

WASHINGTON

Calling

A Weekly Sizeup by the Washington Staff of the Scripps-Howard Newspapers

WASHINGTON, April 14.—The Truman administration:

It's too early to speak with complete assurance, but this is the way it looks now:

There will be many cabinet changes in time.

The senate will have more to say about running the country than ever before in recent history.

MR. STETTINIUS is almost certain to give way to James F. Byrnes as secretary of state. It will not happen before the San Francisco conference, but Mr. Byrnes will go to San Francisco as the President's personal representative. Mr. Byrnes was at Yalta, knows what went on there.

Mr. Stettinius was appointed with the frank understanding that President Roosevelt was to be his own secretary of state, that the state department "team" was to be held on a tight rein, removed if it didn't perform as F. D. R. wanted.

Mr. Truman was to have nominated Mr. Byrnes for vice president at Chicago, until Mr. Roosevelt changed the signals. With Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes at the helm, chances for senate ratification of treaties will be improved.

Morgenthau Expected to Be Replaced

MR. MORGENTHAU will go. Edward Pauley, California oil man and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, or John Snyder, St. Louis banker and close friend of the President, are mentioned as possible successors.

Secretary of War Stettinius has been talking of resignation after V-E day and the possibility is greater now, but he will not leave by request.

Attorney General Biddle probably will go. It had been rumored here that Mr. Biddle would appoint Maurice Milligan, Mr. Truman's most hated political enemy, an assistant attorney general. Mr. Milligan will not get the appointment now, and Robert E. Hannegan may get Mr. Biddle's job.

It has been traditional for national committee chairmen to go into the cabinet as postmaster general, but Mr. Hannegan aspires higher.

FRANK WALKER, now postmaster-general, has stayed only out of friendship for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

There are no present rumors about changes in the navy department or interior. Secretary Ickes has worked closely with President Truman on various war matters.

A new secretary of agriculture is likely.

SECRETARY WALLACE probably is secure in his new job. He has a large personal following in the Democratic party, a factor that will count with President Truman.

FRANCES PERKINS will make her resignation good this time, as she has been trying to do for so long. But no one has yet hazarded a guess as to how Mr. Truman will find a labor secretary acceptable to all factions.

Old Friendships

LOOK FOR A SENATE coalition to dominate the administration. Tom Connally (D. Tex.) is likely to head it. Senate has long seethed with resentment of the strong executive; President Truman has sympathized with this point of view. He'll turn to old friends on the hill for advice, guidance. And Mr. Connally is one of the oldest; President Truman credits him with being potent in re-electing him to the Senate.

He asked Mr. Connally to serve on the Truman committee, help him with that work. Mr. Connally was his choice to notify him formally of his nomination as vice president.

Another close adviser: Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico.

Harry Hopkins will disappear from public life promptly. His place as close confidant, adviser, probably will be taken by Hugh Fulton, former secretary of the Truman committee, now practicing law in Washington. He rode to the White House with Truman Friday morning.

CHANGES IN the high command will not take place, with the possible exception of Gen. Brehon Somervell of the Army service forces. Somervell and President Truman clashed sharply on Canal other matters. If Somervell stays he'll be strictly in army services and supply.

President Truman has a military background; probably will feel the close sympathy with the army that Mr. Roosevelt had for the navy. He wanted to go to West Point but was stopped by a poor eye; was a charter member of the Missouri national guard.

He's still a reserve officer, wanted active duty in this war. His heroes are military, he's a close student of military campaigns, an authority on the civil war. He's served on the senate military affairs committee for the past 10 years.

But under Truman, armed forces will have less to say about civilian affairs. He has bucked them on many such matters, resents military intrusions on civil

Teachers to Learn Rules
And Supervise Marble Games

Readin', writin' and arithmetic will be tossed to the four winds Monday when school kids knock down to qualifying rounds in The Times-City Recreation Division marble tournament.

Four representatives will be selected from each of the some 150 city, township and parochial schools for participation in the sectionals on April 28.

Meanwhile school teachers supervising tourney play have been asked to attend a demonstration session at 3:45 p. m. Monday in the Central Y. M. C. A.

Indianapolis Recreation Director K. Mark Cowen will demonstrate with agates and crystals for the teachers' benefit.

MOURNING FOR FDR DECREED IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, April 14 (U. P.)—Black bordered red flags fluttered over all official buildings in Moscow today in keeping with an official decree calling for two days of mourning for President Roosevelt.

The mourning decree was unpreceded. Hitherto such an honor has been reserved for the highest Soviet leaders.

Mr. Roosevelt's death still overshadowed everything else in the minds of the government and the people alike, it appeared. They hoped President Truman would fill the gap in the Big Three ranks. The government newspaper Izvestia said:

The Soviet people always will cherish the memory of the great American statesman. President Roosevelt, who has done so much to strengthen Soviet-American friendship.

"All freedom-loving nations will remember him as a great organizer of the struggle of the free nations against the common enemy and as a most outstanding battle in the cause of democracy and progress."

TRIPLE OFFENSIVE MOUNTED IN BURMA

CALCUTTA, April 14 (U. P.)—The allies continued the war against Japanese in the Burma theater by land, sea and air today.

The triple offensive resulted in the sinking of several coastal vessels in the Andaman sea, the entering of Hiaingdet by troops in the Mektila area and widespread destruction by bombing throughout Burma.

The unspecified number of Japanese coasters was sunk in a continuation of the anti-shipping sweep which caused the destruction of a Japanese convoy by the East Indies fleet in the latter half of March.

Prior to the naval battle the British fleet bombed Sigli and the port of Blair in the Andaman islands west of the lower coast of Burma. Shore installations were also bombed at Great Coco island, north of the Andamans.

The entering of Hiaingdet, eight miles east of That, by troops of the 14th army opened the way for a drive eastward along the road leading into the Shan states.

FDR's Flowers on Jefferson Grave

MONTICELLO, Va., April 14 (U. P.)—A wreath ordered by President Roosevelt was one of the last acts of his life today lies upon the grave of Thomas Jefferson.

The wreath was placed on the grave yesterday during Jefferson day ceremonies by Gen. E. Warner McCabe, commander of the University of Virginia's school of military government.
