No Flu Lights For Congress—The Old Remedies Must Do

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (UPI)—The White House can play with Buck Rogers anti-cold gadgets to its heart's content but Congress isn't having any, thank you.

"It's not that the legislators object to setting up batteries of ultra-violet lamps to protect the President against flu germs. It's just that they prefer the good, old-fashioned remedies."

"We experimented with ultra-violet lights and they didn't work so well," said Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician. "They might be of experiments made at that time, all right in the White House but it was discovered that so much our architecture is different and we power would be needed to make have to take a different approach." Then effective they would be dangerous. Dr. Calver said ultra-violet lights gerous.

"That's because we would have to cover such large spaces with the ultra-violet rays," he explained. "In the White House, which consists of a number of much smaller rooms, they don't have the problem of flooding large spaces."

Practical in White House

The White House was recently equipped with ultra-violet ray lights to guard the President's health. His physicians say they have reduced the bacterial content of the air to a considerable degree.

Dr. Calver, who is responsible for the health of the nation's legislators, has devised "ten commandments" of health to ward off colds.

He has them displayed prominently in the elevators and offices of the Capitol buildings. They are:

ONE: Keep away from those already infected.

TWO: Dress sensibly according to the temperature and weather.

THREE: Keep out of stuffy, crowded, overheated places.

TEN: Check up occasionally.

Body of Girl, 8, Found on Porch

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2 (UPI)—The battered body of an 8-year-old girl was found on a porch not far from her home last night and the coroner's office today was investigating the possibility she had been murdered.

The girl, Sheila Ann Tuley, was found on a neighbor's porch less than three hours after she had been reported missing by her father. She had sent her out for cigarettes to a nearby store.

Police said the coroner's office found what appeared to be stab wounds in the girl's back and head.

Electric BlanketsIn Simmons Co. Loot

More than $600 in merchandise, including $517 in electric blankets, was taken from the Simmons Co. bed manufacturers, 212 W. McCarty St., last night, officials told Burglars also took $60 worth of upholstery materials, a $15 jacket and $10 in stamps.

Cruikshank Editor

LONDON, Jan. 2 (UPI)—The liberal morning newspaper News Chronicle announced last night that R. J. Cruikshank, wartime director of the American division of the Ministry of Information, had been appointed editor. He succeeds Gerald Barry, resigned.

Florist, Barber and Mayor Has Time to Go FishingHe's Railroaded Into Town Office

By JAMES E. HELBERT
NEA Staff Writer

ENGLEWOOD, O. Jan. 2—Used to be that Clyde Fettters thought maybe he was just about the busiest man in this village of 531 population 12 miles north of Dayton. Now he's sure of it.

About the time he'd get to cutting a nice bunch of chrysanthemums for a customer and doing them up real fancy with a ribbon, some fellow who overslept would charge in and demand a 15-minute shave in 100 seconds flat.

"Boy, I thought I had plenty to keep me jumping them, but that's before they slipped one over on me," said Mr. Fettters.

The one "they slipped over" on the town's combination barber-florist was to elect him mayor. And he didn't know he was even running. Lots of other people didn't either.

Anyway, no one filed for the office at the recent election and that included Ira Warner, who had held the job several years and told friends he was "plumb sick and tired of it . . . all work and no play."

So voters wrote in the names of 14 candidates and Mr. Fettters got 27 votes. His nearest competitor received nine.

BUSY FELLOW—"They slipped one over on me," says Clyde Fettters, the busiest man in Englewood, O.

Mr. Fettters didn't seek the office, but today among his razors and hair pots, hair tonic and enriched dirt, he says that he has a plan to bring more entertainment to Englewood. Lots of other people didn't either.
