

Tribe Drops Logan, Derringer And English

Huge Housecleaning Occurs At Victory Field; Several Farmhands Are Transferred

By EDDIE ASH, Times Sports Editor

The Indianapolis Indians today announced the release of a large group of players and three favorites at Victory field are included, namely, Bob Logan, pitcher-coach, pitcher Paul Derringer, and infielder-outfielder Gil English.

Including Tribe farmhands, six players were released outright and five sold to other minor league clubs. These include pitcher Wootie Rich, sold to Little Rock; infielder Joe Alpert, sold to Albany; outfielder Stanley Mazay, sold to Albany; infielder Frank Stauter, sold to Selma, Ala.; pitcher-outfielder Frank Wilkie, sold to Selma; outfielder Chet Clemens, released outright, and infielder Norm Wallen, released outright. The last two named did not play ball this year.

It marks one of the biggest player housecleanings in one stroke in the history of the Indianapolis ball club. But it's in line with the Tribe management's desire to replace veterans with younger blood and to take out of the many players transferred to Indianapolis by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

American association clubs are permitted 45 players on the off-season reserve list and Tribe Treasurer Al Schlensker said the current roster is already at 45. Therefore, if additional players are received, there will be more releases or sales. Bob Logan departs the Indians after a long stretch of years in a Tribe uniform. He was purchased from the Oklahoma City late in 1931 and has been around here most of the time since. He resides in Indianapolis.

In 1932, the southpaw was optioned to Knoxville. Since that year, the Indians gave him five chances to advance to the majors but he always was sent back after brief trials. He was looked over by five big league clubs, Brooklyn, Detroit, Chicago Cubs, Reds and Boston Braves.

Logan was off and on the Tribe roster 15 years but an automobile accident last winter finally impaired his effectiveness on the mound and he didn't pitch often this year.

The veteran Gil English has been

Maybe Our Tribe Will Obtain Nagy

In Pittsburgh today, the Pirates' management announced the purchase of pitcher Steve Nagy, southpaw, from the Montreal pennant winners of the International League. He pitched the Royals to 17 victories as against four defeats in regular season play.

It was announced that the Buccaneers purchased the left-hander for a "very substantial sum of money" and one player, who will be sent to the Royals next spring.

All of which brightens the Indianapolis Indians' 1947 picture. In the event Nagy fails to make the big league grade with the Pirates, it is believed he will be optioned to Indianapolis. And a star southpaw is what the Indians sorely needed in 1946.

with the Indians several seasons, but he was sidelined a lot the past campaign and was not listed as a regular.

"Com Paul" Derringer spent just the one season with the Redskins. Treasurer Schlensker said that the fact that these veterans have been released doesn't mean that they won't catch on elsewhere in the big minors, but he said that by making the players free agents now, they will have ample time to negotiate their own deals.

The players sold to Albany and Selma will remain in the Pittsburgh-Indianapolis chain since these two clubs were already affiliated with the Pirates before Frank E. McKinney, Tribe part owner and vice president, became part owner and president of the Pittsburgh club.

Filchock Okay On His Own

Frank Filchock

By UNITED PRESS

Frank Filchock, former Indiana university star who spent six years in the shadow of Sammy Baugh on the Washington Redskins before asking for a release and a chance to star on his own, appeared today to have made a good move for himself and the New York Giants.

He was the important figure in the Giants' 17 to 0 victory over the Boston Yanks last night in the season-opener for both teams, although he didn't score a point. Filchock, a fine passer, set up the first touchdown on a 56-yard run from a passing formation, ran for another score that was called back because of a penalty, and completed six of 12 passes for 45 yards. Merle Hapes cracked the line for both Giant touchdowns, and Ken Strong added two conversions and a 36-yard field goal.

Boston was weak in both running and passing. Paul Governali carried 18 tosses, most of them accurate, but receivers dropped them. Twice the Yanks were stopped on the Giant five-yard line.

High School Bowling Seen As Delinquency Preventive

By BERNARD HARMON

Bowling will soon become one of the city's chief weapons in combatting juvenile delinquency, if the plans outlined by Milton Raymer, executive secretary and director of the American high school bowling congress, at a luncheon yesterday materialize.

Raymer, former Chicago high school athletic director, spoke before a gathering of bowling leaders and school officials on the prospects of organizing intra-mural and interscholastic tenpin loops among local high school students.

He outlined the origin of the high school congress and cited opportunities of local students to become affiliated. He urged local bowling alley operators to organize leagues, to be supervised by teachers, athletic directors and coaches.

Such circuits would elect officers from their own ranks, affording them opportunity to become familiar with the executive work carried on by bowling leagues. Organization of these leagues would allow students, both boys and girls, to compete in the great indoor sport and participate in congress-sponsored tournaments.

He explained that all alleys housing such leagues must have official sanction of the high school congress officials, who thoroughly investigate existing conditions to make sure the environment is of highest caliber. No leagues are permitted in bowling establishments with bars, cocktail lounges or gambling devices.

Ted's Elbow 'Very Sore'

BOSTON, Oct. 2 (U. P.).—Gangling Ted Williams, who is certain he'll be ready for the world series next Sunday, sat disconsolately on the sidelines today with a "very sore" elbow while his Boston Red Sox teammates prepared to resume their series with the American league all-stars.

Williams sustained his first injury of the season yesterday in a game against the all-stars when he was hit on the right elbow by a pitch thrown by Milton (Mickey) Haefner of the Washington Senators. The Red Sox slugger was removed from the game and sent to the hospital where X-rays disclosed that no bones were broken.

The Boston outfielder will not play any more exhibition games. Red Sox officials said he would be ready to play in the world series. The Red Sox won yesterday's game, 2-0.
