drove them into rival C. I. O. groups. He said some established unions had been wiped out by unfair treatment of Negroes and asked for a more liberal stand on the matter.

Sees European Need

Joseph D. Keenan, vice president of the war production board, suggested that American labor be permitted to send trained personnel overseas to help reconstruct the devastation wrought by war.

"Re-establishment of a vigorous and stable labor movement," he said, must lay a sound basis for progress in a Europe devastated by war and fascism.

Mr. Keenan also urged construction activity high enough to boost employment from its present low of 300,000 to 3,000,000 workers. He recommended a temporary government program while the construction industry expanded to necessary levels.

Joseph I. Padway, legal counsel for A. F. of L., expressed confidence that "anti-labor legislation" would be defeated in the nation's courts. He said that the objectives of statutes now being tested in the courts was to compel unions to register, to license their officials, to legalize strike votes only if a majority of those employed favored them, and to gain complete "control of the internal affairs of the unions."

Legion Head Speaks

Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander of the American Legion, cautioned labor against attempting to maintain advantages gained solely because millions of men and women were absent in the services. In any controversy, he warned, sympathy would be with the servicemen, and asserted that the Legion and labor had marched toward the same goal for years.

Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, disclosed that his board had worked out a program in the last few days designed not only to protect servicemen, but those who stayed on the job working either for themselves or an employer. He also recommended improvement of state unemployment insurance laws, including state funds sufficient to increase the maximum unemployment benefit to $25 a week.

Gen. MacArthur sent a message to the convention expressing his gratitude for labor's war effort, and calling on labor to keep on the job.

Science asserts: faces may be more youthful again

What would you give for a younger, more attractive skin of face and throat? Well, science asserts that, for most women, this is possible with ENDOCREME. This is because scientific ENDOCREME acts to improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial "look".... improve it to a degree hitherto thought impossible. ENDOCREME, with its 7-year record of success, contains that great discovery, ACTIVOL. This ACTIVOL is the laboratory counterpart to Mother Nature's own skin-vitalizing substance. This natural substance grows less with age and ENDOCREME, absorbed under the skin's surface to rebuild cells and tissue, compensates for this loss. Thus, coarse, dry, scamy, ageing skins tend to become fresher, firmer, smoother, lovelier, more youthful again. How better can you spend your cosmetic dollars? Try ENDOCREME. Many report big improvement in only 30 days.

Officer Here Turns Cleaner; Blast Costs U. S. $2585.45

head a bottle of ketchup aimed at somebody else by an enlisted man from the nearby army air base. The lawmakers voted Walter $2500 for damages inflicted.

About the same time he was mopping off the ketchup, an army officer arrived at Stout field, Indianapolis, Ind., with a jug of stuff to clean his pants. Boom! What the blast did to Miss Enid M. Albertson is best described by her demand for $5000 damages.

The lawmakers agreed it was quite an explosion, but said $5000 was too much. They put Miss Albertson down for $2585.45.

Young Cecil Gregory was driving his dad's team of mules through Trousdale county, Tenn., last year when some army planes swooped down. The frightened mules ran away. Cecil was killed; Congress ordered payment in full settlement to his father of $3500.

Several people were killed by falling airplanes. Others were injured. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowe were attending the movies one night at Norfolk, Va. When they got home a couple of hours later, they didn't have a home. A navy plane had flattened it. Congress appropriated $2700 for them to rebuild.

Sometimes a government employee hurts himself in his regular line of business and if he wants to file a claim, as did Francis D. Stovall, a rural mail carrier of Clinton, Miss., congress has to enact a special law. Mr. Stovall's private law now has been passed and he can collect for damages he suffered while changing a tire on his automobile.

That brings us finally to Frank Robertson, a cheated patriot of Portland, Ore., who paid his $50 for a Liberty bond in 1918 and never did get it. He wrote a lot of letters, but you know what happens when you write to the government. Congress eventually got around to Frank and fixed him up with an appropriation of $86.13, representing the cost of the bond, plus interest at 4 1/2 per cent until 1935, the redemption date.

COUPLE STRUCK AT STREET CROSSING

Three persons, two of them pedestrians, were injured in overnight traffic accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gray, 212 S. Downey ave., were struck by an automobile driven by Curtis O. Millner, 18, of 1428 E. 10th st., at Downey ave. and E. Washington st. Mr. Gray, who is 63, is in a fair condition at City hospital where he was treated for severe head cuts. Mrs. Gray, who is 58, received hip and back injuries.

Millner was arrested on charges of failure to give the pedestrian the right of way and reckless driving.

Carl Edward Kiefer, 37, of 1738 S. Delaware st., received cuts and shoulder injuries when his Railway Express truck overturned at Keystone and Lexington aves. after the steering knuckle had broken. He was taken to Methodist hospital.

RIVERSIDE TROLLEY RESUMING OLD ROUTE

Effective Monday the Riverside trackless trolley line will resume its former route over the newly reopened Indiana ave. bridge.

The route is: Indiana ave. to Stadium dr., northwest to Montcalm st., north to 181st st., then west over the regular route.

The present City hospital line will be discontinued and the area served by the new route.

HARNESS TO TOUR EUROPEAN FRONTS

American soldiers finance the government.

Mr. Harness says he will try to learn the facts about the francs and inflation. He was overseas in world war I, wounded in France and won the purple heart.

"In England I want to inquire, if I am permitted to do so, about the actual working out of our lend-lease program," Mr. Harness said. "There are so many stories about our buying things and letting the charges against us be determined at some future date."

"Recently there have been numerous newspaper stories about the shortage of ammunition holding up the troops in France. Maybe we can find out who is really responsible for that situation."

"Hospitalization is another thing we want to investigate and even such items as why our soldiers are out of cigarettes."

Rep. Clifford Davis (D. Tenn.), another member of the group shared the view that this is not to be "just another congressional junket."

"I have the names of men from Tennessee and I expect to get right out in the field and talk to them so that we will have some intelligent knowledge of their future legislative needs," Mr. Davis said.

ODDS ARE SWINGING IN NUBBINS' FAVOR

DENVER, Nov. 23 (U. P.).—Forest "Nubbins" Hoffman, who celebrated an early Christmas Sunday because doctors believed a bladder ailment might take his life before Dec. 25, is "responding to treatment" at Mercy hospital and the odds are swinging in his favor, his doctor said today.

The 3-year-old Cheyenne, Wyo., boy was given only a one-in-ten chance to live Tuesday when he was removed from his home to Mercy hospital.
