Tech Faces Washington Five Tonight

City Champs Lose At Columbus

Tonight's Schedule

Manual vs. Sacred Heart at Cathedral.
Washington at Tech.

Tech High School will seek revenge for its city tournament defeat when the East Siders clash tonight with Washington on Tech's home floor.

Washington, triumphant over Manual last night, 50 to 44, defeated Tech, 50 to 32, in the city tournament last month.

Tech snared its second North Central Conference victory in three starts last night defeating Richmond here, 43 to 39, with a strong second-half rally. Gordon King, Tech guard, scored 20 points.

Center Bill Niemann threw in 20 points for Washington as the Continentals built up a 13-point advantage and then allowed subs to finish the game. Don Liggett was Manual's only scoring threat with 13 points.

City Champs Lose

Shortridge came out on the short end of a rough 40-39 fracas at Columbus. Dick Lacy of the Blue Devils and Lin Smith of the visitors both were banished for unnecessary roughness. A free-throw shot in the final 13 seconds spoiled a victory for the Indianapolis city champions. Chuck Keever tallied 14 points for Shortridge.

Sacred Heart, which faces Manual tonight at the Cathedral gym, was handed its fourth defeat last night, losing at Whitestown, 50 to 25, while Crispus Attucks had an easy time here with Pine Village, 42 to 28.

A tip-in by Norm Muller and Jim Roberts' free throw enabled Cathedral to eke out a close 35-34 decision over Greenfield on the Irish floor.

Warren Central continued to show off its county dominance by outscoring Beech Grove, 56 to 44. Franklin Township added misery to Pike Township's victory-less record, thumping the small county foe, 59 to 33, while Ben Davis took a 47-28 lacing at Terre Haute Gerstmeyer.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE ASH

DARK BRIGHTENS BRAVES . . . Take it from Billy Southworth, the Boston Braves' manager . . . he's all set at shortstop for the new campaign in the National League. . . . The veteran skipper is confident that Alvin Dark, American Association graduate, will make the big league grade both in the field and at bat. . . . The rookie infielder set a fast pace in the A. A. last year and the league's baseball writers voted him the "recruit of the year." He hails from Louisiana State University and all 1947 A. A. managers tagged him as a slick playmaker in the shortfield and around the keystone . . . He also collected some hitting honors by batting .303 on top of leading the circuit in doubles and in runs scored. . . . He was a difficult man to keep off base and required a lot of alert watching when he did arrive. . . . Dark was the darling of Milwaukee Brewers fans. . . . The Brewers finished third in the regular race, won the playoffs and then annexed the Little World Series. . . . Young Dark was a factor in all of these achievements . . . In addition to starring in baseball at LSU, Alvin also was a football great and was especially gifted in throwing passes and in toting the pigskin. . . . He was a running back for the Bayou Tigers of Louisiana . . . The Braves put out a rich bonus to get Dark's signature on a contract and it looks as though they are on the point of collecting rich dividends.

Alvin Dark

AN OVERFLOWING BOWL . . . If the major professional football leagues . . . the National and All-America Conference . . . ever get together and send champ against champ, like in baseball, it would be a super attraction for any New Year's bowl. . . . It would result in a player pool of staggering proportions by filling up any stadium in the land. . . . It would have been Chicago Cardinals vs. Cleveland Browns the other day.

RICHARDS MONOPOLY . . . The Chicago Cubs' farm system has three lefthanded first basemen answering to the name of Richards. . . . Jack of Los Angeles is their top minor leaguer at that post. . . . Others are Jack of Springfield, Mass., and Fred of Fayetteville, N. C.

More Fans to See IHSAA Tourneys

By United Press

The Indianapolis High School Athletic Association disclosed today that nine auxiliary gymnasiums would be used to run off the sectionals for the 1948 Indiana high school basketball championships.

The use of the extra sites for the 37th annual Hoosier schoolboy classic will provide seating space for at least 25,000 additional fans and will boost this year's attendance to a new all-time high.

Commissioner L. V. Phillips, in making the announcement, said the [illegible] will be held at Butler [illegible] week-ends of competition by process of elimination, beginning with sectionals on Feb. 25. The four finalists will battle it out in the Butler University fieldhouse here on the afternoon and night of March 20.

Drawings for the tourney schedules will be made in the IHSAA offices here.

The four semi-final centers remained unchanged. They will again be held at the Butler fieldhouse, the Indiana University fieldhouse at Bloomington, the Purdue University fieldhouse at Lafayette and at the Muncie fieldhouse.

Sectional Changes

However, there were three changes in the group of 16 regional centers, to start rolling on March 6. Gyms to be used this year include those at Crawfordsville, which was played at Clinton last year; Jeffersonville, which was at Bedford; Martinsville, which traveled to Bloomington, and Shelbyville, which played at Greensburg.

Other regional centers were Evansville, Ft. Wayne, Hammond, Huntington, Indianapolis, Lafayette, Logansport, Marion, Muncie, Rushville, South Bend and Vincennes.

Phillips also said there were 12 changes in the sectional set-up this year.

The use of the auxiliary gyms, addition of new bleacher sections and the transfer of some sectionals to larger fieldhouses will permit a seating capacity of 366,500, a record attendance. Last year, almost 1,245,000 basketball-conscious Hoosiers witnessed the event.

The Indianapolis sectional and regional tourneys will be held in the Butler Fieldhouse.

Three of the Marion County high schools will play in sectionals out of the city. Pike Township travels to Lebanon; Franklin Township to Greenfield and Speedway to Danville.

Butler Takes Its Place Among State's Top Quintets

By BOB STRANAHAN

Your guess was as good as the next fellow's today whether or not the "Big Four Classic" will be an annual affair at the Fieldhouse. But if it never is repeated, Butler will have the distinction of having been the No. 1 team in the first one.

Tony Hinkle's well-trained Bulldogs defeated Indiana last night, 64-51, to win what ultimately turned out to be a four-way "tourney," since winners were paired against winners and losers against losers.

The "consolation" game went to Notre Dame over Purdue's Boilermakers, 42-40, and it was the second time in as many nights that a late Riveter rally fell short.

Mr. Hinkle is quite willing that the event be continued since only with the best material Butler has had in years.

Doyle, Maas Star

Sophomore Jim Doyle, late of Cathedral H. S., and Junior Charles Maas, a former Techster, were the chief gunners in the Bulldog attack against the Hoosiers last night and of course would be around for another year to plague the "Big Three."

Little Buckshot O'Brien, another handy fellow to have around when points are needed, also has a couple more seasons of eligibility and such first-class reliefers as Bob Evans and Bill Shepherd also will be available.

So Butler's willingness isn't at all unexpected. And any reluctance on the part of Indiana and Purdue to continue the show could easily be understood, despite the fact that close to 25,000 paid customers for the two-night affair passed through the gates. All four schools share in the receipts.

Second Game Close

A crowd estimated at more than 12,000 sat in on the windup last night and the fans were repaid with a couple of sizzling contests. The best basketball was played in the opener between the Bulldogs and I. U., but what the Irish-Purdue clash lacked in finesse it made up for intensity at the finish.

Charley Meyer and Don Ritter conducted the Crimson into an 8-2 lead in the first three minutes of the opener, but, after a bit of a rhubarb on techincal fouls, the Bulldogs rallied and Maas was the chief contributor as Indiana's lead was cut to a point at 10-9.

Lou Watson and Meyer shot Indiana into a 17-11 edge again before the midway point in the first half was reached, but Hinkle replaced Jerry Cranny with Shepherd and the Hope hooper came through in the clutches to pull Butler within four points at 20-16.

Score Is Tied

Doyle and Evans scored to knot things at 20-all with 5:56 of the half remaining. This combination continued to click and only a long shot by Meyer just before the close of the half succeeded in keeping Butler's lead to four points at 32-28.

Indiana nibbled away at this advantage as the second half got underway and succeeded in pulling on even terms at 38-all after about four minutes of play. Things still stayed close until the clock showed 7:50 remaining when Maas drove under to make it 48-44 for the Bulldogs.

Meyer fouled out with 6:48 left to play and the Hinklemen were on their way after that. Indiana needed the tall boy to get rebounds and began to fade perceptibly after he left the lineup. With 5:26 to go Shepherd went under alone to score and the Butler lead was at 10 points, 55-45. The Bulldogs profited in a flurry of fouling at the close and outscored Indiana in the final minutes 9 points to 6.

O'Halloran Saves Irish

Jim O'Halloran's field goal from the side of the court with only 26 seconds of play remaining proved the charming points for Notre Dame in the close Irish victory over the Boilermakers.

A little over a minute remained when John Goonen got his only two-pointer of the game to tie things up at 40-all and set the stage for O'Halloran's knockout punch. It looked as though he might be a "goat" as well as a hero in the waning seconds, though. Goonen fouled with only 20 seconds of play left and Purdue elected to take the ball out of bounds. Bill Berberian got one last long poke at the hoop but it fell off the rim and the game ended.

Purdue had fought an uphill battle to come from behind and take over a 39-37 leadership with just a little over three minutes to play. This was the only time that Purdue led and that for less than two minutes.

Notre Dame Goes Ahead

Kevin O'Shea and Leo Barnhorst started the Irish out in front and they rolled along to a 15-7 edge in the first 10 minutes as Purdue continued to experience the same poor firing luck that the Boilermakers ran into in the opening night against Butler.

Notre Dame punched the count to 20-8 in the first half before Purdue began to pick up a few points on free throws and from the field shooting of Dick Axness and Andy Butchko. Notre Dame still held a fairly comfortable 23-15 edge when they left the court at the intermission.

Barnhorst boosted the Irish to a 10-point advantage at the start of the second half, but Axness helped shoot the Riveters back into contention. Midway in the last half Norris Caudell and Howard Williams picked up fast fielders to pull Purdue up to within a point at 33-32. Axness tied it up at 34-all with 8:15 left to play, and it was ding-dong battling for the rest of the way until O'Halloran finally hauled the game out of the embers for the South Bend collegians.

Lou Moore, whose Blue Crown Spark Plug Specials ran one-two in last year's 500-Mile classic, was first in line today with a three-car entry for the 32d race next May 31.

The California race car designer announced that Mauri Rose, last year's winner, and Bill Holland, second-place finisher, will be his Blue Crown team again. His third car has no sponsor or driver yet but the fact that Moore has said the mount will be built for the 500-Mile and dirt track races, indicates that it will be a rear-drive. The other two speedwagons are front-wheel creations.

Last year Moore was the first man in Speedway history to have two cars come in ahead of the field.

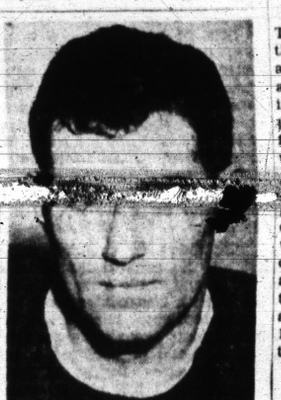
Caps, Flyers in 2 Week-end Games

The Indianapolis Capitals are looking for another four-point week-end beginning tonight when they open a home-and-home series with the Flyers in St. Louis.

The series offers the Caps an opportunity to pick up some valuable ground in their race for the Western Division lead. Pittsburgh, now holding down the top spot, is scheduled to meet the second-place Buffalo Bisons tonight at the Smoky City.

Although the Caps finished strong to defeat St. Louis, 4 to 2, a week ago, the Flyers are still a tough club to outskate. They have abandoned their roughhouse tactics and the result has shown up in scoring improvement. The Flyers have not played here since the season's opener which Indianapolis won, 6 to 3.

Tomorrow night's tilt will be the first of four straight games on the Coliseum ice. Before hitting the road again, the Caps will entertain Philadelphia, Jan. 8; St. Louis, Jan. 11, and New Haven, Jan. 15.



FACES FLYERS—Callum (Baldy) McKay, latest addition to the Indianapolis Capitals front lines, will join his teammates in a home-and-home series with the St. Louis Flyers this week-end. The Flyers will skate here tomorrow night.

Many hockey fans, both in the major league . . . the National . . . and the American . . . the No. 1 minor would like to have the overtime period restored to break tie games . . . Jack Adams, Detroit general manager, once said he suspected that some players were satisfied to settle for a tie rather than to skate overtime.
