

State Group Of Y. W. C. A. To Meet

All-Day Session
To Be Friday

The public affairs section of the state Young Women's Christian association will meet all day Friday in Blue Triangle hall, the Y. W. C. A. residence. Mrs. William O. Sneathen of the Indianapolis metropolitan board, is chairman of the state conference.

Leading discussion during the all-day meeting will be Mrs. P. H. Ziegler, chairman of public affairs at the Phyllis Wheatley branch, "Pre-emption Activities"; Prof. Garrett A. Eppley, Indiana university, "Recreation in Indiana"; and Mrs. Felix Vonnegut, Central Y. W. C. A., "Resource Materials."

"What Do We Do Today to Achieve for Tomorrow?" will be the theme of the afternoon sessions. Miss Bertha Leming, director of social service in public schools, will lead a panel discussion. Participating will be Mrs. Lionel Artis and Miss Martha Ziegler with Sidney Markey acting as moderator. Mr. Markey is director of the Indianapolis Council of Social Agencies.

Couple Wed In Church

St. Patrick's Catholic church was the scene, at 9 a. m. Saturday, of the wedding of Miss Rosemary Catherine Bauer and Raymond Bernard Esselborn. The Rev. Fr. Edward C. Bauer, brother of the bride, officiated.

Louis W. Bauer, 1514 N. Alabama st., is the father of the bride.

A gown of candlelight satin was worn by the bride with a fingertip veil. A tiara of net and seed pearls caught the veil and her bouquet of white roses.

Miss Irene Shanahan, maid of honor, wore light blue taffeta and net, and Miss Mary Esselborn, bridesmaid and sister of the bridegroom, wore pink taffeta and net. Robert Esselborn was his brother's best man and Richard L. Bauer, brother of the bride, and Alfred L. Shewman were ushers.

A wedding breakfast was held at the Marott hotel followed by a reception in the home of the bride's father. The couple left on a wedding trip to Chicago and will be at home at 1802 S. Talbot st.

Wedding Vows Are Read

Wedding vows united Miss Mary Helen Sustersick and William L. Linder in a 9 o'clock ceremony Saturday morning in the Holy Trinity Catholic church. The Rev. Fr. Edward Bockhold officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sustersick, 721 N. Sharon ave., and Mr. and Mrs. William Lawrence Linder, 272 N. Lynn st., are parents of the couple.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with a fingertip veil and cascade bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Herman Schmitt, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and wore a gown of silk flesh sheer. Mrs. Robert Everett, Misses Agnes Rajer, Josephine Hren, Flora Linder and Gina Santarossa were bridesmaids. They wore gowns in pink, yellow and green.

The best man was Mr. Schmitt and ushers were Frank Zakrzyski, Robert Cunningham, Robert Higgs, J. R. Glaze and Claude Shillington.

There was a reception in the home of the bride's parents Saturday evening.

Latreian Program

Mrs. E. W. Sherwood, 5009 Washington blvd., will be the hostess at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow for a meeting of the Alpha Latreian club. Wayne Guthrie, city editor of the Indianapolis News, will speak on "Ring-side at Bikini."

Flirtatious Styles Match the 'Let's-Dress-Up' Mood

By LOUISE FLETCHER

IT SEEMS AS IF practically all the designers, before they picked up sketching pencils or shears to work on fall and winter clothes, had heard of the injunction, "Look pretty, please."

At any rate, there is a bigger percentage of "let's-dress-up" garments around this season—evening dresses and suits in long or short versions, theater and cocktail outfits and scene-stealing afternoon dresses.

Short evening dresses make up in glitter and swish what they lack in length. In silhouette they range from classic sheaths to wide-skirted period styles whose hems are edged with lace or flip up to show a provocative petticoat.

Short evening dresses make up in glitter and swish what they lack in length. In silhouette they range from classic sheaths to wide-skirted period styles whose hems are edged with lace or flip up to show a provocative petticoat.

ONE OF THE SHEATH STYLES is pictured (left). A Milmont design, it is reminiscent of the elegance of the Twenties. It is heavily beaded, designed to wear for "first nights" or important dinners.

Midriff shirring molds the torso and releases soft fullness in the sheath-slim skirt. The powder-dull texture of the fabric, a Bur-Mil rayon faille crepe, provides a rich background for shimmering beadwork.

Suits and dresses for theater or cocktail wear or de luxe restaurant dining can be recognized by the sumptuousness of their fabric and handling. Take Hattie Carnegie's new silhouette for cafe hour (center).

THE FABRIC IS A SHIMMERING faille crepe. Emphasis is on the rounded contour for shoulders and hips. Shirring is deftly handled to lend a symmetrical effect to the tight bodice and the skirt. Afternoon dresses have new importance in the fall and winter wardrobe, too, matching up with the "fossier" functions which were resumed after the war.

Typical of these is a Milgrim design (right)—an interpretation of the sculptured silhouette for afternoon wear. Clustered side-swept fullness, caught up with jeweled tabs, softens the swathed figure-molding lines. The shoulders are broadened with a new shirred-sleeve treatment. And the fabric, again, is a heavy-falling Bur-Mil faille crepe.

All three dresses are shown by Block's.

DRAX Service

The NEW Water-Repellency
for Garments

Yes, our new DRAX service will make your garments water-repellent and weather-resistant and give them added protection from dirt and soil!

DRAX is a new finish for rainwear and sportswear that gives invisible protection to wearables with WAX! Actually, tiny particles of DRAX—so small you can neither see nor feel them—surround each fiber of the fabric, making it non-absorbent and resistant to dirt and soil!

DRAX protects fabric freshness—keeps garments clean and new-looking longer! Remember, when you send your clothes in for dry cleaning, it costs a little more to have them DRAXed—but is WORTH more—three ways: (1) Water-repellency; (2) longer wear before the next cleaning; (3) greater protection from soil.
