Rabb Orders Study Of 166 Crime Cases

A general investigation into a heavy back-log of 166 criminal cases now pending in Criminal Court 2 was ordered by Judge Saul I. Rabb today.

He asked 36 attorneys representing defendants in all pending criminal cases to appear in Criminal Court 2 at 7 p. m. Jan. 22 for a review of bonds and the conduct of persons awaiting trial.

"Bonds of all defendants will be reviewed by the court at this time in order to determine if some of them should be increased in view of the defendants' conduct since the cases were filed," Judge Rabb said.

Judge Rabb said attorneys will be asked to prepare for trial of their cases immediately in order to clear up the heavy back-log.

"There has been talk of creating a third criminal court to handle the increase in cases," he said. "I am asking the attorneys to co-operate for early trials in the hope that a third court will not be necessary."

Kiwanis Officers Confer at Center

Officers from 37 Indiana Kiwanis Clubs met in the Indiana University Medical Center today for the annual mid-winter conference.

The Kiwanians also marked the 18th anniversary of the dedication of the Kiwanis Pavilion, which is an addition of the Riley Hospital for children.

The addition was financed by Kiwanis clubs of Indiana and was dedicated Jan. 7, 1930.

New state officers were presented and installed during the conference.

Ivor Robinson, past governor of the Kiwanis district, presided at the luncheon today, and Orville Maxfield, international trustee, appeared as a speaker.

Dr. John D. Van Nuys, dean of the Indiana University School of Medicine, spoke on "Kiwanis and Underprivileged Children."
