFFICE

Horace E. Abbott, county agricultural agent, and Janice M. Berlin, county home demonstration agent, have moved their offices to the Purdue university extension center, 902 N. Meridian st.

A resolution calling for the purchase of $60,000 in war bonds was presented before the Great Council of Indiana, Improved Order of Red Men, as their 75th annual parley got under way today at the Claypool hotel.

Memorial services were conducted and tribute was paid to more than 1000 members now in the armed forces. A report by Edward C. Harding, Indianapolis, great chief of the records, disclosed that 121 tribes in Indiana now have a membership of approximately 10,000.

More than 500 delegates to the

Smog Shrug Dismisses Smog Pending Hiring of Engineer

For want of a professional smoke stoker Ray Howard "on the carpet" demanding immediate formulation of a smog eradication program.

As before, Mr. Howard retaliated that he's waiting until Jan. 1 when $3000 will become available for the employment of a qualified combustion engineer. Until then, it's like that, he illustrated with a noncommittal shrug of the shoulders. He didn't say so, but the present smoke abatement staff, consisting of a chief engineer and two inspectors, was appointed on a political patronage basis.

Its mass resignation was demanded last year by the mayor's advisory committee on smoke, but to no avail. Safety Board Member Paul Robertson instructed Mr. Howard to do something right now.

"Betrayal of the servant of Wall Street," he said. "The epithets the German press applied to Sidney Hillman and the other labor leaders are not a cent, a man for war pre-

"smoke is like sin . . . everybody talks against it, but nobody seems to want to do much about it."

FAVORS PERMANENT WAC

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (U. P.)—Chairman Robert R. Reynolds (D. N. C.) of the senate military affairs committee, today indorsed a resolution by the American Association of University Women to make WACs and WAVES a permanent part of the army and navy.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The Red army opened the offensive on either side of Vilkaviskis, a few miles below the trunk railway and some 15 miles east of the frontier, after a drumfire barrage that lasted several hours, a Nazi communiqué reported.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.

The German Transoceanic news agency in a supplementary dispatch bluntly described the reported attack as "a new Soviet offensive against East Prussia," the easternmost province of Germany proper.