YOUR G. I. RIGHTS— Discharge of Yank Ends Foxhole Scholarships

By ANN STEVICK NEA Staff Writer

Q—Can a veteran take up a course of study with the armed forces institute or resume one he was taking before discharge?

A—No, these foxhole scholarships by which so many soldiers have tutored themselves in everything from electronics to philosophy, are strictly G. I.—that is, they are paid for out of moneys earmarked for the welfare of enlisted men, and army is very watchful that nobody else, including the veterans, gets any of it. You won't even be allowed to finish a course you are taking when discharged.

Q—Must I pay a fee for having are Alan Parrish, president; Ann Lindstaedt, vice president; Anne Lytle, secretary, and Peggy Yockey, treasurer.

Herschel Stroyman will play the lead in the Shortridge high school play, "For Pete's Sake," at 8:15 p.m. Friday in Caleb Mills hall.

Others in the cast will be Thornton Kline, Mary Jo DeVais, Alice Rosenfield, Jake Denison, Leonard Wild, Julia Brake, Wylma Hensley, Peggy Augustine, Marian Sterrett, Neal Randolph and Richard Rettig.

"Shortridge Blue Devil, a B-17 Flying Fortress, is representing Shortridge students, alumni and faculty members on the battle front. The bomber was purchased with money raised by war bond sales last spring.

POLICEMEN 'WEEP' OVER SAFE CRACKING

Police officers wept last night when they arrived at the scene of an attempted safe robbery.

Called by a merchant policeman, Harry Beynon, officers from three cars invaded the premises of the Victor Furniture Co. at 231 W. Washington st. Then they beat a hasty retreat.

When the burglar broke the combination a cloud of tear gas was released. The burglar fled. The gas still was thick when the police arrived.

A safe in the office of the Perfection Biscuit Co., 437 S. Illinois st., was turned upside down and the bottom cut out with a blowtorch and chisels. Gasoline coupons worth between 500 and 600 gallons had been taken. A. D. Green, company president, said.

The combination was battered off the safe in the office of the General Apartments, Inc., 22 W. Vermont st., but no entry was made. The attempt was discovered by an employee who reported it to W. J. Brownan, 1934 N. Meridian st., manager.
