

Advance City's Aviation Needs

Indianapolis' future aviation needs were outlined today by Newton Goudy (center). Arch Bobbitt, city corporation counsel is at the left. Right—Col. Clarence F. Cornish, director of the state department of aeronautics.

CITY PRESSES AIR LINE NEEDS

C. of C. Supplies CAB With 299 Pages of Data.

Indianapolis needs more air service to meet the requirements of its expanding industries, civil aeronautics board examiners, who are holding hearings here, were told today. The Indianapolis Chamber of Commerce aviation committee, representing also the city, the hearings, which opened in Hotel Lincoln yesterday, will cover petitions for airline service touching 800 cities and towns in eight Midwest states, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Tennessee, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The proposals include inter-city helicopter service, airline trunk and feeder lines. Nearly 200 persons are attending the hearings, which will last three weeks or more. They are fact-finding sessions on which the CAB eventually will allocate air service permits.

299 Pages of Data

Mr. Goudy documented the Indianapolis arguments with 299 mimeographed pages of statistical information, which he has been collecting for several months and which, bound together, makes a book nearly as thick as two Indianapolis telephone directories. CAB examiners will use it for reference later when making their recommendations to the board itself.

Neither the city nor the Chamber of Commerce urged the CAB to give new routes to any specific airline, merely urging more service.

Mr. Goudy said the greatest need is for direct service from Indianapolis to Cleveland, a route which three airlines—American, Transcontinental and Western Air, and United—want to fly.

East and West

Yesterday Cleveland officials also put up a strong plea for service to Indianapolis.

The route serving Cleveland could also go on to Rochester, N. Y., and other New England cities, Mr. Goudy said. Indianapolis also needs air service to Rockford, Ill., and on to Minneapolis and St. Paul, he said. Direct service to the Winnipeg region is another "hope," he added. Fast and more direct transportation to the upper Rocky Mountain and Northwest areas is needed, Mr. Goudy said. Studies indicate a need for service through Omaha, Neb., Cheyenne and Rock Springs, Wyo.; Boise, Ida.; Pendleton and Portland, Ore.; to Seattle, Wash., where service to western Canada

RULES PARK INN DEALS INVALID

Emmert Holds G. O. P. Can Oust Democrats.

Management of Indiana's vast state park hotel system faced a political shakeup today.

Nine contracts by which Democrats or "independents" continued to operate inns and concessions at state parks were ruled either invalid or subject to termination by Atty. Gen. James Emmert.

The contracts had been negotiated by previous Democratic conservation or works department regimes, preceding the present G. O. P. reign. Some had been issued as late as Jan. 1, 1945. The present conservation commission did not take office until last March 10. In accordance with Emmert's ruling, inn operators probably will be ousted from state park inns such as Spring Mill, McCormick's Creek, Pokagon, Shakamak, Clifty Falls, Turkey Run, Brown county and the Indiana dunes.

Five-Year Clause

Two agreements had been signed in connection with the dunes, one for operations of inns and cabins, the other for management of the arcade and pavilion.

Emmert decided that five-year contracts with inn lessees at Spring

Mill, McCormick's Creek, Pokagon and Shakamak were invalid. The contracts had also contained five-year renewal options.

Republicans have alleged the inn concessions were awarded on a patronage basis.

Five contracts for operation of hotels at Clifty Falls, Turkey Run, Brown County and the Dunes were ruled "subject to termination or renewal." Emmert pointed out that the two-year contracts in these cases are "agreements of employment, with the operators guaranteed a fixed salary."

Spring Mill Contract

"The acts of a former commission cannot be binding on its successors," he asserted.

Much of the lengthy, 38-page opinion given by Emmert was devoted to negotiations surrounding the Spring Mill hotel contract.

He charged that Myron L. Rees, president of Spring Mill Inn, Inc., operators of the hotel at that resort, was director of state parks at the time he signed a contract in 1939 with V. M. Simmons, who signed as "commissioner of the department of conservation."

Emmert said the contract was made effective nearly four months before the Spring Mill Inn company was incorporated. The attorney general said he was "informed" that the incorporators and first board of directors of the corporation included Rees' wife and his father-in-law.

The contract in the Spring Mill case, as well as the other three which Emmert declared invalid, pro-

Dean VanDyke Succeeded By Dr. Kraft at Earlham

Mr. Milton I. Kraft has been appointed dean of Earlham college and Prof. Orville Johnson will be dean of men, William C. Dennis, president of Earlham, announced today.

Dr. Kraft, who will succeed Dr. George D. VanDyke, has been assistant professor at Earlham since 1937. Formerly he was professor of education and director of teacher training at Bethany college in Lindsboro, Kas.

Because of the increased enrollment, Dr. VanDyke will devote all his time as professor in the department of physics.

Dr. Kraft received the bachelor of science, master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Illinois and studied at the University of Berlin in 1932 and 1933. Also in 1933 and 1938 he attended Oxford university in England.

Dean Johnson will continue teaching in the department of speech besides assuming his new duties as dean of men. He has been on the Earlham faculty for eight years. He graduated from the college in 1933, and from 1934 served as field secretary for the school.

Dean Johnson received the master of arts degree at the University of Michigan and held a teaching fellowship there during 1936 and 1937.

CAPEHART DEPLORES ALIEN WOMEN'S FATE

Poverty has degraded European womanhood "physically and spiritually," Senator Homer E. Capehart told the Indianapolis Council of Women today at the Columbia club.

"Women in many European countries are forced to perform a tremendous amount of manual labor, at little or no wages," said the senator. "Exploitation of female labor there has reached a new low. 'Naturally' this detracts from feminine values," he added. "It was our observation, while in Europe, that those nations taking undue advantage of their women are the poorest nations on the continent."

MOVIE STRIKE THREATENED

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (U. P.).—Almost 2000 New York city motion picture projector operators voted today to strike Oct. 19 unless a new contract is negotiated by that time.

and Alaska would be available, Mr. Goudy said.

An alternate route would be from Indianapolis to Omaha via Peoria, Ill., and Des Moines Iowa. Indianapolis air travelers must go through Chicago or Kansas City now to reach the Northwest.

Another direct route service required is by way of Decatur and Springfield, Ill.; Topeka and Salina, Kas.; Denver, Salt Lake City, Reno, and ending at San Francisco. Such a route would considerably shorten the airline distance and travel time between Indianapolis and San Francisco, Mr. Goudy said.

Another route Indianapolis seeks is through Vincennes, Ind.; Springfield and Joplin, Mo.; Tulsa and Oklahoma City to Amarillo, Tex. This would enable Indianapolis businessmen with interests in Mexico to make air connections in that direction.
