Inflation Peril Can't Be Blamed On Republicans, Taft Says

Noted Evangelist Addresses Howe High School Students

GOLDEN WEDDING DATE TO BE MARKED

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Genier, 918 Iowa st., will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with an open house from 2 to 5 p. m. Sunday. They were married in Xenia, O. Oct. 22, 1896 and are the parents of eight children and grandparents of 16 grandchildren.

By EMMA RIVERS MILNER
Times Church Editor

"The difficulty with churches today is that they are beautifully vague instead of vitally definite."

"People know everything about life, but how to live it."

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, internationally-known evangelist, made the above "diagnosis" in an interview. He is in the city to address the youth mission sponsored by the United Christian Youth council of the Indianapolis Church federation.

The mission will come to a climax with a mass meeting in the Butler Field House at 7:45 p. m. tomorrow when 10,000 young people of all denominations are expected to be present.

Hold Prayer Vigil

Local church folk are holding an all-day prayer vigil for the success of the meeting.

By way of illustrating the public's desire for a practical religious belief to live by and how to gratify that desire, Dr. Jones described an incident in his preaching career.

"A lawyer came up to me at the close of a service club meeting, seized my hand in a vise-like grip and asked, 'Man, how?' Dr. Jones recalled. 'It's at the place of the how' where the modern church is weak."

The movements answering the word 'how' in some form are the movements which are gripping the world.

Seeking Answer
"In the youth mission, we are trying to answer that word, 'how.' And the immediate response of youth and the older generation shows that we have touched an exposed nerve. People want to know how to gear into a power not their own to live by."

"For they know everything about life but how to live it."

The reaction of "teen-agers" to Dr. Jones' definite and specific suggestions concerning how to fit yourself into a religious way of living was illustrated by 1400 Howe high school students yesterday.

They crowded into the assembly hall to attend the meeting sponsored by the Senior and Beta Hi-Y groups. Afterward, approximately 60 of them withdrew to a classroom where they were given the privilege of asking Dr. Jones questions.

Offers Social Expression

"Can't you lead just as good a Christian life outside the church as in it?" one wished to know.

Dr. Jones told him that everybody needs a social expression for his life; the church offers a social expression for the religious life.

A Christian trying to carry on outside the church will likely fail to "glow" just as a coat of fire will become cold when removed from other live coals on the hearth.

"How do you find a pattern for your life?" was another question.

The evangelist answered that "religion is not lifting yourself by your boot straps. With the adoption of the religious life, the person changes from being self-centered to being Christ-centered."

"How can you obtain a faith in every one?" some one asked.

"You gain faith in others by having a faith beyond people. Dr. Jones responded, "a faith beyond people is a faith in God. You can't believe in people long without a faith in something more."

In the address which brought out the questions, Dr. Jones talked to the young people about finding a life work, a life companion and a philosophy for life.

Discusses Philosophy

He urged careful and solemn thought and advice of others in deciding upon a life work. As for marriage, if it's love at first sight that is about to influence them, he advised that they "take another look."

The remainder of the address was devoted to the matter of a philosophy of life.

He pointed out that science and religion must go hand in hand today, with religion grasped by the mind. He recalled that Jesus told us "to love the Lord, thy God . . . and thy neighbor as thyself."

"With the love of God and man behind science, we can re-make the world."

Dr. Jones was introduced by Hugh Morellon, president of the Senior Hi-Y. Prof. Charles M. Sharp, Howe principal, presided.

DISABLED VETERANS OFFERED ARMY JOBS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (U. P.)—The army has announced it will recruit 5000 partially disabled veterans and offer them a career.

Men who have an honorable discharge and received their wounds in honorable service will be eligible for re-enlistment to serve in jobs that will free physically-able soldiers for more strenuous duty, the army said.

Positions open to partially disabled veterans include Diesel and automobile mechanic, clerk, postal clerk, dental technician, draftsman, electrician, machinist, motion picture projectionist, sign painter, shoe repairman, stenographer, tailor, teletype operator, and many other semi-skilled jobs.

Truman Angry Because GOP Was Right, Senator Asserts; Foresees Deficit of $25 Billion

DECATUR, Ill., Oct. 17 (U. P.)—Senator Robert A. Taft (R. O.) has charged President Truman with attempting to blame the Republicans for a threatened inflation which, he said, could surpass that which followed world war I.

Mr. Taft, a leading contender for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, told a G. O. P. rally last night that administration policies, if not halted, would reduce the value of the dollar by 40 per cent.

Only election of a Republican congress Nov. 5 can prevent collapse of the nation's economy, he said.

Angry at Farmers Too

Mr. Taft asserted that Mr. Truman, in lifting price controls on meat, "finally has followed the policy which the Republicans advocated six months ago."

The President, he said, "is terribly angry at the Republicans for being right."

"He is angry at the farmer for asking the same increase in price so freely granted in wages to employees," Mr. Taft said.

"He is going to punish them (the farmers) by importing large quantities of Mexican cattle when we already have more cattle in this country than ever before."

He contended, however, that the Republicans could not be blamed because the Democrats held a majority in both houses of congress.

Opposes "Paying Out Money"

Mr. Taft predicted the national deficit for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1947, would be at least $5 billion instead of the $1,900,000 estimated by the treasury, and called for reduction of the national budget to approximately $25 billion.

The $25 billion figure could be reached, he said, within the estimates of the war and navy departments "but it can't be reached unless we stop passing out money to foreign nations."

STRAUSS SAYS:

He said continuation of the foreign lending program would "build up an artificial export trade and at the same time force up prices for many types of goods needed in this country."

Sees Inflation Peril

Mr. Taft blamed the inflation threat on the policy of the Democratic administration which, he declared, has permitted wages and salaries to rise to such a point that "they never can be adjusted downward."

"The country today," he said, "is in the midst of a serious inflation brought about by the policies of the Truman administration. Much more inflation threatens as a result of this policy."

"The cost of living has now reached 45 per cent over the pre-war level. The average hourly wage rate of factory workers is 58 per cent over the pre-war level. In view of this fact, the price of manufactured goods will have to be adjusted upward."

The net result, he said, "is a great inflation, which, in the end, certainly will reduce the value of the dollar by 40 per cent."

Rush Work on Downtown GOP Offices

County Republicans today were working "hammer and tongs" to get their new headquarters in shape, as well as to win the general election Nov. 5.

Furniture was being moved into the former J. Strauss & Co. store, 37 W. Washington st., where the central committee offices will be located until after the election.

George Heiny, secretary, announced...

Only the east side of the building is being used. The committee is keeping its other office at 336 K. of P. bldg., Mr. Heiny added.

An official opening of the new premises will be held next week, the day to be announced later.

STOLE BICYCLES FOR A THRILL

Youth Gave All but Four to Poor Children.

The story of a bicycle thief with an affection for poor children will be heard in municipal court 4 next week. When arrested on vagrancy charges, he gave his name to police as James Stoltz, 22, of 1322 W. Market st.

He said he stole 17 bicycles and gave all but four to shabby, small youngsters because he felt sorry for them.

Four he sold for $30. Stoltz' activities were discovered earlier in the week by Detective Charles M. Russell, who was investigating another case in the W. Market st. neighborhood when he smelled fresh paint as he passed by a house.

Detective Russell was curious. He walked around the house and found Stoltz, brush in hand, painting a number of bikes in his back yard. Stoltz professed his guilt.

He told the detective he had taken the bicycles from parks and in front of theaters over a period of three months.

"I did it for the thrill," said Stoltz as he laid down his brush and started off to headquarters with Detective Russell.
