Gambling kept him poor!

Canada Bill Jones was known as the cleverest three-card monte operator on the river, back in the heyday of the Mississippi's floating gamblers. He stayed poor, because his passion for gambling was too great.

Marooned one night in a Louisiana village, Canada Bill searched everywhere before finding a faro game in the back room of a barber shop. After a few plays, his partner warned him that the game was crooked. "I know it," Canada Bill replied, "but it's the only game in town."

Like Canada Bill Jones, you'll find the cards stacked against you, too, if you gamble your car against the weather. When the temperature drops suddenly, driving even a few miles without proper winter-conditioning, can cause costly damage.

Right now is none too soon to prepare your car for cold weather. Your Standard Oil Dealer is specially trained to do the job right.

Hal McIntyre's Show Opens Stage Season at the Circle

Civilians will hear the Hit Parade and then some in Hal McIntyre style this week as the Circle theater opens its stage show season.

Recently returned to the states from a European tour, Hal, his 17-piece orchestra, songsters and comedians give a varied program of swing, boogie and sentimental tunes.

Captivating Marcy McGuire, Hollywood singing and dancing star, is probably the highest point in the performance as she gives with "You Can't Have Everything" and then turns to sweetness with "Someone To Watch Over Me."

Whistling virtuoso Fred Lowery does "Indian Love Call," adding his own extra long cadenza that makes the audience hold its breath.

Other of his specialty numbers include a musical arrangement of dog calls from the Russian Wolf hound to the Indianapolis wolf. For a quick change of pace he does the finale of the William Tell overture. His partner, Dorothy Rae, sings her own tune, "Whistlin' Joe," and "The Sunny Side of the Street."

Timely "I'm Gonna Love That Guy" comes forth from Hal's featured song stylist, Ruth Gaylor, who encores with "The Man I Love."

Musical Comedy Film

Swinging a violin and a banjo, Comedian Joe Termini brings down a flood of laughter with his antics to the musical background of "St. Louis Blues" and "Don't Fence Me In."

On the sentimental side, swooners' row will enjoy Frank Lester's
