

ALLEN WELFARE DIRECTOR 'OUT'

Scheumann Disqualified by Education Ruling.

Allen county's new welfare director has been disqualified because of failure to meet educational requirements, State Personnel Examiner Paul J. Fay said today.

Mr. Fay said Edward Scheumann of Ft. Wayne accepted the appointment "in good faith" from Allen county's reorganized welfare board in mid-June. Thereafter, it was learned he lacked educational qualifications specified for the job.

A merit examination from which an Allen county welfare eligibility list will be drawn up is scheduled for Aug. 14. Meanwhile, Case Work Supervisor Julia Fleming is temporarily administering the Allen county directorship.

New Boards In

All county welfare boards were abolished and new ones were appointed last May under a Republican administration act of the 1945 legislature. Some of the new county board members reportedly are not yet entirely familiar with welfare duties and qualifications.

A number of former county welfare directors, who had served under Democratic administrations, resigned when the 1945 act took effect, although not legally required to do so. The state personnel division has experienced difficulties in preparing eligibility lists from which these vacancies may be filled.

As a result some "provisional appointments" have been made until the shaken up county welfare systems can be re-aligned completely on a merit basis, it was learned.

GRAVE MARKER CASE IS ENDED

Pair Given Suspended Sentences by Judge.

The final chapter to the story of the mysterious appearance of a Confederate soldier's grave marker in the rear of a cottage in Rocky Ripple was written off in the juvenile court records today.

The story began last week when curiosity about the gravestone in the rear of 5116 Riverview dr. led to the arrest of Louis N. Udell, 19, and the detention of a 17-year-old girl who allegedly shared his cottage.

The court today Udell confessed that he and the girl found the tombstone on a rubbish pile at Crown Hill cemetery where they went looking for flowers June 13. He said he took the 300-pound marker "to use it as a stepping stone." Later, he said, they discovered carvings which revealed it was the gravestone of a Civil war casualty.

Erected as a "Gag"
Then, Udell told the court, they surrounded it with geraniums and put it up in their lawn "just as a gag."

The gag backfired when sheriff officials called at the house to investigate and stumbled onto the unmarried couple living there. Testimony in court today confirmed the girl's story that she was the wife of an overseas soldier whom she married last year. She told the court she had known her husband only three days before their marriage and that he left for camp an hour after the ceremony.

She admitted receiving allotments from the soldier although she said she didn't know where he is now. The girl smiled and nodded assent when Judge Rhoads said: "You mean you love Uncle Sam's money more than your husband?"

Sentences Suspended
Judge Rhoads suspended a sentence of $500 fine and 180 days in jail for Udell. Detention of the girl in the state girls' school until she was 21 was suspended. He pledged Udell to keep away from the girl until her marriage to the soldier is annulled after it was discovered her age at the time of the ceremony made it illegal.

He was also a member of Marion lodge 35, F. & A. M.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Mary Jane Schaler, and Mrs. Mildred Inasy; his mother, Mrs. Charles Froyd; a grandchild, Carole Ann Inasy, all of Indianapolis, and a sister, Mrs. W. J. Cathcart, Montgomery, Ala.

Propaganda Peddler Kamp's Mill Grinds Out Hate-Inciting Wares for Nationalist Groups

By FREDERICK WOLTMAN
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A high-powered propaganda mill is operating a flourishing business here in selling its wares to hate-inciting Nationalist groups throughout the country.

This was disclosed today in a printed, documented report on the Constitutional Educational League directed by Joseph Kamp. Kamp was indicted by a federal grand jury last year for refusing to identify the league's officers and contributors to a congressional committee.

The report of Kamp's organization was prepared by the Friends of Democracy, Inc., of New York, whose national committee includes Louis Bromfield, John Dewey, S. Stanwood Menken, Ordway Tead and Albert Edward Wisgam.

The document supports the findings of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, which two weeks ago reported how Nationalist organizations are seeking power and profit by appeals to racial and religious hatred, discontent and ignorance. Title of the report is "Joe Kamp, Peddler of Propaganda."

Through his league, says the report, Kamp "peddles confusion" by pinning "Communist" and "un-American" labels indiscriminately on liberal and democratic organizations.

He does this, the report adds, in a series of pamphlets, super-patriotic in tone, which are sold on a nation-wide scale by a staff of salesmen paid on a commission basis.

Reynolds in Picture

Kamp pamphlets are distributed by ex-Senator Robert T. Reynolds' Nationalist party, which the Scripps-Howard articles described as anti-Negro, anti-semitic and anti-Catholic and basing its appeal on the exploitation of labor strife and glorification of dictatorship.

Their sales are promoted by Gerald L. K. Smith, professional rabble-rouser. In his February issue of the Cross and the Flag, Smith wrote of Kamp: "He is a martyr to the cause of nationalism. God bless Joseph H. Kamp."

Carl Mote of Indianapolis, head of the National Farmers' Guild, also high-lighted in the Scripps-Howard articles, uses Kamp's material extensively.

Kamp's pamphlets are flamboyant, scare-head affairs, lavishly with red ink and usually selling for 25 cents apiece. His "Fifth Column in Washington" listed among others Robert H. Jackson, then attorney general and now a supreme court justice, and former Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Another is "The Fifth Column Conspiracy in America, Authentic Map and Directory—Official Intelligence, the Danger Spots in Your Community."

It lists as Communist the American Civil Liberties Union, which bars Communists from its national board; the Right-Wing Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers International union (A. F. of L.), and the Rand school, for decades strongly anti-Communist.

Goes After C. I. O.

Lately Kamp has been going after the C. I. O. In "Vote C. I. O. and Get a Soviet America," he calls Walter Reuther, C. I. O. Auto Workers vice president, whom the Communists have been attacking bitterly, a "Communist propagandist."

Kamp even brackets David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers union (A. F. of L.) as supporting "the Red cause," although the Communists themselves put him No. 1 among their enemies.

The Constitutional Educational league was formed in 1919 "for the purpose of defending constitutional government," according to the report, which was signed by Rex Stout, chairman of the Friends of Democracy, and L. M. Birkhead, national director.

The report adds: "Chief Justice William Howard Taft and Gen.

Leonard Wood were among its innocent sponsors (before Kamp took over). The league harps rather tiresomely on this 'respectable' beginning, but the fact is nothing now remains of the old league but the name."

As a sample of Kamp's come-on methods for attracting innocent prospects, the report reproduces one of his letters sent out in 1937 on league stationery.

CURTISS-WRIGHT OFFICIAL DIES AT 57

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (U. P.).—Charles W. Loos, 57, director and vice president of Curtiss-Wright corporation, died yesterday at Post Graduate hospital.

Loos, a native of New York, was in charge of airports for the corporation and handled its expansion from four plants to 17 in the last five years.

He was survived by a brother, John A. Loos.

"It is unfortunate," said the letter, "that the patriotic elements find it impossible to maintain one patriotic newspaper, when the opposition is able to publish 500 dailies, weeklies and monthlies. The letter concludes: 'Yours for American ideals.'"

In one pamphlet Kamp charges that O. John Rogge, assistant attorney general in charge of curbing un-American propaganda and subversive activities, was a "fifth columnist." This got top billing in an issue of the Fiery Cross, official publication of the knights of the Ku Klux Klan.
