

IRAN DEMANDS RUSS MOVE OUT

Offers to Drop UN Fight If Russia Complies.

Russian army will be evacuated from all Iranian territory within the new time limit which can be fixed by the council at May 6," he said.

The Iranian letter to the security council revealed that on March 24 the new Soviet ambassador to Iran delivered three notes to the Iranian government in Tehran.

The first memo promised withdrawal of Soviet troops within five or six weeks and the memo itself had no conditions attached.

But the second and third notes raised the question of a joint Soviet-Iranian oil company for oil development in Northern Iran and the question of autonomy for Azerbaijan province.

Shortest Meeting

Today's council meeting was the shortest in the council's short life. It was called to order about two hours after the Soviet and Iranian replies to the council's request for clarification of Soviet-Iranian negotiations were delivered to United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie.

The Russians failed to give unequivocal assurances that their promised withdrawal of troops had no strings attached. The Iranians claimed that it did but offered to drop their charges if the Russians would withdraw by May 6, a date set previously by the Russians to get out of Iran.

On March 24, the Russians promised to complete evacuation within five or six weeks.

Russ Troop Removal 'In Full Swing'

TEHRAN, April 3 (U. P.).—Official Iranian and British reports today said the Red army's withdrawal from Iran was in full swing with Soviet troops crossing the frontier back into Russia and embarking on Caspian sea steamers for transport home.

The withdrawal by land, the reports said, was going on continuously from Meshed in northeast Iran across the Soviet frontier toward Ashkhabad, 125 miles to the north in the Turkoman Soviet republic.

Long columns of Soviet troops, the reports said, were pouring northward. Other detachments formerly stationed at Shahrud, 200 miles northeast of Tehran, were going aboard Caspian steamers at Bandar Shah. Other Soviet transports were reported at Pahlevi, also loading Red army troops.
