

SEES ATOM USE IN POWER FIRMS

Researchist Says Energy in Cars Is Far Away.

By SANDOR S. KLEIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
DAYTON, O. Oct. 24.—First use of atomic energy for peacetime purposes will be in large power plant installations, in the opinion of one of the key figures in the development of the atomic bomb.

Dr. Charles A. Thomas, research vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Co., who expressed that view, said that a lot of the "Buck Rogers" applications of atomic power that people are talking about—such as in planes and automobiles—are still "a long way off."

"However," he added, "for large power plant installations, I don't think it's as far off."

Thomas, who was in charge of the chemistry and purification processes in producing plutonium for the atomic bomb, flew here from his home in St. Louis to meet with a group of 16 newsmen making a reconversion study of the nation's industry. The tour was arranged by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Need Scientists

He warned that unless the "short-sighted government policy" of putting youthful scientists into uniform was not stopped immediately, the United States might lose the lead to some other nation in the development of atomic power.

Thomas said he had been advised that Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the office of scientific research and development, had taken the matter up with President Truman.

He said many of the scientists who worked on the atomic bomb project during the war were young men, ranging in age from 23 to 27. They were prevented from being inducted into the military service by the direct intervention of the late President Roosevelt, Thomas said. But now that the war is over, he said, these men are being drafted.

This practice was not confined to atomic power researchers. For instance, Thomas said, in his own company 200 scientists are now classified as 1-A, a larger number than existed during the war.

He declared that this "short-sighted" policy had placed the United States four to eight years behind in scientific research generally.

"Free discussion of the issues confronting the Japanese people," he added, "is necessary in order for them to decide intelligently on their future form of government."

There also has been a lack of frank discussion on the subject of press freedom, Dyke asserted. He added, however, that he had no desire to make a blueprint of press policies because such action would be "inconsistent with Democratic principles and contrary to the Potsdam declaration."

Memphis Assistant Secretary of War John J. McCloy made an urgent telephone call to Washington and worked until 3 a. m. with his staff. He held daylong conferences with MacArthur yesterday.

There was no clue to McCloy's subjects either of his discussions with MacArthur or of his telephone conversation with Washington. However, they presumably dealt with American occupation policy in Japan.

McCloy and his staff worked so late during the night that they cancelled scheduled inspection visits today to the American 1st cavalry division and to the Omori prison. Former Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo and other Japanese war criminals are being held in Omori pending trial.

McCloy is the highest ranking Washington official yet to visit Japan.

That represents 35 per cent of the 1,184,294 men in the Western Pacific, Far Eastern air force, mid-Pacific, 6th army, 8th army and 24th corps.

ZIONISTS DOUBT U. S. GOOD FAITH

FDR Letter to Arab King Arouses Protest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (U. P.)—Zionist leaders expressed "serious doubt" today that the United States was keeping its "promises" to back a Jewish national home in Palestine.

They said their concern was based on the recently published letter in which the late President Roosevelt told King Ibn Saud of Saudi, Arabia, that the United States would consult with the Arabs on any changes in our Palestinian policy.

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland, chairman of the American Zionist Emergency council, and Dr. Stephen S. Wise of New York, called on Secretary of State Byrnes yesterday and later made public copies of their eight-page protest.

Disclaim Arab Title

The statement asserted that the Arab states had neither "legal nor moral title" to the sovereignty over Palestine.

"The Arab states are in this matter without legal standing of any kind," they said, "and we submit that their attitude in recent years is certainly far from giving them a moral voice in this issue."

They charged pro-Zionist statements by U. S. presidents and party platforms "have not been translated into action" and that this country's "numerous acts and omissions have emboldened the Arab leaders."

The Roosevelt correspondence, they said, forced them to question U. S. sincerity.

"President Roosevelt's letter refers to assurances previously given to King Ibn Saud," the statement said. "The exact nature of these assurances is not disclosed, but, whatever their tenor, they would not be valid if inconsistent with the publicly stated objectives of American policy or the terms of the Palestine mandate."

Police said LeVaughn directed the shots at his wife, Inez, 29, as she seized her luggage and attempted to leave the hotel room, but missed her all four times.

He said he understood none of them was from the Atlantic fleet.

version" and called for a revamping of price-fixing formulas.

Senator Homer E. Capehart (R., Ind.) blamed the unemployment of "hundreds of thousands of people" on OPA because, he said, the agency:

1. "Hasn't processed cases fast enough—and hundreds of manufacturers haven't been given a price to sell at."

2. "In hundreds of instances has set prices which make manufacturers sell at a loss."

3. "In thousands of instances has set prices at which manufacturers break even, but at which they make no profit."

It all kept Price Chief Chester Bowles very busy. Yesterday he appeared before the senate banking committee and asked that price and rent controls be continued beyond June 30 next year, the date they expire by law.

Today, he and Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder were called before a small Senate business committee to testify on the administration's policy toward post-war construction. Tomorrow the banking committee again.
