Employers Battle Against Race Bias

Fisk Institute Reveals Strides

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Times Special Writer
NASHVILLE, July 10.—The professional do-gooders and a handful of enlightened labor leaders get all the publicity for combatting the practice of racial discrimination in employment and upgrading of workers.

But an increasing number of corporate employers are taking positive action against discrimination.

For reasons not apparent to the writer, these corporations have not widely publicized their efforts to give employment opportunities to workers from the minority groups (principally Negroes).

Ford Company Acts
But they have been mentioned frequently and favorably at the academic sessions of the fourth annual race relations institute at Fisk university, now in session.

The International Harvester Co. it appears from these sessions, has taken steps toward industrial democracy that are little short of revolutionary for a supposedly "southern" corporation.

Other employers whose names have cropped up in the Fisk university discussions because of their positive steps to end job discrimination are:

Woman's Lecturer
The Ford Motor Co., Aluminum Corp. of America, Willard Storage Battery Co., Western Electric, Curran-Wright and Bell Aircraft corporations, Briggs Body Co., The Winchester Repeating Arms Co., and Browne & Sharpe Manufacturing Co.

Miss Sara E. Southall of the personnel department of the Harvester Co., came here from Chicago to lecture at the Fisk institute.
