drill bits and a brace; one long chisel and a six-pound sledge hammer.

Cold weather and deep snow conspired to discourage widespread operations of Indianapolis' underworld, but one burglar made a $100 haul at the Haller Furniture Co., 800 N. Senate ave.

He entered through a warehouse next door, smashed the combination off the Haller safe and took the cash between the time that Louis V. Hess, the owner, left at 7 p. m., and Custodian Frank Hillgoss, 63, arrived at 11 p. m.

Early yesterday morning, Mrs. Homer Carrigan, 50, of 1821 1/2 N. New Jersey st., was asked for a dime by a teen-age panhandler as she halted her car at 18th and Ingram sts.

NIGHT CLUB IN ASHES—Because water pressure was low firemen were unable to control flames that destroyed Castle Barn supper club on Highway 67 east of Indianapolis Saturday night. All 300 patrons escaped without injury.

Castle Barn Supper Club Burned; 300 Patrons Safe

Castle Barn, popular suburban supper club for many years on Highway 67 eight miles east of Indianapolis, is in ruins.

Fire that started in the furnace room while more than 300 patrons were dining and dancing Saturday night, swept through the building. Firemen from Lawrence, Ft. Har-ison and Indianapolis were unable to control it.

Firemen were handicapped by lack of water pressure. They said the pressure was only sufficient for two lines of hose and that was not enough to head off the flames after they got started through the dry timbers.

Strong, cold winds sent temperatures in the nation's capital skidding to the low 30's. But skies were reported clearing after light snows and rains there yesterday.

The New York City sanitation department had 2700 men and 500 pieces of equipment cleaning the streets last night after 11 inches of snow fell over the week-end.

Only one spot in the nation, Bemidji, Minn., reported sub-zero temperatures today. The mercury
