

PEACE PLAN FIZZLE NOW UP TO STALIN

Leaders Believe Russia Will Stop Short of Driving Western Allies Into Bloc.

By CARL D. GROAT
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 4.—It's now up to "Uncle" Joe Stalin. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser in the U. S. delegation, didn't say it in so many words but they left no doubt at their press conference that's how the foreign ministers' fiasco finally will have to be solved.

As the foreign ministers headed homeward it became clear that the bands between Britain and America—or their officials here, at least—had been strengthened. And if a new western bloc is to arise, France too indicated she would like to be dealt in.

If the Russians want isolation they have put themselves in a fair way toward achievement, but the consensus is that's the last speculation is true. It may explain the confidence of Secretary Byrnes and others that there will be continuing work for the deputies, and sooner or later there will be a general peace conference embodying all the allied powers who helped to win the war.

U. S. and England
Some prominent officials here saw England and the United States drawn closer together for the current economic consultations, in the light of Mr. Byrnes' and Foreign Secretary Bevin's close relations on the foreign ministers' council.

Mr. Byrnes paid compliments to Foreign Commissar Molotov by referring to the good feeling between the two, but this may have been offset by his subsequent reflection that nowadays it was impossible for any two or three nations, solely because of their power, to dictate to others to sign on the dotted line. Under the present circumstances, it is thought that it is well enough to end the conference now and give Mr. Molotov an opportunity to consult Moscow.

Want Democratic Process
Mr. Dulles emphasized that he approved and supported the U. S. policy in the council. He also noted that it seemed advisable, judging from lessons learned at Versailles after world war I, to get procedural matters well based before going on with further discussion. He suggested that it might not be well just to have the back-room work of a few people, as at Versailles, followed by a sort of take-it-or-leave-it proposition to the rest of the nations concerned. He maintained San Francisco's democratic process had made it possible to have the United Nations a living thing. But there was no mistaking that his and Mr. Byrnes' ideas of peace won't be a living thing if Russia dominates all.

It was made entirely plain that America's and Britain's policy opposed any narrow-gauge Big Three program of fixing all settlements on a take-or-leave basis. Russia obviously must come along or find her wartime friends allying westward.

Veto Power Question
Deputies of the delegations will have the opportunity meanwhile of pondering the Rhineland, Ruhr and Austrian questions as well as a few others, but it looks as if they can do little until they get more signs that Russia is agreeable to letting more players into the game. The question of veto power arises painfully after the current demonstration of non-agreement, but Mr. Dulles noted nothing can be done toward changing the blackball privileges until there is greater confidence shown among nations. Neither Mr. Byrnes nor Mr. Dulles presently possesses the formula for that but obviously will do their utmost to try to find it.

Certainly both manifested more confidence toward the future than recent events here and American utterances regarding Russia's stubbornness would have deemed, a couple of days ago, to justify.

BOARD COMMENDS 11 POLICE OFFICERS

The safety board today commended six patrolmen and four detectives for meritorious duty. The officers are Patrolmen Cecil London, Frank Lotz, John J. Farrell, Arthur K. Ratz, Francis Schmidt, Edward Clark and Detectives John Glenn, Robert Butler, Dean Schwartz and Ralph Chambers.

ARRESTED IN EGYPT
CAIRO, Oct. 4 (U. P.).—Ahmed Hussein, president of the young Egypt Society, which formerly was considered pro-fascist, was arrested by the Egyptian police today and charged with printing revolutionary pamphlets.

IN INDIANAPOLIS

EVENTS TODAY
Indianapolis Read Estate board, luncheon, 12:15 p. m., Hotel Lincoln.
North Side Study Club, luncheon, 12:30 p. m., Hotel Lincoln.
Civil Aeronautics Authority Board, all-day meeting, Hotel Lincoln.

EVENTS TOMORROW
True Blue Roller club, meeting, 7:30 p. m., Hotel Washington.
Indianapolis Presbyterian society, executive board, meeting, Y. W. C. A.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Frank Joseph Bohr, 31, Harrison; Thelma E. Darling, 21, E. 345.
Warren Randall Sims, 20, N. Highland ave., Apt. 4; Ter Mae Collins, 20, N. Highland ave., Apt. 6.
Clarence Kenneth Shook, 24, Haverhill, Pa.; Martha E. Schindler, 18, 303 Central.
Willie Skates, 24, W. 10th; Elmore Eva Taylor, 24, W. 10th.
James Beaumont, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Joan Marie Kries, 22, N. Gray.
Omer Maguire, 20, 505 Highland ave.; Mary Crane, 20, Highland ave.
Everett Edwin Thompson, R. 1, Box 28; Martha Ellen Tillson, 1245 Morgan dr.
James Lloyd Baughman, 1909 Mills; Hazel Deloris Clayton, 27, E. 11th.
Clyde William Zie, Evansville; Evelyn J. Farthing, Franklin.
Robert John Mueller, 2210 Park; Leona Mae Harrell, 2249 Central.

BIRTHS
Twins (boys)
At Home—Eberli, Nellie Minor, 4919 Caroline.
Girls
At St. Francis—Clayton, Louise Smith; Robert, Dorothy Totten.
At City—Max, Jean Hardin.
At Columbus—Bryant, Irene Franklin; Urban, Gladys Burgin.

ARRANGE DISPLAYS FOR FALL FESTIVAL

Persons attending the annual fall festival of the Methodist City Council auxiliary will see displays of canned food and sewing given by members of the various Methodist churches.

The fall festival will be held tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. in the Fletcher Place Methodist church. The canned food will be used in the winter program of the Fletcher Place Community center and in the Goodwill Industrial cafeteria. The sewed articles, made of materials sent to the Goodwill Industries, are turned over to the industries for sale in their store.

Mrs. Robert Plutro will review "The Immortal Life" by Irving Steven at the festival. Mrs. Plutro is the president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Grace Methodist church. Mrs. J. H. Smiley will give the devotional prayer. The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Fifty-First Street Methodist church will serve tea. Mrs. Henry Meyers is in charge of special music.

P. A. C. Handbill Hits State Unemployment Law Penalty

Handbills critical of penalty clauses in the Indiana unemployment compensation law were distributed today by P. A. C. members in front of the unemployment compensation office.

The handbills attacked provisions which suspend unemployment allotments for six weeks if applicants refuse "suitable employment" without "good cause." It was pointed out that lower wages do not constitute "good cause."

"There is great danger that the law will be used to force down wage standards to a pre-war level," the handbills said. "The threat of penalties is already being used as a club to force workers to take jobs paying half of that they have been earning during the war."

"This is an attack on the full employment program and all wages," they declared. The mimeographed statements were issued by the "Unemployed council of the Marion County Citizens Political Action committee."

TRUMAN NEWBERRY IS DEAD IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Oct. 4 (U. P.).—Funeral services will be held Saturday for Truman H. Newberry, the Detroit industrialist, who was the center of a major political investigation when he became a U. S. senator, died yesterday at the age of 80.

Newberry devoted most of his life to the extensive business interests he inherited from his father, John Stoughton Newberry.

Other than serving as secretary of the navy under President Theodore Roosevelt, Newberry was comparatively unknown as a public figure until he became senator.

President Woodrow Wilson, needing party support as the first world war ended, asked Michigan for a Democratic senator and drafted Henry Ford to run as the party candidate.

Michigan Republicans nominated Newberry, who defeated Ford by 7567 votes. Long before election day, Senator Atlee Pomerene, Ohio Democrat, strongly attacked Newberry's campaign expenditures. Pomerene charged a violation of the corrupt practices act and challenged Newberry's seating in the senate.

Pomerene's charges forced a congressional recount which narrowed Newberry's margin over Ford to 4334 votes. Congressional committees investigated the election. But the senate finally voted, by a narrow margin, to seat Newberry.

A federal court in Grand Rapids, Mich., convicted Newberry and 16 other defendants of violating the act covering election outlays after Special Prosecutor Frank C. Dalley charged that more than $500,000 had been spent on Newberry's campaign. The court levied a fine of $10,000 and a prison term of two years.

The sentence on all defendants was dismissed when Newberry appealed to the U. S. supreme court. The high court ruled that the act under which Newberry was convicted was invalid.

Newberry, disturbed by the attention the trial had attracted, retired from the senate Nov. 19, 1922.

Newberry had wide business interests in Michigan, including membership on the board of directors of the Packard Motor Co. from its incorporation in 1903.

ARMY TRACING MEN ON LIST OF MISSING

By Scripps-Howard Newspapers
WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Both the war and navy departments are sticking to their policy of waiting a year before listing missing men as dead.

"I don't know how long this will be kept up," a war department spokesman said, "but there hasn't been any order to change it yet." Speaking unofficially, the spokesman said he doubted that there was much chance that any of the men still listed as missing in the European theater would turn up alive.

Undoubtedly some men listed as missing are missing on purpose, he added. Search teams are now at work in Europe seeking traces of missing men. By interviewing natives, they have found graves of many and have established identity by the dog tags.

Because of the vast distances and the number of islands in the Pacific, many more "missing" men are expected to be found in that area both war and navy department officials said.

DENIES OF BE

Chairman Jer
Democr

(Continued F

Lick meeting of publican Editor
ing last week, h discussion was no

Gates H

Mr. Jenner g considered a so insider to take away from Sen Willis. Some s talk about the business has si
Gates giving hi
this time.

Among others
as senatorial po
seph J. Daniels, Congressmen J.
Wilson and LaF

The latter w gressive candid
PAC than regul ization support nation in conve count. Govern to name the mo payroll can c tion easily, it i

CHURCH T DR. WICK

Frank B. Shie portrait of Dr.
the membership tarian church a meeting tomor
Dr. Wicks is t
tus of the ch
Rice, president board, will ac behalf of the ch will speak brief
the work of Ho
Dr. E. Burdett will outline th church during th organizations w constitution will vote. Mrs. Norr
he in charge o ceding the ann

The Kind of Accessories You Use Most...

With their Beauty and Simplicity of Good Taste Inexpensively Priced.

Elvette Fabric Gloves, 3.00 and 5.50

Fabric Handbags, 100% Wool, 5.00* and 7.95*

Necklets and Bracelets, 1.00 and 2.00*

*plus 20% excise tax

Gloves, Street Floor

Handbags, Street Floor

Costume Jewelry, Street Floor

L. S. Ayres & Co.

SEE the American series of MINIATURE ROOMS by Mrs.
James Ward Thorne at the JOHN HERRON ART INSTITUTE