

94 STILL LOST IN TIDAL WAVE

Officials Hold Little Hope of Finding Any Alive.

HONOLULU, April 4 (U. P.).—The search continued today for 94 persons still missing following Monday's disastrous tidal waves, but army and navy officials held out little hope that any of them would be found alive.

Total dead and missing was 192, with 98 known dead, 450 injured and an estimated 10,000 left homeless. There were 87 known dead in the Hawaiian Islands, 10 drowned in the Aleutians and one in California.

All 94 missing are from the Hawaiian area. They were presumed to be pinned beneath the wreckage of beach homes or washed out to sea.

Surface craft flying boats scoured the seas off the Hawaiian coast in search of survivors, but officials were doubtful that any of the missing could have remained afloat this long.

Military and civil agencies cared for refugees left homeless by the seismic waves that swept across the broad Pacific from the U. S. mainland to Japan and from the Aleutians to the coast of Chile. The waves were touched off by earthquakes in the Aleutians deep off the coast of Alaska.

Small tidal waves, believed to have been the result of the Pacific disturbances, washed against the east and north coasts of New Zealand and Australia yesterday, the Australian radio reported. No damage resulted but in some places waves eight feet high swept up rivers from the coast.

The long exposed beaches of the island of Hawaii were hardest hit, and survivors told how the huge, green wall of water swirled in, smashed cottages into kindling wood and carried helpless women and children with it when it reached out beyond the treacherous, razor-sharp coral reefs.

Property damage was unofficially estimated at between $10,000,000 and $30,000,000.

Leo T. Brown Announces In G. O. P. Prosecutor Race

Offering a three-point program for law enforcement, Leo T. Brown, deputy prosecutor in charge of grand jury investigations, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for prosecutor.

He pledged: ONE: Strict enforcement of laws against drunken driving, urging a new law that would make it a felony for a driver to continue to operate a car while his license is suspended.

TWO: Vigorous prosecution of persons caught carrying guns without permits on the ground that they are potential killers although they may not be criminals at heart.

THREE: Invoking the limit of the law against habitual criminals, sentencing them to life imprisonment upon conviction of a third felony.

Would Create Felony

"Enforcement of laws provided against crimes in these three classifications, in my opinion, will go far toward curbing the crime wave we have witnessed since the close of the war," Mr. Brown said.

"Too frequently a conviction does not keep drunken drivers off the streets during the periods of license suspension," he said. "We can correct this evil by enactment of a law, making it a felony to drive a vehicle during the period of suspension. Under present laws, the offense is only a misdemeanor."

Eighth Ward Chairman

Mr. Brown has been active in Republican politics here for 20 years, serving 12 years as precinct committeeman and has been chairman of the eighth ward for eight years.

He is a veteran of world war I, having served in the 135th army engineers.

He attended Indiana university and received his law degree from

ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT BOUGHT FOR $50,000

NEW YORK, April 4 (U. P.).—Dr. Abraham S. W. Rosenbach, Philadelphia, bibliophile and collector, purchased the original manuscript of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" yesterday for $50,000, or $25,250 less than he paid for it in London in 1928.

He purchased the 92-page manuscript at the Parke-Bernet galleries where the collection of the late Eldridge R. Johnson, founder of the Victor Talking Machine Co., Camden, N. J., was on sale.

Mr. Rosenbach had sold the manuscript to Mr. Johnson shortly after he returned from London in 1928 for an undisclosed sum.

GUARD, RESERVE ASK RETIREMENT PAY

WASHINGTON, April 4 (U. P.).—Representatives of army reserve and national guard officers' organizations have asked congress to provide retirement pay benefits for non-professional soldiers.

They told a senate military affairs subcommittee that retirement pay to reserve and national guard officers would encourage participation of civilians in peacetime military training programs. They recommended this program of payments: ONE: Reserve and national guard officers reaching 60 years of age would be eligible if they have served a total of 20 years inactive and active duty. Of the 20-year total, two years would have to be spent on active duty.

TWO: Payments would be computed at 2 per cent of their base pay in the highest rank held multiplied by their number of years' service, not to exceed 30 years. Thus a 60-year-old non-professional officer with 20 years total service would receive 40 per cent of the yearly pay for his highest rank.

Baseball Group Fires On Park Board Fee Proposal

By LARRY STILLERMAN.

The park board is churning through some choppy water all because the high command issued traveling orders through a wrong latitude.

And that latitude is approximately $66,000 off the main course, the park board leaders insist. To get back on course, the park department has increased swimming fees this summer 5 cents, upped golf charges $2.50 and contemplates nicking amateur ball players 25 cents everytime they step on public park diamonds.

The Federation of Civic Clubs recently fired a broadside and the Indianapolis Amateur Baseball association plans to send the ship listing further at a meeting in the park's main cabin at 7:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

Brown on Vacation

At that tentative set meeting, the I. A. B. A. will formally present a resolution adopted last night in which club members and officials are "unalterably opposed to raising additional funds by charging fees to play on public financed and maintained park diamonds."

The association refused to meet with E. T. Lacey and A. Mark Cowen, park department divisional superintendents, saying they would only present their grievance to Paul V. Brown, park board director, when he returns from a week's vacation "somewhere in Florida."

"This association has performed for 34 years without having to pay for playing on public diamonds," Dale Miller, the association secretary, declared. "We refuse to compromise on any fee plan."

Threatens to End League

Threatening to dissolve the amateur adult baseball leagues, Mr. Miller pointed out that any baseball levy would ultimately lead to charging for tennis, horseshoe pitching and "charges even to enter the parks."

However, the park board is fully armed for the coming verbal battle.

Before starting this year, the park board asked the high command budget making committee for $914,731 operational finances.

In the effort to cut all tax expenses for 1946, the "committee" reduced Mr. Brown's appeal to $811,094 or down to an approximate $897 on the city civil tax rate. However, deciding that this was still too high for the operation of park board activities, the council further reduced the board's appropriation.

Off Main Course

And this is where the fund was tossed $66,000 off the main course. The board originally estimated revenue from fees at approximately $125,900. To slice the tax rate another penny, the budget committee added $66,000 to the estimated income.

Mr. Brown and his mates estimate total receipts this year at $710,183 or approximately $100,000 below the budget appropriation.

With the operation of Broad Ripple park, purchased last year, and increased swimming and golf rates, the estimated deficit will be cut to approximately $66,000 . . . again.

Heated Battle Likely

"To offset any possible running into the red," we've got to increase fees," say park board spokesmen.

However, governmental research figures show that very seldom does any city department totally expend its appropriation. Return of budget appropriations has ranged to as high as 10 and 11 per cent in park department allotments, reports show.

And with this return on an $811,094 budget appropriation, the accrued "savings" should be approximately $80,000 and that eliminates the need for increased fees, opponents say.

At any rate, there promises to be a heated battle Wednesday over the issues involved.

SUSAN HAYWARD IS NO. 1 REAL REDHEAD

HOLLYWOOD, April 4 (U. P.).—Make-up expert Buddy Westmore today picked Susan Hayward as the nation's No. 1 redhead—born, not dyed.

He told the Coiffure Creation Council of New York, which gave the palm to Rita Hayworth, to take a closer look.

"Her hair was black as ink when her name was Marguerita Carmen Cansino," he said.

"But there's not an artificial strand in Miss Hayward's red head."
